The Problem of Asia the celebrated American naval historian and strategist Alfred Thayer Mahan analyzes the geopolitical structure of world politics at the dawn of the twentieth century Mahan wrote his book at a time when the United States was emerging as a world power having recently acquired overseas territories as a result of its victory in the Spanish American War It was a call to America and its leaders to break with the intellectual tradition of Washington s Farewell Address and to recognize that U S security was tied to the balance of power in Asia as well as Europe For Mahan the immediate problem of Asia was the threat of Russian expansion into Central Europe Central Asia East Asia and the Middle East Persian Gulf region Mahan advocated an alliance consisting of Britain Japan Germany and the United States to counter the Russian threat He also discussed the rise of Japan as a world power the potential for China to emerge as a great power later in the twentieth century and the increasing importance of the Middle East Persian Gulf region to the global balance of power The Problem of Asia contains geopolitical insights and analyses that remain relevant today As recent events have reminded us the world of the twenty first century is still composed of nation states and non state actors that vigorously and sometimes brutally pursue their goals and self interests Mahan s approach in The Problem of Asia to the study and analysis of international politics in an anarchic world provides an important conceptual framework for understanding the fundamentals of global politics This edition of Mahan s classic work includes a lengthy introduction by Francis P Sempa that analyzes the book in the context of Mahan s life and other writings

The Problem of Asia and Its Effect Upon International Policies Alfred Thayer Mahan, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1900 edition Excerpt which may fairly be said to represent a policy realized in our past action and to affirm it for the present and future Our people have not now to evolve a policy but to decide whether that of the past justifies itself to their conscience to their sense of right and wrong and embodies their purpose of the present This still existent policy may I apprehend fairly be stated to be the determination to have equal commercial privileges and withal to respect to the utmost the integrity of Chinese territory and the individuality of the Chinese character in shaping its own government and polity We meddle not with their national affairs until they become internationally unendurable But in the very enunciation of this policy we are confronted by the fact that it is diverse from that of some other states as shown by their acts in special instances and plausibly to be inferred from their general course and obvious tendency Such divergence is not always necessarily a cause for alarm but it is for watchfulness and it must be taken into account as an element influential upon our own policy not perhaps in general conception or as towards China but in the matter of deciding upon the preparation we need and the freehandedness to be maintained in external relations of lesser importance Needless external preoccupations might greatly embarrass us in case divergence from our policy should develop into opposition to our interests or to those of civilization in general Briefly we cannot be sure of the commercial advantages known as the open door unless we are prepared to do our share in holding it open We cannot count upon respect for the territory of China unless we are ready to throw not only our moral influence but if Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature ,1901 A List of Books, Pamphlets and Maps Received at the Library of the Department of State, by Purchase, Exchange, and Gift, During the Period from ... to ... with References to Articles in Periodicals Relating to the Law of Nations, Diplomacy, and Political Science, Supplemented by a List of Periodicals and Newspapers Received United States. Indian Naval Strategy in the Twenty-first Century James R. Holmes, Andrew C. Winner, Toshi Yoshihara, 2009-04-02 This is the first academic study of India's emerging maritime strategy and offers a systematic analysis of the interplay between Western military thought and Indian maritime traditions By a quirk of historical fate Europe embarked on its Age of Discovery just as the main Asian powers were renouncing the sea ushering in centuries of Western dominance In the 21st century however Asian states are once again resuming a naval focus with both China and India dedicating some of their new found wealth to building powerful navies and coast guards and drawing up maritime strategies to govern the use of these forces The United States like the British Empire before it is attempting to manage these rising sea powers while preserving its maritime primacy This book probes how India looks at the sea what kind of strategy and seagoing forces New Delhi may craft in the coming years and how Indian leaders may use these forces It examines the material dimension but its major premise is that navies represent a physical expression of a society's history philosophical traditions and culture This book then ventures a comprehensive appraisal of Indian maritime strategy This book will be of interest to students of sea power strategic studies Indian politics and Asian Studies in general James R Holmes is an Associate Professor of Strategy at the U S Naval War College and a former U S Navy surface warfare officer Toshi Yoshihara is an Associate Professor in the Strategy and Policy Department at the Naval War College Andrew C Winner is Professor in the Strategic Research Department at the U S Naval War College Monthly Bulletin of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh ,1900
