Pilgrimage In Ireland The Monuments And The People:

Pilgrimage in Ireland Peter Harbison, 1995-06-01 The landscape of Ireland is rich with ancient carved stone crosses tomb shrines Romanesque churches round towers sundials beehive huts Ogham stones and other monuments many of them dating from before the 12th century The purpose and function of these artifacts have often been the subject of much debate Peter Harbison proposes in this book a radical hypothesis that a great many of these relics can be explained in terms of ecclesiastical pilgrimage He has constructed a fascination theory about the palace of pilgrimage in the early Christian period placing it right at the center of communal life The monuments themselves make much better sense if it looked at in this light as having come into existence not through the practices of ascetic monks but because of the activities of pilgrims He begins by searching the historical sources in detail for evidence of early pilgrimage sites By examining their monuments he projects the findings to other locations where pilgrimage has not been documented He goes on to describe monument types of every kind and to identify pilgrims in sculpture surviving from before AD 1200 The Dingle Peninsula in Kerry proves to be a microcosm of pilgrimage monuments enabling the author to reconstruct a tradition of maritime pilgrimage activity up and down the west coast of Ireland Indeed the famous medieval traveler's tale of the fabulous voyage of the St Brendan the Navigator can now be seen as the literary expression of a longstanding maritime pilgrimage along the Atlantic seaways of Ireland and Scotland reaching Iceland Greenland and even North America

Pentimenti Alison Armstrong,2018-07-20 The Craft of Narrative If memory valorizes ones life it humbles us as well As the saying goes Life is what happens while we are making other plans In retrospect those choices and consequent events may cause delight as well as remorse or delay in realizing dreams that are replaced by unexpected events but also give us the time necessary to achieve some ambitions and perhaps allow insight into lifes patterns Writing a memoir combines fictional monologue and essay Both genres are intimate first person addresses to a reader preferable to use Roland Barthes terminology from his book S Z a writerly reader The selection of the title for these three disparate memoirs is taken from a term used in painting the showing through of a past image overlain by a more recent one Lillian Hellman used this term for her memoir and the subsequent film Pentimento I am a writer and a teacher of literary fiction including Homers Odyssey James Joyces Ulysses and Virginia Woolf's various novels in particular Mrs Dalloway and To the Lighthouse in which written memory the superimposition of current feelings and observations onto past events results in an ordering of what may otherwise be forgotten or fragmented or considered as irrelevant and disconnected events Virginia Woolf reminded her teenage nephew and later biographer Clive Bell to remember that nothing has happened until it has been recounted Recollection the ordering of remembered events feelings and their consequences external and internal gives us order through crafted narrative Homer set the stage for this recognition when he begins the journey of his long epic with an address to the Muse saying Begin where'er thou wilt to retell the tale for our time too And so we begin a crafted set of memories beginning in medias res the middle of things rather than accounting for every event in an uncrafted chronological order Retelling produces awareness of patterns of cause and effect Flashbacks can reveal apparent prophecies too This awareness thanks to years of teaching and discussing literary works of art has prompted me to present these brief memoirs from three apparently distinct stages of my life Only connect as E M Forster advised is worthy of remembering if difficult to apply
