People A Global Agenda

People A Global Agenda:

Forests and People Thomas Sikor, Johannes Stahl, 2011 As the editors note in their introduction the attention to rights in forestry differs from rights based approaches in international development and other natural resource fields in three critical ways First redistribution is a central demand of activists in forestry but not in other fields Many forest rights activists call for not only the redirection of forest benefits but also the redistribution of forest tenure to redress historical inequalities Second the rights agenda in forestry emerges from numerous grassroots initiatives setting forest related human rights apart from approaches that derive legitimacy from transnational human rights norms and are driven by international and national organizations Third forest rights activists attend to individual as well as peoples collective rights whereas approaches in other fields tend to emphasize one or the other set of rights People Uner Kirdar, Leonard Silk, 1995-04 Assembles the work of some 50 international policymakers academics leaders of public and private enterprise and members of the media Contributions address the massive and unfinished problem of human deprivation throughout the world in an era of abundance The 48 articles address poverty productive employment social cohesion and peace and security Lacks an index and bibliography although some articles include notes Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Sustainable Development Goal 16 and the Global Governance of Violence Timothy Donais, Alistair D. Edgar, Kirsten Van Houten, 2023-08-09 This book brings together a diverse range of scholars and practitioners working at the nexus of peace and development to reflect at the mid way point of the Sustainable Development Goals implementation period what impact Goal 16 has made or may yet make toward reducing violence in all its forms Adopted in 2015 the Sustainable Development Goals include 17 objectives designed to shape and direct the global development agenda through to 2030 with Goal 16 aiming to promote peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development Amidst an ongoing global pandemic evidence of a fracturing liberal international order and the persistence of seemingly intractable conflict in large parts of the world this volume takes stock of current progress toward providing access to justice and ensuring inclusive and democratic institutions Across 15 chapters the book s contributors explore the universal aspirations of Goal 16 and its specific implications for conflict affected states which continue to experience development in reverse and for historically marginalized groups such as women youth the disabled and indigenous peoples In doing so it offers a comprehensive assessment of Goal 16 s broader contribution to the creation of a more just peaceful world against the realities of societies emerging from the COVID 19 pandemic and grappling with a deepening climate crisis This volume will appeal to scholars researchers policymakers and postgraduate students in sustainable development global governance international relations global development international law and political science Making Global Trade Work for People, 2003 First Published in 2003 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company People and Pollution Nicholas S. Hopkins, Sohair Mehanna, Salah el- Hagggar, 2001 Environmental pollution is a concern of many people in Egypt and the world in general People and Pollution is a study of how

Egyptians in particular understand environmental problems and what their roles are in the solutions This original study is based on extensive field research with both academic and policy relevance The uniqueness of the book comes from its focus instead of the usual approach of analyzing policy and measurements this text seeks to understand how the people themselves often the objects of policy understand their environment and their own actions An interesting finding from the research lies in the focus of Egyptian concerns Rather than the global perspective the depletion of the ozone layer protection of coral reefs and rainforests and so on that is common in the West Egyptians are mainly concerned with matters of immediate environmental degradation such as garbage sewage dirty streets and noise pollution In addition the researchers have found that people are often able to effect changes themselves through cooperation with neighbors thus bypassing the official channels of redress such as NGOs and local government officials The difference in focus of concern and courses of action may be extrapolated to many Third World or developing nations and leads to provocative questions regarding policymaking for public participation in future environmental campaigns Descriptive views from the authors eloquent and moving testimony from members of the community and clear statistical analysis of the findings make this book a highly readable text People and Pollution is a pioneering and important work that should be consulted by environmentally concerned readers students and policymakers alike

People, Planet, and Progress Beyond 2015, 2016-12-15 Second in the series of TERI's annual flagship publication on global sustainable development People Planet and Progress Beyond 2015 examines six critical issues of the Planet climate change ozone layer depletion loss of biodiversity desertification unsustainable use of natural resources and environmental pollution and six crucial issues of the People food security and safety health and well being education and learning sustainable habitat energy for all and social justice and equity reviews the Progress made by various regions and countries of the world on each of these issues and analyses the challenges and opportunities ahead particularly in the contexts of post 2015 global development agendas ushered by the Paris Climate Agreement UN Sustainable Development Goals and Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction The analysis is supported by primary data from authentic sources on a wide range of indicators that make the volume an invaluable resource material on contemporary discourses on global development
