The transnational paradigm that undergirds this collection revolves around the idea of transnational cultural communities of writers artists and musicians worldwide who were intellectually involved in the war effort through the forging of pacifist cultural networks that arose as a form of resistance to war militarism and the rise of fascism. Modernism and the New Spain Gayle Rogers, 2012-10-03 How and why did a country seen as remote backwards and barely European become a pivotal site for reinventing the continent after the Great War Modernism and the New Spain argues that the Spanish problem the nation's historically troubled relationship with Europe provided an animating impulse for interwar literary modernism and for new conceptions of cosmopolitanism Drawing on works in a variety of genres Gayle Rogers reconstructs an archive of cross cultural exchanges to reveal the mutual constitution of two modernist movements one in Britain the other in Spain and stretching at key moments in between to Ireland and the Americas Several sites of transnational collaboration form the core of Rogers's innovative literary history The relationship between T S Eliot's Criterion and Jos Ortega y Gasset's Revista de Occidente shows how the two journals joined to promote a cosmopolitan agenda A similar case of kindred spirits appears with the 1922 publication of Joyce's Ulysses The novel's forward thinking sentiments on race and nation resonated powerfully within Spain where a generation of writers searched for non statist forms through which they might express a new European Hispanicity These cultural ties between the Anglo Irish and Spanish speaking worlds increased with the outbreak of civil war in 1936 Rogers explores the connections between fighting Spanish fascism and dismantling the English patriarchal system in Virginia Woolf's Three Guineas along with the international anti fascist poetic community formed by Stephen Spender Manuel Altolaguirre and others as they sought to establish Federico García Lorca as an apolitical Spanish European poet Mining a rich array of sources that includes novels periodicals biographies translations and poetry in English and in Spanish Modernism and the New Spain adds a vital new international perspective to modernist studies revealing how writers created alliances that unified local and international reforms to reinvent Europe not in the London Paris Berlin nexus but in Madrid European Intertexts Patsy Stoneman, Ana María Sánchez-Arce, Angela Leighton, 2005 European Intertexts is the first fruit of an ongoing collaborative study aiming to challenge the isolationism of much critical work on English literature by exploring the interdependence of English and continental European literatures in writing by women While later volumes will deal with specific texts this introductory volume provides a descriptive framework and a theoretical basis for studies in the field Covering issues such as the role of English as a world language the definition of Europe and the current state of Translation Studies the book also surveys theories of intertextuality and demonstrates intertextual links between written and visual and film texts This book is itself pioneering in making a systematic approach to women s writings in English in the context of other European cultures Although Europe is a political reality this cultural interpenetration remains largely unexamined and these essays represent an important first step towards revealing that unexplored richness

Culture and the Creation of British Modernism provides a new account of modernist literature's emergence in Britain. British writers played a central role in the dissemination of Russian literature and culture during the early twentieth century and their writing was transformed by the encounter. This study restores the thick history of that moment by analyzing networks of dissemination and reception to recover the role of neglected as well as canonical figures and institutions as well as individuals. The dominant account of British modernism privileges a Francophile genealogy but the turn of the century debate about the future of British writing was a triangular debate a debate not only between French and English models but between French, English and Russian models. Francophile modernists associated Russian literature especially the Tolstoyan novel with an uncritical immersion in life at the expense of a mastery of style and while individual works might be admired Russian literature as a whole was represented as a dangerous model for British writing. This supposed danger was closely bound up with the politics of the period and this book investigates how Russian culture was deployed in the close relationships between writers, editors and politicians who made up the early twentieth century intellectual class the British intelligentsia. Russomania argues that the most significant impact of Russian culture is not to be found in stylistic borrowings between canonical authors but in the shaping of the major intellectual questions of the period the relation between language and action writer and audience and the work of art and lived experience. The resulting account brings an occluded genealogy of early modernism to the fore with a different arrangement of protagonists different critical values and stronger lines of connection to the realist experiments of the Victorian past and the anti formalism and revived romanticism of the 1930s and 1940s future.

Modernism and Latin America Patricia Novillo-Corvalán, 2017-09-22 This book is the first in depth exploration of the relationship between Latin American and European modernisms during the long twentieth century. Drawing on comparative historical and postcolonial reading strategies including archival research it seeks to reenergize the study of modernism by putting the spotlight on the cultural networks and aesthetic dialogues that developed between European and non European writers including Pablo Neruda, James Joyce, Leonard Woolf, Virginia Woolf, Jorge Luis Borges, Victoria Ocampo, Roberto Bolaño, Julio Cortázar, Samuel Beckett, Octavio Paz, Carlos Fuentes and Malcolm Lowry. The book explores a wide range of texts that reflect these writers' complex concerns with questions of exile, space, empire, colonization, reception, translation, human subjectivity and modernist experimentation. By rethinking modernism comparatively and by placing this intricate web of cultural interconnections within an expansive transnational and transcontinental framework, this unique study opens up new perspectives that delineate the construction of a polycentric geography of modernism. It will be of interest to those studying global modernisms as well as Latin American literature, transatlantic studies, comparative literature, world literature, translation studies and the global south.
