Gynocritics and the Traversals of Women's Writing Hemant Verma, Ajit Kumar, Rafseena M., 2024-01-11 Discussions on any narrative focusing on the experiences of about and by women have always had differences as well as similarities What makes such varying approaches interesting is the fact that the re readings and re presentations of the hegemonic narratives necessitated the significance of feminist approaches which forms the major focus in the present volume A feminist reading of the current narratives could explain how historically women's rights and roles have been undermined and how the absence of women was never a concern in the male centered narratives Women's writings provide a consciousness that helps individuals consider critically about how differently men and women are dealt With different dimensions brought in through the various scholarly articles on the differential treatment of women in the highly misogynist society the book offers the space for the intellectuals the academic researchers and scholars in the field of literature and humanities to contribute to the development of an egalitarian world

Women Writers in the Twentieth Century Literature Monika Gupta, 2000

The Present Anthology Consisting Of Some Twenty Articles Of Moderate Length By Eminent Scholars At The National Level Is An Attempt In Analysing The Point Of View Of Women As Evinced In The Writings Of The Women Writers Belonging To The Different

Women Letter-Writers in Tudor England James Daybell, 2018-09-26 This book represents the most comprehensive study of women's letters and letter writing during the early modern period so far undertaken and acts as an important corrective to traditional ways of reading and discussing letters as private elite male and non political Based on over 3 000 manuscript letters it shows that letter writing was a larger and more socially diversified area of female activity than has been hitherto assumed In that letters constitute the largest body of extant sixteenth century women's writing the book initiates a reassessment of women's education and literacy in the period As indicators of literacy letters yield physical evidence of rudimentary writing activity and abilities document higher forms of female literacy and highlight women's mastery of formal rhetorical and epistolary conventions The book also stresses that letters are unparalleled as intimate and immediate records of family relationships and as media for personal and self reflective forms of female expression Read as documents that inscribe social and gender relations letters shed light on the complex range of women's personal relationships as female power and authority fluctuated negotiated on an individual basis Furthermore correspondence highlights the important political roles played by early modern women Female letter writers were integral in cultivating and maintaining patronage and kinship networks they were active as suitors for crown favour and operated as political intermediaries and patrons in their own right using letters to elicit influence Letters thus help to locate differing forms of female power within the family locality and occasionally on the wider political stage and offer invaluable primary evidence from which to reconstruct the lives of early modern women

Subjectivity and Women's Poetry in Early Modern England Lynnette McGrath, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2002 Combining the approaches of historic scholarship and post structural feminist psychoanalytic theory to late 16th and early 17th century poetry by women this book aims to make a unique contribution to the field of the study of early modern women's writings One of the first to concentrate exclusively on early modern women's poetry the full length critical study to applies post Lacanian French psychoanalytic theory to the genre The strength of this study is that it merges analysis of socio political constructions affecting early modern women poets writing in England with the psychoanalytic insights specific to women as subjects of post Lacanian theorists Luce Irigaray Helen Cixous Julia Kristeva and Rosi Braidotti

Writing British Infanticide Jennifer Thorn, 2003 Writing British Infanticide tracks the ways that the circulation of narratives of child murder in eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain shaped perceptions and punishments of the crime and more elusively hierarchies of class and gender The essays brought together in this volume pose the question How are we to understand the proliferation of writing about child murder in eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain the overlap of an expanding print culture with the widely evident narration of this particular crime Further what are we to make of the recurrent and remarkably consistent representation of child murder as the special province of unmarried desperate women Focussing on specific instances of the transformative effect of the circulation of narratives of child murder Writing British Infanticide takes as its purview not child murder per se but the ways that writing about its credentialed and differentiated writers in different but often overlapping genres and moments in a key period in the expansion of print Jennifer Thorn is an Assistant Professor of English at Duke University

French Women's Writing 1848-1994 Diana Holmes, 2000-01-12 A wide range of French women writers are surveyed including Sand Colette Beauvoir and Duras among the canonized and many marginalized or forgotten and contemporary names not yet widely known outside France These writers are seen within the political economic and cultural context of women s lives and how these have changed across a century and a half Underpinning the whole account is the relationship between gender and language between politics sexual and textual

Mother Is a Verb Sarah Knott, 2019-04-02 Welcome to a work of history unlike any other Mothering is as old as human existence But how has this most essential experience changed over time and cultures What is the history of maternity the history of pregnancy birth the encounter with an infant Can one capture the historical trail of mothers How In Mother Is a Verb the historian Sarah Knott creates a genre all her own in order to craft a new kind of historical interpretation Blending memoir and history and building from anecdote her book brings the past and the present viscerally alive It is at once intimate and expansive lyrical and precise As a history Mother Is a Verb draws on the terrain of Britain and North America from the seventeenth century to the close of the twentieth Knott searches among a range of past societies from those of Cree and Ojibwe women to tenant farmers in Appalachia from enslaved people on South Carolina rice plantations to tenement dwellers in New York City and London's East End She pores over diaries letters court records medical manuals items of clothing And she explores and documents her own experiences As a memoir Mother Is a Verb becomes a method of asking new questions and probing lost pasts in order to historicize the smallest even the most mundane of human experiences Is there a history to interruption to the sound of an infant's cry to sleeplessness Knott finds answers not through the telling of grand narratives but through the painstaking accumulation of a trellis of anecdotes And all the while we can feel the child on her hip

Modernist Women Writers and War Julie Goodspeed-Chadwick, 2011 In Modernist Women Writers and War Julie Goodspeed Chadwick examines important avant garde writings by three American women authors and shows that during World Wars I and II a new kind of war literature emerged one in which feminist investigation of war and trauma effectively counters the paradigmatic war experience long narrated by men In the past Goodspeed Chadwick explains scholars have not considered writings by women as part of war literature They have limited war writing to works by men such as William Butler Yeats's poem An Irish Airman Foresees His Death 1919 which relies on a male perspective a pilot contemplates his forthcoming flight his duty to his country and his life in combat But works by Djuna Barnes H D and Gertrude Stein set in wartime reveal experiences and views of war markedly different from those of male writers They write women and their bodies into their texts thus creating space for female war writing insisting on female presence in wartime and perhaps most significantly critiquing war and patriarchal politics often in devastating fashion Goodspeed Chadwick begins with Barnes who in her surrealist novel Nightwood 1936 emphasizes the actual perversity of war by placing it in contrast to the purported perverse and deviant behavior of her main characters In her epic poem Trilogy 1944 1946 H D validates female suffering and projects a feminist spiritual worldview that fosters healing from the ravages of war Stein for her part in her experimental novel Mrs Reynolds 1952 and her long love poem Lifting Belly 1953 captures her experience of the everyday reality of war on the home front within the domestic economy of her household In these works the female body stands as the primary textual marker or symbol of female identity an insistence on women s presence in both the text and in the world outside the book

The strategies employed by Barnes H D and Stein in these texts serve to produce a new kind of writing Goodspeed Chadwick reveals one that ineluctably constructs a female identity within and authorship of the war narrative Modern English
