Risking Old Age In America:

Risking Old Age In America Richard J. Margolis, 2019-06-18 Originally published in 1990 Research into the provision made for the 30 million Americans aged sixty five and up whom society calls old The New Politics of Old Age Policy Robert B. Hudson, 2005 The successor to Robert Hudson's The Future of Age Based Public Policy this volume offers a variety of perspectives on these policy issues that directly effect America's aging population particularly the relative merits of using chronological age to determine eligibility for government programs Aging, Social Inequality, and Public Policy Fred C. Pampel, 1998-02-25 Author Fred C. Pampel treats age as a component of social inequality which gives rise to the three major themes of the text diversity in the experience of individuals differences in public policy and variations across nations Comparison of the United States with other nations is a central component of the book providing a greater understanding of the larger forces that shape old age Services to the Aging and Aged Paul K. Kim, 2021-03-04 This series attempts to address the topic of aging from a wide variety of perspectives and to make available some of the best gerontological thought and writings to researchers professional practitioners and students in the field of aging as well as in other related areas This volume is an invaluable resource for those persons seeking a broad comprehensive coverage of current public policies and service programs for the elderly Besides dealing with present gerontological services it also explores the emerging challenges that these services must face in the future One of the outstanding features of the book is that its contributors include some of the most prominent authorities in the field of gerontology This is an exceptionally important and timely volume and is a much needed addition to the literature on aging Critical Perspectives on Aging Meredith Minkler, Carroll Estes, 2020-11-25 This unique volume brings together 20 critical essays on aging within the context of the broad social political and economic factors that help shape and determine the realities of growing old Rather than viewing aging in isolation it explores the social creation of old age dependency and the profound influence of race gender and social class on what it means to grow old It looks too at such topics as the biomedicalization of aging the role of business and the media in changing societal images of the old the fact and fiction behind senior power the multibillion dollar nursing home industry and the role of advanced capitalist nations in creating economic dependency among elders in the Third World Remainder of Their Days Carolyn J. Rosenthal, Jon Hendricks, 2021-04-14 First published in 1993 This present volume co edited by two sociologists Jon Hendricks of the United States and Carolyn Rosenthal of Canada focuses on a comparative cross national discussion of social policies of the United States and Canada especially those related to health care The uniqueness of this work lies in the fact that it views family experiences from both a Canadian and an American perspective In addition this book not only fills a gap in our knowledge of social policies but contributes to our understanding of how these policies shape and effect the lives of older families in both countries Aging and Adult Development in the Developing World Frank E. Eytsemitan, James T. Gire, 2003-02-28 Most studies of human development in developing societies have focused on the childhood stage and in a few cases exploration has extended up to adolescence since this age group represents about half the population in developing societies The developed world however is experiencing a surge in the elderly population and this has spurred its study There is growing recognition that studies are needed in order to understand aging in all contexts and to discover how the experience may differ in developing and developed societies In this book the authors discuss the appropriateness or inappropriateness of applying Western theories and perspectives to studies of aging in the developing world The present study critically examines the major theories in the area of aging and adult development covering such domains as the physical psychological and social aspects of aging death and dying and social and public policies Applying the concepts of individualism and collectivism as well as the global and environmental dimensions of the developing world the authors have earmarked the theories that seem suitable only to the developed world and those that appear to be universally relevant Handbook of Aging and the Family Rosemary Blieszner, Victoria Hilkevitch

Bedford, 1996-07-30 No other reference provides such a comprehensive and timely overview of theory and research on family relationships the contexts of family life and major turning points in late life families It includes many suggestions for theoretical and practical applications for future research on a score of important topics This multidisciplinary survey is an invaluable library reference and teaching resource intended for upper level undergraduate and graduate students teachers and practitioners for gerontologists family scholars psychologists sociologists historians social workers health care providers and policy makers Families in Later Life Alexis Walker, 2001-01-22 The introductory essays and readings drawn from both literature and social science research vividly illustrate the diversity of aging experiences both within and across American families diversity conditioned by social space historical time and individual biography Eleanor Palo Stoller Selah Chamberlain Professor of Sociology Case Western Reserve University Families in Later Life is the only textbook on the subject that addresses the diversity of aging experiences in society by race gender and social class and in a form which combines insight from the humanities as well as the social sciences Includes a balance between empirical selections and literary pieces keeping students interested and engaged while still introducing them to solid research Every social science article included has been carefully edited so those students learn and enjoy their reading to the maximum extent possible Framing Essays by the Editors Questions for Discussion and a complete Index make this book even more useful for teaching The Graying of the World Laura Katz Olson, 1994 This unique book studies America's frail older population relative to the elderly in ten other nations It contains a cross national assessment of approaches to long term care for the elderly and explains the nature and extent of current and future problems related to caring for the functionally impaired elderly By studying and analyzing the ongoing struggles of other nations in their attempts to cope with growing populations of frail elderly readers in the U S can expand the parameters of their own national debate on the subject The Graying of the World shows the political economic and social context in which decisions on elder care are based and evaluates how successful various countries programs have been Chapters outline alternative approaches taken by disparate types of national systems highlighting unique and creative solutions to provide useful information on new and alternative ways to respond to personal and public issues related to elder care The elderly and their care in Finland France Germany Great Britain Israel Japan People's Republic of China Sweden and Yugoslavia are discussed as are the elderly in Canada and the United States Chapters cover the following topics for each country the increasing number of frail elderly and their costly health needs the current and future role of the state in elder care the current and future role of the family in elder care types of support services offered for the elderly including in home care community based care and institutional care the relationship of a nation's political economy to its attitude and policy on long term care innovative approaches to elder care Practitioners decision makers and the concerned general public will all find The Graying of the World an interesting and informative book that expands the discussion of health care options available for the elderly As such the book is also a helpful text for undergraduate and beginning graduate students of gerontology public policy and comparative politics as well as for social service practitioners It provokes much needed conversation on developing a healthcare plan for the future that meets the needs of a large elderly population
