

The Psychological Impact of Robotic Surgery on Patients

Preoperative Anxiety

Comparison with Conventional Surgery: Patients undergoing robotic surgery may experience lower preoperative anxiety compared to those undergoing traditional open abdominal procedures. The minimally invasive nature of robotic surgery, coupled with the advanced technology associated with robotic surgery, contribute to a sense of confidence and reduced anxiety.

Trust in Technology

Building Confidence: The integration of robotics fosters trust in medical technology. Patients are more likely to trust a robotically assisted procedure, believing in the precision and reliability of the robotic system and its ability to enhance surgical outcomes.

Recovery Expectations

Positive Outlook: Robotic surgery's minimally invasive approach generally leads to shorter hospital stays and faster recovery times. This contributes to a positive outlook among patients, reducing the psychological burden associated with prolonged hospitalization and recovery.

Postoperative Satisfaction

Quality of Life: Patients who undergo successful robotic surgeries often report higher postoperative satisfaction. Improved physical outcomes, coupled with reduced pain and scarring, contribute to an overall enhancement in the quality of life, positively impacting patients' mental well-being.

Challenges and Concerns

Ethical Considerations: While the psychological impact of robotic surgery is generally positive, ethical concerns may arise regarding the potential detachment of surgeons from patients. Maintaining a balance between technological advancement and human connection remains crucial.

supplement the placebo nocebo model In addition hypnosis and hypnotherapy opens interesting scientific insights into human brain functions and into character and functioning of suggestions The goal of leaving the very special setting of books and hypnosis journals and presenting hypnosis to a wide spectrum of readers in psychology and medicine is to increase its visibility its impact and application The application concerns both the specific treatment of specific patients with specific complaints by an expert called hypnotherapy and the more general use of therapeutic hypnotic communication of health care personnel with all patients in all medical situations On the other hand hypnosis could benefit from a possible desirable stimulation of further research in this field
