

Sponges

(Cambrian to present day)

Sponges are not often found as fossils because they usually break up into individual minute sponge spicules. However, in the Chalk they are preserved in flint (right). These are commonly found on beaches consisting of flint derived from the Chalk.

Corals

(Cambrian to present day)

Corals can be either solitary or colonial. Colonial corals are important reef builders in tropical seas. Fossil coral is commonly found in the Carboniferous Limestone which was laid down under similar conditions and can be very attractive when cut and polished (right).

Brachiopods

(Cambrian to present day)

Brachiopods, or 'lamp shells' are evolutionary leftovers from the Palaeozoic Era when they were the dominant shellfish. They are therefore extremely common fossils. Today they have largely been replaced by bivalves.

Bivalves

(Cambrian to present day)

Bivalves include clams, oysters, mussels and other shellfish that have a shell in two hinged parts called 'valves'. Their shells resemble brachiopods but they are not usually symmetrical. They are very common as fossils. This example is from the Chalk.

Gastropods

(Cambrian to present day)

Gastropods are today more commonly known as snails and slugs. Their spirally-coiled shells come in a wide range of shapes and ornaments and they are very common as fossils. Gastropods and bivalves are both molluscs. This example is from the Woolwich Beds of Essex.

Ammonites

(Jurassic to Cretaceous)

Ammonites were squid-like animals, which lived in a coiled chambered shell. Their rapid evolution makes them useful for correlating rock strata. They are popular with collectors, such as this example from Jurassic rocks at Lyme Regis in Dorset.

Belemnites

(Jurassic to Cretaceous)

Belemnites are the hard, internal shell of a marine animal related to the squid and cuttlefish. They are bullet-shaped with a radial internal structure consisting of the mineral calcite and are extremely common fossils in Jurassic rocks. These examples are from the Oxford Clay.

Trilobites

(Cambrian to Permian)

Trilobites are long-extinct woodlouse-like marine animals that were very diverse in the Palaeozoic Era. Although common as fossils they are difficult to collect because their shells often broke up after death and they usually only occur in hard rocks such as this example from Mid-Wales.

Echinoids

(Ordovician to present day)

Echinoids are more commonly known as sea urchins. Their shells were covered in spines when alive but these became detached after death. They are quite common as fossils, especially in the Chalk of Southern England where they are often found as flint casts (right).

Graptolites

(Cambrian to Carboniferous)

Graptolites were colonial animals that drifted in the surface waters of the oceans during the Palaeozoic Era. They are very common in some rocks but are usually crushed and poorly preserved. This example is from Dyfed in Wales.
