Positive African American Men united A Cultural Revolution

David Bleiler

Positive African American Men United A Cultural Revolution:

Positive African American Men-United Sidney Wingfield, 1993 The African-American Male Jacob U.

Gordon, 1999-07-30 The plight of the Black male in American society has been well documented by scholars and practitioners. Although Black males represent only 6 percent of the American population they represent about 40 percent of the prison population. The number of Black males in prison and jail exceeds the number of Black males in higher education. The homicide rates for Black males were 72.5 percent per 100,000, nearly eight times higher than for White males. This bibliographic volume explores the extent to which American academia has addressed these problems. It will be an invaluable resource for researchers as well as practitioners in social service programs. In addition to more than 400 annotated publications, the book includes a selected list of works on the African American male and a compilation of doctoral dissertations. This publication will serve as a reference in public as well as academic libraries, human service agencies, government policymaking agencies, and in academic courses in gender and ethnic studies, criminal justice, and social psychology. Pathways to Manhood

Janet Mancini Billson, 2018-04-17 In Pathways to Manhood published in cloth as Strategic Styles: Coping in the Inner City, Janet Mancini Billson studies five young boys who grew up in Roxbury, Massachusetts during the intense racial and political turmoil of the late 1960s and early 1970s. Using data from Harvard's Pathways to Identity project, she analyzes how healthy ego striving develops in the social and physical decay of an inner city environment. The author draws a rich and absorbing portrait of each boy and of his life. Although they grew up in the same social context, the boys became very different individuals. In a new preface to this expanded edition, Billson maintains that it is still vitally important to understand the coping styles that young Black males develop in the face of adversity. Bernard E. Bruce traces what happened to the five boys who are now men. In their forties, in his poignant epilogue From Boys to Men, a new chapter on intervention strategies shows how parents, teachers, and others who work with inner city youth can most effectively support positive coping styles. Graphic representations help visualize both the styles and the intervention strategies. This classic book is a valued resource for parents, for those who work in the helping professions, education, and the criminal justice system, and for students of sociological theory, social psychology, human development, and race relations. Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1994-04
