

Writing Across the Curriculum Overview

The philosophies underlying these programs generally agree on certain basic principles:

- that writing is the responsibility of the entire academic community.
- that writing must be integrated across departmental boundaries.
- that writing instruction must be continuous during all years of post-secondary education.
- that writing promotes learning
- that only by practicing the conventions of an academic discipline will students begin to communicate effectively within that discipline

(WAC Clearinghouse, "Basic Principles of WAC", 1992).

Perryman-Clark,2023-08-21 The New Work of Writing Across the Curriculum is a descriptive analysis of how institutions can work to foster stronger intellectual activities around writing as connected to campus wide diversity and inclusion initiatives Author Staci M Perryman Clark blends theory and practice grounds disciplinary conversations with practical examples of campus work and provides realistic expectations for operations with budgetary constraints while enhancing diversity equity and inclusion work in higher education Many of these initiatives are created in isolation reinforcing institutional silos that are not used strategically to gain the attention of senior administrators particularly those working at state supported public institutions who must manage shrinking institutional budgets Yet teaching and learning centers and WAC programs gain tremendously from one another by building explicit partnerships on campus wide diversity initiatives that emphasize cultural competence In addition both cultural competence and written proficiency enhance the transferable skills necessary for completing undergraduate education requirements and this work can be leveraged to draw the attention of senior administrative leadership Faculty development and WAC need to make diversity and inclusion initiatives a priority for professional development The New Work of Writing Across the Curriculum reviews initiatives that point to increased understanding of diversity and inclusion that will be of significance to administrators WAC specialists faculty developers and diversity officers across the spectrum of institutions of higher learning
