Interaction in the Developing World Kenny Lynch, 2004-11-10 Sustaining the rural and urban populations of the developing world has been identified as a key global challenge for the twenty first century Rural Urban Interaction in the Developing World is an introduction to the relationships between rural and urban places in the developing world and shows that not all their aspects are as obvious as migration from country to city There is now a growing realization that rural urban relations are far more complex Using a wealth of student friendly features including boxed case studies discussion questions and annotated guides to further reading this innovative book places rural urban interactions within a broader context thus promoting a clearer understanding of the opportunities as well as the challenges that rural urban interactions represent

Local Environmental Sustainability S Buckingham, K Theobald, 2003-02-17 The importance of local programmes in driving sustainable development has been enshrined in Local Agenda 21 arguably the most influential output of the 1992 Rio Earth Summit Its importance has been reiterated more recently by the Johannesburg Summit in 2002 Local Environmental Sustainability sets the context for local environmental sustainability and in particular considers how local government can promote sustainable development by building partnerships with different groups and organisations in the local community Using case studies individual chapters focus on different types of regional and local initiatives the partnerships that have made them possible and the key issues in making them effective Local Environmental Sustainability provides a blueprint for both local governments and local communities to work together effectively for a more sustainable future An important new study focusing on the links between local environmental initiatives and the provision of sustainable services Includes case studies showing how local government initiatives can work in the community Considers the relationship between local programmes and the implementation of Local Agenda 21 Retail Change Rosemary D.F. Bromley, Colin J

Thomas, 2002-11-01 The economic social and environmental implications of recent changes in retailing constitute significant contemporary issues which are the focus of this timely book Retail change deals with the internationalization of retailing the development of shopping centres in the city and at suburban sites and the growth of leisure shopping It provides an up to date review of the central questions faced by undergraduate students in planning business studies and geography The retail environment of developed economies has undergone revolutionary change since the 1970s and the process is far from over In the book the major elements central to contemporary retail change are developed across the whole spectrum of spatial scales relevant to present day society The first part adopts an economic perspective and focuses on the process of business concentration and its increasingly international orientation This is followed by analyses of change in the urban region concentrating on the emergence of the great variety of new retail forms associated with retail decentralization The planning implications of retail change are developed in the third part The future of the city centre and other traditional shopping centres is examined in the light of challenges presented by new facilities Alternative future scenarios contingent upon laissez faire or interventionist government policy controls are also discussed The social implications of retail change are developed in the final section All students and researchers concerned with the evolution and development of the retail sector of advanced economies will welcome this book as an authoritative source of contemporary findings and commentary Rosemary D Bromley and Colin J Thomas are Lecturers in Geography at the University College of Swansea Wales This book is intended for undergraduate students taking courses in economic geography and retailing in departments of geography business studies planning etc

Acculturating the Shopping Centre Janina Gosseye,Tom Avermaete,2018-10-16 Acculturating the Shopping Centre examines whether the shopping centre should be qualified as a global architectural type that effortlessly moves across national and cultural borders in the slipstream of neo liberal globalization or should instead be understood as a geographically and temporally bound expression of negotiations between mall developers representatives of a global logic of capitalist accumulation on the one hand and local actors architects governments citizens on the other It explores how the shopping centre adapts to new cultural contexts and questions whether this commercial type has the capacity to disrupt or even amend the conditions that it encounters Including more than 50 illustrations this book considers the evolving architecture of shopping centres It would be beneficial to academics and students across a number of areas such as
