Resource Selection by Animals B.F. Manly, L. McDonald, D.L. Thomas, Trent L. McDonald, Wallace P. Erickson, 2007-05-08
We have written this book as a guide to the design and analysis of field studies of resource selection concentrating primarily on statistical aspects of the comparison of the use and availability of resources of different types Our intended audience is field ecologists in general and in particular wildlife and fisheries biologists who are attempting to measure the extent to which real animal populations are selective in their choice of food and habitat As such we have made no attempt to address those aspects of theoretical ecology that are concerned with how animals might choose their resources if they acted in an optimal manner The book is based on the concept of a resource selection function RSF where this is a function of characteristics measured on resource units such that its value for a unit is proportional to the probability of that unit being used We argue that this concept leads to a unified theory for the analysis and interpretation of data on resource selection and can replace many ad hoc statistical methods that have been used in the past

Resource Selection by Animals Bryan F. J. Manly, L. McDonald, Dana Thomas, 1993 This book gives a clear and consistent framework for the study of how animals select their resources food and habitat by taking the reader through different types of study design It is an invaluable handbook for field biologists especially those concerned with the management and conservation of wildlife

Spatial Complexity, Informatics, and Wildlife Conservation Samuel A. Cushman, Falk Huettmann, 2009-12-21 As Earth faces the greatest mass extinction in 65 million years the present is a moment of tremendous foment and emergence in ecological science With leaps in advances in ecological research and the technical tools available scientists face the critical task of challenging policymakers and the public to recognize the urgency of our global crisis This book focuses directly on the interplay between theory data and analytical methodology in the rapidly evolving fields of animal ecology conservation and management The mixture of topics of particular current relevance includes landscape ecology remote sensing spatial modeling geostatistics genomics and ecological informatics The greatest interest to the practicing scientist and graduate student will be the synthesis and integration of these topics to provide a composite view of the emerging field of spatial ecological informatics and its applications in research and management

Sampling Rare or Elusive Species William Thompson, 2013-04-10
Information regarding population status and abundance of rare species plays a key role in resource management decisions Ideally data should be collected using statistically sound sampling methods but by their very nature rare or elusive species pose a difficult sampling challenge Sampling Rare or Elusive Species describes the latest sampling designs and survey methods for reliably estimating occupancy abundance and other population parameters of rare elusive or otherwise hard to detect plants and animals It offers a mixture of theory and application with actual examples from terrestrial aquatic and marine habitats around the world Sampling Rare or Elusive Species is the first volume devoted entirely to this topic and provides natural resource professionals with a suite of innovative approaches to gathering population status and trend data It represents an invaluable reference for natural resource professionals around the world including fish and wildlife biologists ecologists biometricians natural resource managers and all others whose work or research involves rare or elusive species

Habitat Ecology and Analysis Joseph A. Veech, 2021-01-29 The identification and analysis of the particular habitat needs of a species has always been a central focus of research and applied conservation in both ecology and wildlife biology Although these two academic communities have developed quite separately over many years there is now real value in attempting to unify them to allow better communication and awareness by practitioners and students from each discipline Despite the recent dramatic increase in the types of quantitative methods for conducting habitat analyses there is no single reference that simultaneously explains and compares all these new techniques This accessible textbook provides the first concise authoritative resource that clearly presents these emerging methods together and demonstrates how they can be applied to data using statistical methodology whilst putting the decades old pursuit of analyzing habitat into historical context Habitat Ecology and Analysis is written for senior undergraduate and graduate students taking courses in wildlife ecology conservation biology and habitat ecology as well as professional ecologists wildlife biologists conservation biologists and land managers requiring an accessible overview of the latest methodology

Handbook of Mathematical Geosciences B.S. Daya Sagar, Qiuming Cheng, Frits Agterberg, 2018-06-25 This Open Access handbook published at the IAMG's 50th anniversary presents a compilation of invited path breaking research contributions by award winning geoscientists who have been instrumental in shaping the IAMG It contains 45 chapters that are categorized broadly into five parts i theory ii general applications iii exploration and resource estimation iv reviews and v reminiscences covering related topics like mathematical geosciences mathematical morphology geostatistics fractals and multifractals spatial statistics multipoint geostatistics compositional data analysis informatics geocomputation numerical methods and chaos theory in the geosciences

The Normalized Difference Vegetation Index Nathalie Pettorelli, 2013-10-10 There has been a recent surge of interest in remote sensing and its use in ecology and conservation but this is the first book to focus explicitly on the NDVI Normalised Difference Vegetation Index a simple numerical indicator and powerful tool that can be used to assess spatio temporal changes in green vegetation The NDVI opens the possibility of addressing questions on scales inaccessible to ground based methods alone it is mostly freely available with global coverage over several decades This novel text provides an authoritative overview of the principles and possible applications of the NDVI in ecology environmental and wildlife management and conservation NDVI data can provide valuable information about temporal and spatial changes in vegetation distribution productivity and dynamics allowing monitoring of habitat degradation and fragmentation or assessment of the ecological effects of climatic disasters such as drought or fire The NDVI has also provided ecologists with a promising way to couple vegetation with animal distribution abundance movement survival and reproductive parameters Over the last few decades numerous studies have highlighted the potential key role of satellite data and the NDVI in macroecology plant ecology animal population dynamics environmental monitoring habitat selection and habitat use studies and paleoecology The chapters are organised around two sections the first detailing vegetation indices and the NDVI the principles behind the NDVI its correlation with climate the available NDVI datasets and the possible complications and errors associated with the use of this satellite based vegetation index The second section discusses the possible applications of the NDVI in ecology environmental and wildlife management and conservation
