The Scenes of the Street and Other Essays Anthony Vidler, 2011-03-15 Anthony Vidler an internationally recognized scholar theorist and critic of modern and contemporary architecture is widely known for his essays on the most pressing issues and debates in the field This volume brings together a collection of such writings including the iconic long unavailable Scenes of the Street into one volume Scenes of the Street and Other Essays showcases Vidler's engaging and accessible expertise on both contemporary and historic subjects that are relevant to today's concerns. Scenes of the Street a multi-faceted analysis of city planning is one such example. Other essays in this volume include Unknown Lands by Guy Debord and the Cartographies of a Landscape to be Invented by Transparency and Utopia. Constructing the Void from Pascal to Foucault and The Modern Acropolis by Tony Garnier from La Cité Antique to the Cité Industrielle. Vidler writes in his introduction: In the following essays I have interrogated the struggle for an urban architecture in the modern period, its critiques and aspirations in the belief that understanding the historical dimensions of the debate will lead to a renewal of interest in an architecture calculated to redeem if only partially our planet of slums and its deteriorating environment, an interest that will not simply reject utopia out of hand or fall back into the complacencies of nostalgia. Written during a period in which the debates themselves were actively engaged by critics and supporters of modernism, they reflect contemporary issues as they search for their prehistory. As historical inquiries, they inevitably also engage the transformations in history writing itself since 1970. Intellectual responses to the social and political conditions of postwar modernity. This fascinating series of essays on issues and figures is an invaluable resource for architects and art historians and enthusiasts of structure and substance alike.

Teaching Ethnic Diversity with Film by Carole Gerster, Laura W. Zlogar, 2006-01-16. From the beginning of the 20th century, Hollywood filmmakers have shaped public beliefs about and attitudes toward African Americans, Asian Americans, Native Americans, and Latinos. Challenging and updating the historical record, ethnic minority filmmakers have been re-presenting their histories, cultures, and literature from the perspectives of their own experience. The resulting films offer teachers an effective means for teaching ethnic diversity in today's media-saturated culture. This work details rationales and methods for incorporating readily available films into the high school and college undergraduate curriculum, particularly in history, social studies, literature, and film studies courses. It includes definitions of race and ethnicity and essays on the film history of African American, Asian American, American Indian, and Latino representation. Subsequent chapters, organized by disciplines, describe specific ways to teach visual and multicultural literacy with films, including suggestions for topics, methods, and films, and ending with four discipline-specific curriculum units for high school students. Film terminology and a list of resources to help teachers create their own curriculum units complete the work.

Act V Scene I by Stanley Moss, 2020-09-08. Open Act V Scene I or any of Stanley Moss's books anywhere and you will come shockingly upon wisdom and beauty, a diversity of styles, a unity of voice, a voice that was there since the beginning. I love Stanley Moss's work. The pace, the strategy, the wit, the knowledge are astonishing. Of the generation that is gradually leaving us, those born in the mid and late 1920s, he has a prominent place. He loves donkeys. He owns a Ted Roethke's raccoon coat. He is an original. Gerald Stern. Magisterial. This book is magnificent. I've read it several times with greater and greater pleasure. Its verbal generosity and bravura, its humanity, the quality and quantity of information which it generates.
