Metacognitive Problem-Solving Strategies in Post-16 Physics Ronald Mazorodze,Michael J. Reiss,2019-09-20 This book reports on a study on physics problem solving in real classrooms situations Problem solving plays a pivotal role in the physics curriculum at all levels However physics students performance in problem solving all too often remains limited to basic routine problems with evidence of poor performance in solving problems that go beyond equation retrieval and substitution Adopting an action research methodology the study bridges the research practical divide by explicitly teaching physics problem solving strategies through collaborative group problem solving sessions embedded within the curriculum Data were collected using external assessments and video recordings of individual and collaborative group problem solving sessions by 16 18 year olds The analysis revealed a positive shift in the students problem solving patterns both at group and individual level Students demonstrated a deliberate well planned deployment of the taught strategies The marked positive shifts in collaborative competences cognitive competences metacognitive processing and increased self efficacy are positively correlated with attainment in problem solving in physics However this shift proved to be due to different mechanisms triggered in the different students , Resources in Education ,2001 Language Learning Strategies in

Independent Settings Stella Hurd,Tim Lewis,2008-10-03 Language learning strategies have been a topic of research for roughly three decades Broadly speaking that research has focused on classroom tuition predominantly at secondary level Increasingly however language learning occurs in independent settings whether at distance on Institution Wide Language Programmes IWLPs or in virtual environments Success in independent language learning is achieved by autonomous individuals with a capacity for self regulation Yet we still know relatively little about the specific means they use to learn effectively whether in terms of the affective strategies they employ to sustain motivation the metacognitive strategies required for planning monitoring and evaluating their learning or the specific cognitive strategies applied to difficult learning tasks These are all discussed and evaluated in Language Learning Strategies in Independent Settings The Handbook of Non-native English-speaking Engineers' Writing at the Workplace Juan Du, 2019-12-10 Based on 55 semi structured in depth interviews this book investigates 15 high tech engineering co op professionals writing experience in the workplace It shows how the digital age has had a marked impact on the engineers methods of communication at work and how on the job writing has affected engineers technical competence shaped their professional identities challenged their views on Chinese and English writing and hindered their success in the workplace The book identifies three aspects of writing practice engineers linguistic and literacy challenges the reasons behind these challenges and coping strategies which suggest that engineers are underprepared and lack necessary support in the workplace Lastly the study shows that engineers need to engage in technical literacy through on the job writing so that they can fully deal with workplace discourse and socialize with diverse professional groups Since the sample group interviewed in this book is engineers who studied at universities in the United States and have a foot in the world of school and work as well as knowledge of both Eastern and Western cultures the book appeals to teachers students engineers and scientists who are interested in scientific and technological writing It is also valuable for educators who prepare scientists engineers and technical communicators for professional roles as well as for communication practitioners who work with engineers div

Reading-to-Write Linda Flower, Victoria Stein, John Ackerman, Margaret J. Kantz, Kathleen McCormick, Wayne C. Peck, 1990-09-20 The Social and Cognitive Studies in Writing and Literacy Series is devoted to books that bridge research theory and practice exploring social and cognitive processes in writing and expanding our knowledge of literacy as an active constructive process as students move from high school to college This descriptive study of reading to write examines a critical point in every college student s academic performance when he or she is faced with the task of reading a source integrating personal ideas and creating an individual text with a self defined purpose Offering an unusually comprehensive view of this process the authors chart a group of freshmen as they study and write in their dormitories recording their think aloud strategies for reading writing and revising their interpretation of the task and their broader social cultural and contextual understanding of college writing Flower Stein and colleagues convincingly conclude that the legacy of schooling in general makes the transition to college difficult and more important that the assumptions students hold and the strategies they use in undertaking this task play a significant role in their academic performance Embracing a broad range of perspectives from rhetoric composition literacy research literary and cultural theory and cognitive psychology this rigorous analysis treats reading to write as both a cognitive and social process It will interest researchers and theoreticians in rhetoric and writing teachers working with students in transition from high school to college and educators involved in the links between cognition and the social process
