Reason And Revelation In The Middle Ages:

Reason and Revelation in the Middle Ages Etienne Gilson, 1948 Reason and Revelation in the Middle Ages
Etienne Gilson, 1964 Reason and Revelation in the Middle Ages... Étienne Gilson, 1954 God and Reason in the Middle Ages Edward Grant, 2001-07-30
Between 1100 and 1600 the emphasis on reason in the learning and intellectual life of Western Europe became more pervasive and widespread than ever before in the history of human civilization. Of crucial significance was the invention of the university around 1200 within which reason was institutionalized and where it became a deeply embedded permanent feature of Western thought and culture. It is therefore appropriate to speak of an Age of Reason in the Middle Ages and to view it as a forerunner and herald of the Age of Reason that was to come in the seventeenth century. The object of this study is twofold: to describe how reason was manifested in the curriculum of medieval universities especially in the subjects of logic, natural philosophy and theology; and to explain how the Middle Ages acquired an undeserved reputation as an age of superstition, barbarism and unreason. Jonathan Edwards's Philosophy of History Avihu Zakai, 2009-02-09
Avihu Zakai analyzes Jonathan Edwards's redemptive mode of historical thought in the context of the Enlightenment. As theologian and philosopher, Edwards has long been a towering figure in American intellectual history. Nevertheless, and despite Edwards's intense engagement with the nature of time and the meaning of history, there has been no serious attempt to explore his philosophy of history. Offering the first such exploration, Zakai considers Edwards's historical thought as a reaction in part to the varieties of Enlightenment historical narratives and their growing disregard for theistic considerations. Zakai analyzes the ideological origins of Edwards's insistence that the process of history depends solely on God's redemptive activity in time as manifested in a series of revivals throughout history, reading this doctrine as an answer to the threat posed to the Christian theological teleology of history by the early modern emergence of a secular conception of history and the modern legitimation of historical time. In response to the Enlightenment refashioning of secular historical time and its growing emphasis on human agency, Edwards strove to re-establish God's preeminence within the order of time. Against the de-Christianization of history and removal of divine power from the historical process, he sought to re-enthrone God as the author and lord of history and thus to re-enchant the historical world. Placing Edwards's historical thought in its broadest context, this book will be welcomed by those who study early modern history, American history or religious culture and experience in America. Science in the Middle Ages David C. Lindberg, 1978
In this book sixteen leading scholars address themselves to providing as full an account of medieval science as current knowledge permits. Designed to be introductory, the authors have directed their chapters to a beginning audience of diverse readers. Reason and Revelation in the Middle Ages. (The Richards Lectures in the University of Virginia.). Étienne Gilson, 1939 A Thomistic Tapestry, 2021-12-28
This book, written by well-known students of Étienne Gilson and especially dedicated to Armand A. Maurer, helps inaugurate a long overdue special series in philosophy honoring Gilson's legendary scholarship It presents wide ranging expositions of Thomist realism in the tradition of Gilsonian humanism covering themes related to philosophy in general historical method aesthetics metaphysics epistemology and politics intellectual journey that culminated in a scientific revolution that transformed the world The factors that produced this unique achievement are found in the way Christianity developed in the West and in the invention of the university in 1200 As this 1997 study shows it is no mere coincidence that the origins of modern science and the modern university occurred simultaneously in Western Europe during the late Middle Ages

Jewish Philosophy in the Middle Ages Raphael Jospe, 2009 Jewish Philosophy in the Middle Ages presents an overview of the formative period of medieval Jewish philosophy from its beginnings with Saadiah Gaon to its apex in Maimonides when Jews living in Islamic countries and writing in Arabic were the first to develop a conscious and continuous tradition of philosophy The book includes a dictionary of selected philosophic terms and discusses the Greek and Arabic schools of thought that influenced the Jewish thinkers and to which they responded The discussion covers the nature of Jewish philosophy Saadiah Gaon and the Kalam Jewish Neo Platonism Bahya ibn Paqudah Abraham ibn Ezra s philosophical Bible exegesis Judah Ha Levi s critique of philosophy Abraham ibn Daud and the transition to Aristotelianism Maimonides and the controversy over Maimonides and philosophy

Ideas Have a History F. G. Oosterhoff, 2001 Ideas Have a History offers a history of ideas from ancient Greece to postmodern times From the time of the Greeks the West has experienced a dramatic transition in the way it views truth For there no longer exists a blind faith in the objective truth but rather a denial of the possibility of truth What role have religion philosophy and science played in this transition Ideas Have a History should be of interest to all those who are interested in the relationship between science and religion in the role that theory of knowledge plays in human thought and action belief systems and in the manner in which a study of the past helps elucidate the present
