Pigs For The Ancestors Ritual In The Ecology Of A New Guinea People:

Pigs for the Ancestors Roy A. Rappaport, 2000-02-07 This influential work is the most important and widely cited book ever published in ecological anthropology. It is a classic case study of human ecology in a tribal society, the role of culture especially ritual in local and regional resource management, negative feedback and the application of systems theory to an anthropological population. It is considered a major work of theory yet it is also empirically grounded in Rappaport's meticulous collection of quantitative and qualitative data on such material matters as diet and energy expenditure as well as such mental/cognitive/ideational domains as myth and folk taxonomies. Rappaport's tour de force is a recognized classic because it contributes in so many ways to anthropological theory, ethnographic methodology, ecological anthropology and the anthropology of religion. This enlarged edition offers a carefully reasoned, empirically focused reassessment of Rappaport's original study in the context of ongoing theoretical and methodological problems. Pigs for the Ancestors: Ritual in the Ecology of a New Guinea People Roy A. Rappaport, 2000

Pigs for the ancestors Roy A. Rappaport, 1971 Pigs for the Ancestors Roy Abraham Rappaport, 1967 Pigs for the Ancestors Margaret McArthur, 1974 Pigs for the Ancestors: b Ritual in the Ecology of a New Guinea People Roy A. Rappaport, 1968 Ancestors for the Pigs Sarah M. Nelson, 1998-01-29

This book brings together several new ways of thinking about pigs in the past, creating a dialogue by drawing on several kinds of approaches from geography, ethnography, zoology, history and archaeology to enrich the way we all understand the evidence found in archaeological sites. MASCA Research Papers in Science and Archaeology 15

Managing Animals in New Guinea Paul Sillitoe, 2004-06-02 Managing Animals in New Guinea analyzes the place of animals in the lives of New Guinea Highlanders. Looking at issues of zoological classification, hunting of wild animals and management of domesticated ones, notably pigs, it asks how natural parameters affect people's livelihood strategies and their relations with animals and the wider environment. Gender and Society in the New Guinea Highlands Marilyn G.

Gelber, 2019-03-13 The societies of the New Guinea Highlands are among the last contacted horticulturalist peoples of the world. Endemic warfare, elaborate systems of exchange, flamboyant personality styles and exaggerated forms of antagonism between the sexes have made them a subject of interest to anthropologists for three decades. This book examines the relationship between the sexes, especially the attitudes and behavior of men toward women as a result of the economic, political and structural constraints of Highland social organization. Hostility toward women, which is evident in a high level of violence toward women and an articulated fear of association with them, is given special attention. Dr. Gelber's study is unique not only because it treats gender relations in the entire culture area of the Highlands but also because a broad array of types of anthropological analysis—ecosystemic, population, regulatory, economic, sociopolitical, psychological and ideational—are considered for their relevance to the phenomenon of intersexual hostility. The author's emphasis on underlying problems of explanation and theory as well as the treatment of attitudes and beliefs as a function of socioeconomic constraints is a departure from previous modes of analysis and raises new issues in anthropological theory and in the study of gender

Tracing Early Agriculture in the Highlands of New Guinea Tim Denham, 2018-06-28 In this book historical narratives chart how people created forms of agriculture in the highlands of New Guinea and how these practices were transformed through time The intention is twofold to clearly establish New Guinea as a region of early agricultural development and plant domestication and to develop a contingent practice-based interpretation of early agriculture that has broader application to other regions of the world The multi-disciplinary record from the highlands has the potential to challenge and change long-held assumptions regarding early agriculture globally which are usually based on domestication Early agriculture in the highlands is charted by an exposition of the practices of plant exploitation and cultivation Practices are ontologically prior because they ultimately produce the phenotypic and genotypic changes in plant species characterised as domestication as well as the social and environmental transformations associated with agriculture They are also methodologically prior because they emplace plants in specific historico geographic contexts Landscape, Process and Power Serena Heckler,2009-04-01 In recent years the field of study variously called local indigenous or traditional environmental knowledge TEK has experienced a crisis brought about by the questioning of some of its basic assumptions This has included reassessing notions that scientific methods can accurately elicit and describe TEK or that incorporating it into development projects will improve the physical social or economic well being of marginalized peoples The contributors to this volume argue that to accurately and appropriately describe TEK the historical and political forces that have shaped it as well as people s day to day engagement with the landscape around them must be taken into account TEK thus emerges not as an easily translatable tool for development experts but as a rich and complex element of contemporary lives that should be defined and managed by indigenous and local peoples themselves Celebrating a Century of the American Anthropological Association

Regna Darnell,Frederic Wright Gleach,2002-01-01 During the past century the American Anthropological Association AAA has borne witness to profound social cultural and technical changes transformations that have affected anthropologists and the people they work with across the planet In response to such global changes anthropology continues to evolve into an increasingly complex and sophisticated discipline with a dynamic range of flourishing subfields This volume contains the memorable stories of the seventy seven men and women who have led the AAA during the past century The list of the association s presidents reads like a roster of influential scholars from various specializations within anthropology Their histories cumulatively reflect the trends in interpretive thought and fieldwork methodology that have emerged during the past ten decades For each president the book provides a photograph and a biography replete with personal anecdotes career highlights and information about his or her contributions to the development of the discipline of anthropology Important works by each president are listed separately in the back of the volume An introduction by Regna Darnell and Frederic W Gleach summarizes the first century of the AAA and contextualizes the individual stories The Oxford
