energy has been expended on understanding and defining the human person in specifically theological as opposed to anthropological terms when culture is in some sense the expression of this personhood in corporate and material forms This book argues that culture is not and has never been a theologically neutral concept rather it always expresses some theological posture and is therefore a term that naturally invites theological investigation Going about this task is difficult however in the face of a longterm reliance on the social sciences that seems to have starved the contemporary theological community of resources for defining culture Against this it is argued that rich subterranean veins for such a task do exist within the recent tradition most notably in the writings of John Milbank Karl Barth and Kwame Bediako Emotions and the Making of Psychiatric Reform in Britain, c. 1770-1820 Mark Neuendorf, 2021-11-19 This book explores the ways which people navigated the emotions provoked by the mad in Britain across the long eighteenth century Building upon recent advances in the historical study of emotions it plots the evolution of attitudes towards insanity and considers how shifting emotional norms influenced the development of a humanitarian temperament which drove the earliest movements for psychiatric reform in England and Scotland Reacting to a culture of sensibility which encouraged tears at the sight of tender suffering early asylum reformers chose instead to express their humanity through unflinching resolve charging into madhouses to contemplate scenes of misery usually hidden from public view and confronting the authorities that enabled neglect to flourish This intervention required careful emotional management which is documented comprehensively here for the first time Drawing upon a wide array of medical and literary sources this book provides invaluable insights into pre modern attitudes towards insanity Hours with the Bible, New Testament. [6 vols. 2 issues of vol.4]. Cunningham Geikie, 1896 The Farmer's Monthly Visitor Isaac Hill, 2025-08-01 Reprint of the original first published in 1843 The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage
