Reforming Special Education Policy Implementation From State Level To Street Level:

Reforming Special Education Richard Weatherley, 1979 Focusing on Massachusetts innovative special education reform law Chapter 766 Reforming Special Education traces the complex processes through which an ostensibly universalistic and equitable policy can produce a biased distribution of public benefits favoring affluent clients Reforming Special Education examines three Massachusetts school systems and seven schools within those systems to determine whether laws formulated to alter practices in educating children who are deaf blind retarded and physically handicapped actually result in fair and uniform treatment of children with special needs or whether they just create more work for school personnel The book discusses individual and community wealth as factors in the allocation of funds Despite Massachusetts equalizing formula it points out that rich districts often fare better than poor ones because they have the resources and sophistication necessary to challenge funding decisions The book also reveals that bureaucrats who are charged with carrying out the changes are victimized by new laws which for lack of resources they cannot hope to put into effect Because the street level bureaucrats front line personnel develop informal means of coping with these problems and with their jobs they distort the policy they are charged with implementing and become policy makers in their own right Weatherley concludes that policy initiatives must take into account potential effects on the daily work routines of those charged with implementing them These findings have dramatic implications for all human service bureaucracies where front line staff interact with the public hospitals police departments public welfare and employment offices mental health centers and lower courts Students of public policy educators social workers or anyone involved in public service employment will find this a scholarly yet highly readable account of the organizational constraints to bureaucratic reform

The Conditions of Discretion Joel Handler, 1986-08-20 This timely book is concerned with interactions between ordinary people and large public bureaucracies interactions that typically are characterized by mutual frustration and antagonism In fact as Joel Handler points out the procedural guidelines intended to ensure fairness and due process fail to take account of an initial imbalance of power and tend to create adversarial rather than cooperative relationships When the special education needs of a handicapped child must be determined parents and school administrators often face an especially painful confrontation The Conditions of Discretion focuses on one successful approach to educational decision making developed by the school district of Madison Wisconsin in order to illustrate how such interactions can be restructured and enhanced Madison's creative plan regards parents as part of the solution not the problem and uses lay advocates to turn conflict into an opportunity for communication Arrangements such as these in Handler's analysis exemplify the theoretical conditions under which discretionary decisions can be made fairly and with the informed participation of all concerned The Conditions of Discretion offers not only a detailed case study sympathetically described but also persuasive assessments of major themes in contemporary legal and social policy informed consent bureaucratic change social movement activity the relationship of the individual to the state From these strands Handler weaves a significant new theory of cooperative decision making that integrates the public and the private recognizes the importance of values and preserves autonomy within community A masterful blend of social criticism social sciences and humane constructive thought about the future of the welfare state Duncan Kennedy Harvard Law School

The New Institutionalism in Organizational Analysis Walter W. Powell, Paul J. DiMaggio, 2012-09-21 Long a fruitful area of scrutiny for students of organizations the study of institutions is undergoing a renaissance in contemporary social science This volume offers for the first time both often cited foundation works and the latest writings of scholars associated with the institutional approach to organization analysis In their introduction the editors discuss points of convergence and disagreement with institutionally oriented research in economics and political science and locate the institutional approach in relation to major developments in contemporary sociological theory Several chapters consolidate the theoretical advances of the past decade identify and clarify the paradigm's key ambiguities and push the theoretical agenda in novel ways by developing sophisticated arguments about the linkage between institutional patterns and forms of social structure The empirical studies that follow involving such diverse topics as mental health clinics art museums large corporations civil service systems and national politics illustrate the explanatory power of institutional theory in the analysis of organizational change Required reading for anyone interested in the sociology of organizations the volume should appeal to scholars concerned with culture political institutions and social change

The Implementation of Inclusive Education in Beijing Kai Yu, 2014-02-27 The education implementation process in China remains uncharted by researchers The Implementation of Inclusive Education in Beijing Exorcizing the Haunting Specter of Meritocracy puts forth a general theory on China's education programs encompassing policy processes actions and interactions and grounded on the views of street level bureaucrats in China Kai Yu investigates these processes and presents teachers' reflections on the change process as well as implementation stories from four Beijing schools He reports on their attitudes their beliefs and their pedagogical practices for implementing the innovative education program Yu argues that the imperatives of meritocratic ideology have undermined the detracking policy and its practice The strength of a program of change rests not so much on the power of the ideas purposes and values as on the reinterpretation of the implementers based on their personal understandings of institution and practice      Public Administration and Law Julia Beckett, Heidi O. Koenig, 2015-02-12 Public Administration and Law has been edited for use as a supplement for an undergraduate or MPA level course on administrative law The selections all from the pages of Public Administration Review have been chosen to enlighten and enliven the contents of any standard administrative law textbook Each of the book's main sections begins with introductory text and discussion questions by the volume editors Julia Beckett and Heidi Koenig followed by relevant readings from PAR The book's contents follow the standard pattern established by the field's major textbooks to facilitate the instructor's ability to assign readings that illuminate lectures and text material The book concludes with two invaluable resources a bibliography of 65 years of PAR articles concerning public law plus a bibliography of law related articles appearing in other journals published by ASPA      Practical Action Research Richard A. Richard Scott, John W. Meyer, 1984      Research Handbook on Street-Level Bureaucracy Peter Hupe, 2019 When the objectives of public policy programmes have been formulated and decided upon implementation seems just a matter of following instructions However it is underway to the realization of those objectives that public policies get their final substance and form Crucial is what happens in and around the encounter between public officials and individual citizens at the street level of government bureaucracy This Research Handbook addresses the state of the art while providing a systematic exploration of the theoretical and methodological issues apparent in the study of street level bureaucracy and how to deal with them      Assessment of Current Knowledge about the Effectiveness of School Desegregation Strategies: A review of the empirical research on desegregation, 1981      Beyond

Service Greg McElligott,2001-01-01 Greg McElligott traces neoconservative labour market policy from its international origins to the local offices of the Canadian state      Beyond Welfare Harrell R. Rodgers,2016-09-16 A selection of 50 Slovak folk tales assembled from the collections of folklorist Pavol Dobsinsky The translator seeks to preserve the poetic qualities of the originals and the book includes an introduction to the genres of the folktale and the specifics of Slovak tales

Researching Street-level Bureaucracy Mike Rowe,2024-12-30 Police officers social workers teachers and many other street level bureaucrats exercise discretion in dealing with clients In so doing they make policy as it is experienced at the frontline Instead of puzzling at repeated public policy implementation failures and wondering why street level bureaucrats SLBs don t behave the way policy makers expect we need to understand the world as seen from the ground This short and practical text explores the value of interpretive analysis for researching street level bureaucracy Using Michael Lipsky s 1980 idea of SLB and connecting it to contemporary debates Mike Rowe argues for an approach to researching SLBs that focuses on dilemmas in practice ones that change with each policy shift each new target with austerity and with new technology such that no settled state is likely He places emphasis on the need to understand the ways SLBs respond to pressures in order to work with them and to understand what policy becomes in practice Street level bureaucrats and their clients are engaged in a process of sense making Researching Street level Bureaucracy is not just an essential resource for teachers and students of Master s and Doctoral programs in Public Administration Public Policy Social Work and Criminal Justice it is a must read for anyone interested in understanding the structural pressures that bear on the individual and how any change to the dilemmas confronted might play out at the street level      Vital Questions Facing Disability Studies in Education Scot

Danforth,Susan Lynn Gabel,2006 Disability studies in education is a provocative and innovative field of social inquiry that challenges standard ways of thinking about disability in education practices that serve to exclude disabled people from equal educational opportunity and policies that support or drive inequality This book brings together the best disability studies in education scholars to address the pressing questions facing the field It provides an introduction to the field for the newcomer a sharp challenge to the status quo in special and general education and a map to understanding the serious disability issues confronting education today
