Language Empires in Comparative Perspective Christel Stolz, 2015-03-10 The notion of empire is associated with economic and political mechanisms of dominance For the last decades however there has been a lively debate concerning the question whether this concept can be transferred to the field of linguistics specifically to research on situations of language spread on the one hand and concomitant marginalization of minority languages on the other The authors who contributed to this volume concur as to the applicability of the notion of empire to language related issues They address the processes potential merits and drawbacks of language spread as well as the marginalization of minority languages language endangerment and revitalization contact induced language change the emergence of mixed languages and identity issues An emphasis is on the dominance of non Western languages such as Arabic Chinese and particularly Russian The studies demonstrate that the emergence spread and decline of language empires is a promising area of research particularly from a comparative perspective Russian Life, 2010 The Life Cycle of Russian Things Matthew P. Romaniello, Alison K. Smith, Tricia Starks, 2021-09-09 The Life Cycle of Russian Things re orients commodity studies using interdisciplinary and comparative methods to foreground unique Russian and Soviet materials as varied as apothecary wares, isinglass, limestone and tanks. It also transforms modernist and Western interpretations of the material by emphasizing the commonalities of the Russian experience. Expert contributors from across the United States, Canada, Britain and Germany come together to situate Russian material culture studies at an interdisciplinary crossroads. Drawing upon theory from anthropology, history and literary and museum studies, the volume presents a complex narrative not only in terms of material consumption but also in terms of production and the secondary life of inheritance, preservation or even destruction. In doing so, the book reconceptualises material culture as a lived experience of sensory interaction. The Life Cycle of Russian Things sheds new light on economic history and consumption studies by reflecting the diversity of Russia's experiences over the last 400 years. Exploring and Mapping Alaska Alexey Postnikov, Marvin Falk, 2015-06-15 Russia first encountered Alaska in 1741 as part of the most ambitious and expensive expedition of the entire eighteenth century. For centuries since, cartographers have struggled to define and develop the enormous region comprising northeastern Asia, the North Pacific and Alaska. The forces of nature and the follies of human error conspired to make the area incredibly difficult to map. Exploring and Mapping Alaska focuses on this foundational period in Arctic cartography. Russia spurred a golden era of cartographic exploration while shrouding their efforts in a veil of secrecy. They drew both on old systems developed by early fur traders and new methodologies created in Europe. With Great Britain, France and Spain following close behind, their expeditions led to an astounding increase in the world's knowledge of North America. Through engrossing descriptions of the explorations and expert navigators aided by informative illustrations, readers can clearly trace the evolution of the maps of the era, watching as a once mysterious region came into sharper focus. The result of years of cross-continental research, Exploring and Mapping Alaska is a fascinating study of the trials and triumphs of one of the last great eras of historic mapmaking. The Asiatic Journal and Monthly Register for British and Foreign India, China, and Australasia, 1826 Asiatic Journal and Monthly Register for British and Foreign India, China and Australasia, 1826 The Asiatic journal and monthly register for British and foreign India, China and Australasia, 1826 The Asiatic Journal and Monthly Register for British India and Its Dependencies, 1826 The Asiatic Journal and Monthly Miscellany, 1826 The Position of the Slavonic Languages at the Present Day Nevill Forbes, 1910 Mapping Difference Marian J. Rubchak, 2011-04-01 Drawn from various disciplines and a broad spectrum of research interests, these essays reflect on the challenging issues confronting women in Ukraine today. The contributors are an interdisciplinary transnational group of scholars from gender studies, feminist theory, history, anthropology, sociology, women's studies and literature. Among the issues they address are the impact of migration, education, early socialization of gender roles, the role of the media in perpetuating and shaping negative stereotypes, the gendered nature of language women and the media literature by women and local appropriation of gender and feminist theory Each author offers a fresh and unique perspective on the current process of survival strategies and postcommunist identity reconstruction among Ukrainian women in their current climate of patriarchalism

Desired Language Francesc Feliu, 2023-01-15 National linguistic ideology has been at the base of most historical processes that whether they are complete or not have brought us to the current reality a world of languages that represent with greater or lesser exactitude the diversity and convergences of human groups Various of today's thinkers have predicted the decline or even the end of national ideologies In the area of language postmodernism would make the linguistic affiliation of the community individuals irrelevant de ideologise language use and extend plurilingualism and language alternation in association with a new distribution of physical or functional spaces of linguistic practice But is this true everywhere Are languages now nowhere the core of collective identity Or are we witnessing a distinction between languages that because of their magnitude status strategic position etc can continue to exercise the function of national languages and languages that have to renounce this function Has national linguistic ideology really ceased to make sense What other strategies should the historic language of a given geographic area employ if it wants to continue forming part of the life of the community that is set up there What kinds of languages are desired by politicians intellectuals and philologists This book aims to bring some thoughts about these questions
