Research and Practice in Alzheimer's Disease, 1999 Handbook of Dementia Care Jean M. Stehman, 1996 Even in the earliest stages of progressive dementia patients have difficulty evaluating their own needs and engaging in appropriate activities A therapeutic program of care including constructive activities and behavior management is necessary for maximizing patients functioning and quality of life The Handbook of Dementia Care and its companion Training Manual and Video for Dementia Care Specialists offer a complete training system for teachers and students providing dementia care in a variety of settings Developed at the well known George G Glenner Alzheimer s Family Centers the program s instructor s manual and student handbook are organized into six teaching modules basic information on dementia positive interaction techniques supportive physical environment therapeutic activities group activities and family support Each module is accompanied by a videotaped lecture and demonstration presentation to further illustrate the topic being discussed This exciting project is a comprehensive instructional tool for dementia care professionals working in adult day centers long term care and residential settings hospitals nursing homes and home health care agencies Comprehensive Geriatric Oncology Lodovico Balducci, Gary H. Lyman, William B. Ershler, Martine Extermann, 2004-03-01 Published in 2004 This new edition of Comprehensive Geriatric Oncology still offers an exhaustive review of the biology of cancer and aging of the epidemiologic trends in the country and in the world and of the clinical trials that concern cancer prevention and cancer treatment in the elderly Working With Custodial Grandparents Bert Hayslip, 2003 The 18 papers of this collection on grandparents who raise their grandchildren are grouped into the broad categories of theory practical applications and empirical studies Individual topics include case studies intervention research support groups cross discipline approaches to establishing caregiving guidelines the psychological adaptation of grandchildren building parenting skills and grandparent caregivers of children with developmental disabilities The contributors teach psychology social work child development and gerontology at universities in the US Your Name Is Hughes Hannibal Shanks Lela Knox Shanks, 2005-01-01 Your Name Is Hughes Hannibal Shanks is Lela Knox Shanks s personal account of caring for her husband Hughes in their home after he was stricken with Alzheimer s disease Lela describes her initial denial her discovery of coping skills her eventual acceptance of his illness and her ultimate recognition that the key to successful caregiving lies in never losing sight of the patient s humanness The book outlines twenty coping and survival strategies to guide caregivers to untapped inner resources and shows caregiving s intangible rewards of increased self respect and self knowledge Last Rights Barbara Logue, 1993-01-01 Several recent trends demographic social and economic are increasing the incidence and public support of deliberate death among the old and sick The number of elderly people is at an all time high Medical technology can prolong the lives of these men and women but it cannot keep them independent free of pain or competent to manage their own affairs

Never before have so many been so sick for so long. Changes in the size and structure of the American family make long term home care almost impossible while exorbitant health costs and scarce resources limit the provision of high quality care by paid workers. Researcher Barbara J. Logue refers to any deliberate behavior that causes death as death control. She points out that death control like birth control involves very serious and deeply personal decisions, choices that ought to be made on the basis of reliable information with care and compassion without coercion. She goes on to assert that like birth control, death control should be performed legally and with the help of the medical community. Without access to assisted deaths, many frail old people are left to endure wretched deaths. Some die slowly of neglect or malnutrition in nursing homes. Others take their own lives, sometimes by violent means, while they can still act independently because they are afraid that no one will help them if they wait until they are very sick. Some die alone, fearful of implicating friends or relatives in their back alley euthanasia. While some die too soon because they are poor, uneducated, or hard to manage, others are overtreated and their deaths delayed because doctors and hospitals want to increase their income or fear prosecution if they help a patient die. Barbara Logue describes these and many other hazards inherent in our present long term care system, noting that all too often the system causes suffering instead of alleviating it. After assessing the alternatives, she urges that we must make compassionate death control as available as birth control. We must regulate and monitor it like any other medical procedure, taking steps to minimize the risks while maximizing the benefits. Women in the Middle Elaine M. Brody, 2006-03-16

Daughters are the main caregivers to elderly disabled parents, most often in their middle years and are caught in the middle of multiple competing demands on their time and energy. Dr. Brody revisits this phenomenon in this updated edition of her groundbreaking work. Handbook of Theories of Aging Vern L. Bengtson, PhD, Richard Settersten, 2016-05-28. This state of the art handbook will keep researchers and practitioners in gerontology abreast of the newest theories and models of aging. With virtually all new contributors and content, this edition contains 35 chapters by the most highly respected luminaries in the field. It addresses theories and concepts built on cumulative knowledge in four disciplinary areas: biology, psychology, social sciences, and policy and practice, as well as landmark advances in transdisciplinary science. With its explicit focus on theory, the handbook is unique in providing essential knowledge about primary explanations for aging, spanning from cells to societies. The chapters in the third edition place a strong emphasis on the future of theory development, assessing the current state of theories and providing a roadmap for how theory can shape research and vice versa in years to come. Many chapters also address connections between theories and policy or practice. Each set of authors has been asked to consider how theories in their area address matters of diversity and inequalities in aging and how theories might be revised or tested with these matters in mind. The third edition also contains a new section, Standing on the Shoulders of Giants, which includes personal essays by senior gerontologists who share their perspectives on the history of ideas in their fields and on their experiences with the process and prospects of developing good theory. Hallmarks of the

Third Edition Highlights important gains in trans disciplinary theories of aging Emphasizes the future of theory development Provides insightson theory development from living legends in gerontology Examines what human diversity and inequality mean for aging theories Emphasizes interconnections between theory research intervention and policy Underscores international issues with greater representation of international authors Includes section introductions by the editors and associate editors that summarize theoretical developments Key Features Highlightsvariability and diversity in aging processes from the cellular level of biological aging to the societal level of public policy Provides insightson theory development from living legends in gerontology Offers intergenerational interdisciplinary and international perspectives Disseminates a forward thinking future oriented focus in theory development
