Rethinking What Works With Offenders:

Rethinking What Works with Offenders Stephen Farrall, 2013-10-11 This important and original new book reports on a major investigation of the outcomes of probation supervision is concerned with the key question of what works in probation and comes at an important moment of change and development for the probation service in the UK Unlike previous studies which have relied mostly on official data this book makes use of over 200 interviews with men and women on probation and their supervising Probation Officers Rethinking What Works with Offenders has the following objectives to understand probation work from the perspectives of those who deliver it and those to whom it is delivered to study probation intervention as a whole in particular the probation order rather than specific aspects to locate probation work in the wider social contexts of those on probation to analyse how probation works and to reconceptualise probation outcomes in terms of degrees of success rather than as successful or unsuccessful to assess the policy implications of these conclusions This book presents an important and challenging range of findings on what works in probation and with offenders and will be essential reading for anybody professionally concerned with the present and future of probation raises central issues at a critical time for the reorganised National Probation Service based on extensive research including 200 interviews essential reading for anybody interested in what works in probation Rethinking what Works with Offenders Stephen Farrell, 2002

Understanding Psychology and Crime James McGuire, 2004-09-16 This is an exceptional book that comprehensively covers the interface between psychology and criminology regarding an empirical understanding of crime It is written in an engaging and accessible manner nicely linking key themes in order to situate the contribution of psychology to theories of criminal behaviour strategies for informed practice and contemporary challenges It should prove to be an incredible resource for students but also be of interest to researchers and clinicians I cannot recommend this text more heartily Dr Ralph Serin Carleton University Canada James McGuire is one of the leading international experts on what works in reducing reoffending and he has written an extremely valuable and accessible textbook on psychology and crime The book is a clearly written well researched and up to date survey of important contributions of psychology to key criminological issues It is especially noteworthy for its illuminating reviews of cognitive social learning theories risk factors and longitudinal studies risk assessment cognitive behavioural programmes and meta analyses of treatment effectiveness Professor David Farrington Institute of Criminology University of Cambridge What contributions can psychology make to our understanding of crime How can psychological models and research help to prevent crime and reduce repeat offending This highly readable book discusses the complex relationships between psychology criminology and criminal justice Challenging the assumptions of those who object to the use of psychology within criminology this book shows how a methodical approach to the study of criminal behaviour can generate both systematic findings and practical solutions to problems McGuire argues for a broader understanding of crime based on factors such as the individual's cognitive and emotional development in addition to the influences of socialization peer groups and the social and economic environment He highlights the value of understanding pathways to offending behaviour and the critical points at which choices are made Topics include Theoretical and empirical research foundations of criminogenic risk factors Theory turned into practice the development of offending behaviour programmes A psychological perspective on some core concepts in criminology retribution deterrence and incapacitation Major practical applications of psychology in policing prosecution and sentencing This authoritative and stimulating text is essential reading for students in criminology and psychology and for criminal justice practitioners and policy makers

Rethinking Corrections Lior Gideon,Hung-En Sung,2011 Explores the challenges faced by convicted offenders over the course of rehabilitation and reintegration Each chapter focuses on a specific phase of the process Youth Desistance in Transition Christopher Kay,2025-10-20 This book offers a new and innovative way of thinking about desistance from crime fusing our understanding of desistance transitions youth transitions and the impact of significant policy change on people with convictions in a way which is yet to be seen in the available desistance literature It offers a critical account of the ways in which young adults move away from involvement in crime while also navigating the numerous personal social and structural transitions that characterise late adolescence By exploring the desistance narratives of young adult men under community supervision in England and Wales during the part privatisation of the probation service the book demonstrates the immediate impact of significant criminal justice policy change on those on the receiving end of such change Given the expansion of neoliberal ideas in criminal justice and the ever changing nature of criminal justice policy across the world it is vital that we develop a critical understanding of the impact of these changes upon the often overlooked people on the receiving end of them if we are to understand how such changes can be successful This book provides the first of such discussions charting the ways in which people with convictions navigate seemingly all encompassing change to lead a life free from crime Youth Desistance in Transition will be of interest to students and scholars of criminology and criminal justice particularly those focused on understanding desistance pathways It will also appeal to policymakers and social workers involved with youth justice and rehabilitation Life Beyond Murder Dan Gabriel Rusu,2024-11-18 Detailing the resettlement narratives of five men who have committed different types of murder confrontational revenge financial gain random intimate partner femicide and family feud this book counters narratives of neoliberal responsabilizing messages of individualism to investigate what informs their experiences of resettlement Life Beyond Murder Exploring the Identity Reconstruction of Mandatory Lifers After Release explores the impact of mandatory lifers institutionalisation families consumer culture emotions and supervision considering how these factors hamper or assist with their transition from the stigmatising identity of being dangerous murderers The book s discussion is guided by the men s narratives employing a tug of war metaphor to elucidate the push pull forces that influence the men s efforts to reconstruct their lives in the years following their release To be successful the book argues these men have to reconcile a paradoxical situation and the most skilled mandatory lifers manage to relativise their involvement in murder whilst concomitantly showing remorse This situation is achieved through a Splitting Narrative that ultimately defends against anxiety contains internal stigma and often showcases self flagellant remorse as they move towards positive social identities such as philanthropists family men wounded healers and pious members of the church

Imaginary Penalties Pat Carlen, 2013-01-11 This book is concerned to explore the idea of imaginary penalties and to understand why the management of criminal justice and criminal justice systems has so often reached crisis point Its underlying theme is that when political strategies of punitive populism are combined with managerialist techniques of social auditing a new all encompassing form of governance has emerged powerless to deliver what it promises but with a momentum of its own and increasingly removed from proper democratic accountability A highly distinguished international group of contributors explores this set of themes in a variety of different contexts taken from the UK N America Europe and Australia It will be essential reading for anybody seeking to understand some of the root causes of increasing prison populations social harms such as recidivism and domestic violence and the increasingly important role of criminal justice within systems of governance

Alternatives to Prison Anthony Bottoms, Sue Rex, Gwen Robinson, 2013-01-11 As the UK and many other western societies face up to the consequences of a rapidly increasing prison population so the search for alternative approaches to punishment and dealing with offenders has become an increasingly urgent priority for government policy and society as a whole This book reports the results of the research programme commissioned by the Coulsfield Inquiry into Alternatives to Prison which was funded by the Esm e Fairbairn Rethinking Crime and Punishment initiative It is written by leading authorities in the field and provides a comprehensive authoritative and wide ranging review of the range of issues associated with the use of noncustodial sanctions examining experiences in Scotland and Northern Ireland as well as England and Wales

Doing Research on Crime and Justice Roy King, Emma Wincup, 2008 Focusing on the problems that novice researchers encounter when translating neat and tidy textbook methodologies into real life situations this guide explains how to undertake research in the fields of criminology and criminal justice

Rethinking America's Correctional Policies Anne S. Douds, Eileen M. Ahlin, 2017-06-02 Commonsense Choices from Uncommon Voices Rethinking America's Correctional Policies brings together the experiences of men who served time in prison with contemporary research on correctional policy This work combines a voyeuristic desire to observe evil and the consequences of the system of punishment with detached consideration of what those stories can tell us about who we are as a nation and how we treat those who have betrayed the social trust The authors simultaneously examine first person accounts of inmate experiences with the correctional system and what actually works in operation to promote the rehabilitative and restorative models of justice so many of our policymakers espouse Each chapter opens with a vignette a recollection of an event or series of events about an inmate's experience during the various phases of correctional processing These first hand accounts have been collected from men who served time in prison These men's stories are examined in their own right then extrapolated to a broader analysis of the underlying social and policy issues to which that vignette speaks All chapters follow the same structure a opening vignette about a former inmate b analysis which includes i identification of the underlying issue ii reflection and iii extrapolation to a larger policy issue and c recommendations from the field for enacting practice and crafting policy more responsive to the identified issue
