The Development of Security and Whole Care System for the Aged in China Yanzhong Wang, 2017-10-25 This book examines the process of population aging in China and its unique features, considers the social progress implied in China becoming a society with an aging population, and assesses the tremendous risks and challenges involved. Based on the development of pension security systems around the world, the book studies the status quo and future requirements of the Chinese pension security system from the perspectives of capital service and spirit, and puts forward a three-pillar pension security system that is in conformity with China's current situation and reflects the developmental trend that in future, social security will likely transform from material security into comprehensive security. In addition, the book analyzes the Chinese pension security system. While integrating international perspectives, its main focus is on statistical analysis, combining theory with practice, and qualitative with quantitative analysis. As such, the book not only offers a window for the world on the status and evolution of China's pension security system but also an opportunity for international academic dialogues.

Pension Protection Fund Great Britain: National Audit Office,2010-02-05 The Pension Protection Fund offers protection to some 12.4 million pensioners in private sector defined benefit often known as final salary pension schemes should their employer become insolvent The Fund currently manages its assets well and has not been exposed to severe losses in the recession In 2008/09 the Fund's investments increased in value by 13.4 per cent The Fund's standard investments saw a return of minus 3.4 per cent in 2008/09 against the market average for the same combination of asset classes of minus 3.6 per cent But as the Fund's assets grow the investment operation will require additional skills and the Fund should consider adapting its investment processes The Fund's deficit increased during the recession from 517 million in March 2008 to 1.2 billion in March 2009 largely because of the combined deficit of the increased number of schemes being assessed on whether they should be transferred to the Fund However the value of the Fund's assets far outweighs its annual compensation payments at the end of March 2009 its assets were 3.2 billion but its current compensation payments amount to 70 million a year The Fund has developed a suitable model to assess future liabilities and this has proved resilient to a range of stress tests The model's longer term projections are sensitive to important assumptions so the Fund should establish a framework for illustrating the sensitivity of output from its long term risk model

Longstreth, 1987-01-08 In recent years the field of finance has exploded with innovation New products services and techniques abound The risks of inflation the volatility of interest rates the deregulation of financial intermediaries and the unbundling of financial services have combined to present investment managers with challenges and opportunities far greater than in the past For trustees and managers of pension trust endowment and similar funds the task of meeting the challenges and exploiting the opportunities is much more difficult These fiduciaries must measure their investment decisions against constrained interpretations of a legal standard the prudent man rule that have caused it to lag far behind changes in investment theory and the marketplace Drawing on financial history a major opinion survey of institutional investors and comprehensive reviews of the law and of the lessons of modern portfolio theory for prudence this book presents a powerful case that the prudent man rule as elaborated in legal treatises and much of the case law would virtually compel a fiduciary to act imprudently in terms of financial theory and marketplace reality In proposing a modern paradigm of investment prudence the book uses illustrations drawn from such traditionally suspect categories of investment fiduciaries as securities lending real estate venture capital options and futures and repurchaser agreements An unusual examination of the interaction of the worlds of law and finance this work will be of interest to fiduciaries who are subject to some form of prudent man rule and all others including judges lawyers and investment managers who are called upon to interpret and apply that legal standard
