Postcomposition Sidney I Dobrin, 2011-06-02 Leading a burgeoning self critical moment in composition studies and writing program administration Postcomposition is a fundamental reconsideration of the field that attempts to shift the focus away from pedagogy and writing subjects and toward writing itself In this forceful and reasoned critique of many of the primary tenets and widely accepted institutional structures of composition studies Sidney I Dobrin delivers a series of shocks to the system meant to disrupt the pedagogical imperative and move beyond the existing limits of the discipline Dobrin evaluates the current state of composition studies underscoring the difference between composition and writing and arguing that the field's focus on the administration of writing students and its historically imposed prohibition on theory greatly limit what can be understood about writing Instead he envisions a more significant approach to writing one that questions the field's conservative allegiance to subject and administration and reconsiders writing as spatial and ecological Using concepts from ecocomposition spatial theory network theory complexity theory and systems theory Postcomposition lays the groundwork for a networked theory of writing and advocates the abandonment of administration as a useful part of the field He also challenges the usefulness of rhetoric in writing studies showing how writing exceeds rhetoric Postcomposition is a detailed consideration of how posthumanism affects the field's understanding of subjectivity It also tears at the seams of the contingent labor problem As he articulates his own frustrations with the conservatism of composition studies and builds on previous critiques of the discipline Dobrin stages a courageous and inevitably polemical intellectual challenge to the entrenched ideas and assumptions that have defined composition studies

Resources in Education ,1999 Doing Time, Writing Lives Patrick W. Berry, 2018 Doing Time Writing Lives offers a much needed analysis of the teaching of college writing in U S prisons a racialized space that despite housing more than 2.2 million people remains nearly invisible to the general public Through the examination of a college in prison program that promotes the belief that higher education in prison can reduce recidivism and improve life prospects for the incarcerated and their families author Patrick W Berry exposes not only incarcerated students hopes and dreams for their futures but also their anxieties about whether education will help them Beginning by exploring the need to move beyond narratives of hope when discussing literacy initiatives within prisons Berry then illustrates how teachers and students frequently hold on to different beliefs about literacy and its power in the world After discussing the possibilities and limitations of professional writing courses in prisons the author argues that we need to pay greater attention to teachers and their motivations in prison education initiatives Finally he offers a case study of one formerly imprisoned student who uses writing in his current life and how this does and does not connect with what he learned in his prison education program Combining case studies and interviews with the author's own personal experiences teaching writing in prison Doing Time Writing Lives chronicles how incarcerated students attempt to write themselves back into a society that has erased their lived histories It challenges polarizing rhetoric often used to describe what literacy can and cannot deliver suggesting more nuanced and ethical ways of understanding literacy and possibility in an age of mass incarceration

The Best of the Independent Rhetoric and Composition Journals 2010 Steve Parks, Linda Adler-Kassner, 2011-03-26 THE BEST OF THE INDEPENDENT RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION JOURNALS 2010 represents the result of a nationwide conversation beginning with journal editors but expanding to teachers scholars and workers across the discipline of Rhetoric and Composition to select essays that showcase the innovative and transformative work now being published in the field's independent journals Representing both print and digital journals in the field the essays featured here explore issues ranging from classroom practice to writing in global and digital contexts from writing workshops to community activism Together the essays provide readers with a rich understanding of the present and future direction of the field Teaching Writing Creatively David Starkey,1998 Teaching Writing Creatively represents a challenge to conventional notions of genre It seeks to break down the artificial antiquated barriers between creative and academic writing making the writing classroom experience a more imaginative one Teaching Writing Creatively features many of the most respected names in composition instructors with long successful histories of providing teachers with functional yet inventive methods of teaching writing The collection begins with articles that assert that all good writing must be in some important sense creative These contributors offer accounts of the transformation of their composition classrooms essays that demonstrate that good student writing is only marginally about genre and a critique of the creative writing workshop as a model for the composition class Part II offers a variety of ways to approach the teaching of writing as a creative endeavor It includes articles on helping students better understand their own writing processes and suggestions on alternative composing strategies and their classroom applications The contributors to the final section offer a variety of new approaches to creative writing that can be successfully applied to expository writing courses as well Student centered and process oriented Teaching Writing Creatively is a book writing instructors will find immediately useful particularly composition instructors who feel hemmed in by the conventional expectations of writing courses and creative writing instructors looking to take advantage of the latest innovations in composition studies

Introduction to Scholarship in Modern Languages and Literatures David G. Nicholls,2015-01-01 The third edition of the MLA s widely used Introduction to Scholarship in Modern Languages and Literatures features sixteen new essays by leading scholars Designed to highlight relations among languages and forms of discourse the volume is organized into three sections Understanding Language provides an overview of the field of linguistics with special attention to language acquisition and the social life of languages Forming Texts offers tools for understanding how speakers and writers shape language it examines scholarship in the distinct but interrelated fields of rhetoric composition and poetics Reading Literature and Culture continues the work of the first two sections by introducing major areas of critical study The nine essays in this section cover textual and historical scholarship interpretation comparative cultural and translation studies and the interdisciplinary topics of gender sexuality race and migrations among others As in previous volumes an epilogue examines the role of the scholar in contemporary society Each essay discusses the significance underlying assumptions and limits of an important field of inquiry traces the historical development of its subject introduces key terms outlines modes of research now being pursued postulates future developments and provides a list of suggestions for further reading This book will interest any member of the academic community seeking a review of recent scholarship while it provides an indispensable resource for undergraduate and graduate students of modern languages and literatures Feminist Rhetorical Resilience Elizabeth A Flynn,Patricia Sotirin,Ann Brady,2012-06-16 Although it is well known in other fields the concept of resilience has not been addressed explicitly by feminist rhetoricians This collection develops it in readings of rhetorical situations across a range of social contexts and national cultures Contributors demonstrate that resilience offers an important new conceptual frame for feminist rhetoric with emphasis on agency change and hope in the daily lives of individuals or groups of individuals disempowered by social or material forces Collectively these chapters create a robust conception of resilience as a complex rhetorical process redeeming it from its popular association with individual heroism through an important focus on relationality community and an ethics of connection Resilience in this volume is a specifically rhetorical response to complicated forces in individual lives Through it Feminist Rhetorical Resilience widens the interpretive space within which rhetoricians can work

Radical Romanticism Mark S. Cladis, 2025-09-16 Romanticism is often reduced to nostalgic pastoralism and solitary contemplation of the sublime But a radical strand of Romantic writers and thinkers offered sweeping political ecological and religious critiques of capitalism racism settler colonialism and environmental destruction Interweaving canonical nineteenth century authors with Black and Indigenous thinkers who transformed their work this book is a bold new account of Romanticism for today s deeply entrenched crises Mark S Cladis examines the progressive democratic religious and environmental beliefs and practices that informed European Romantic literature and its sustained legacies in North America His interpretation interweaves diverse voices such as W E B Du Bois Zora Neale Hurston and Leslie Marmon Silko while also revealing the progressive visions of Romantic authors such as Rousseau William and Dorothy Wordsworth Coleridge Mary Shelley Thoreau and Margaret Fuller Forging connections among literary and philosophical traditions while closely reading a wide range of texts Radical Romanticism shows how storytelling is central to the pursuit of justice and flourishing for the human and the more than human worlds Bringing together environmental humanities literary theory political theory and religious studies this book makes the case for a renewed radical Romanticism offering urgent resources for a world beset by catastrophe uncertainty and despair

Beyond Conversation William Duffy, 2021-01-04 Collaboration was an important area of study in writing for many years but interest faded as scholars began to assume that those working within writing studies already got it In Beyond Conversation William Duffy revives the topic and connects it to the growing interest in collaboration within digital and materialist rhetoric to demonstrate that not only do the theory pedagogy and practice of collaboration need more study but there is also much to be learned from the doing of collaboration While interrogating the institutional politics that circulate around debates about collaboration this book offers a concise history of collaborative writing theory while proposing a new set of commonplaces for understanding the labor of coauthorship Specifically Beyond Conversation outlines an interactionist theory that explains collaboration as the rhetorical capacity that manifests in the discursive engagements coauthors enter into with the objects of their writing Drawing on new materialist philosophies post qualitative inquiry and interactionist rhetorical theory Beyond Conversation challenges writing and literacy educators to recognize the pedagogical benefits of collaborative writing in the work they do both as writers and as teachers of writing The book will reinvigorate how teachers scholars and administrators advocate for the importance of collaborative writing in their work Education as Civic Engagement G. Olson,L. Worsham,2012-08-16 A collection of the finest works of scholarship examining education mostly higher education as civic engagement published over the last decade in JAC an award winning journal of rhetoric politics and culture National Healing Claude Hurlbert,2013-02-01 In National Healing author Claude Hurlbert persuasively relates nationalism to institutional racism and contends that these are both symptoms of a national ill health afflicting American higher education and found even in the field of writing studies Teachers and scholars even in progressive fields like composition are unwittingly at odds with their own most liberatory purposes he says and he advocates consciously broadening our understanding of rhetoric and writing instruction to include rhetorical traditions of non Western cultures Threading a personal narrative of his own experiences as a student professor and citizen through a wide ranging discussion of theory pedagogy and philosophy in the writing classroom Hurlbert weaves a vision that moves beyond simple polemic and simplistic multiculturalism National Healing offers a compelling new aesthetic epistemological and rhetorical configuration GenAdmin Colin Charlton,Jonikka Charlton,2011-09-26 GenAdmin Theorizing WPA Identities in the Twenty First Century examines identity formation in a generation of rhetoric and composition professionals who have undergone explicit preparation in scholarly dimensions of writing program administration The authors argue for GenAdmin both as an intellectual identity and as a contingent philosophy of writing program work GenAdmin alternates between traditional chapters and accompanying Interludes each of which offers extended illuminations of the single conflict or theoretical question integral to the preceding chapter Situating Composition Ede, Lisa,2004 Responding to a growing pedagogical paralysis in debates over the nature and status of composition studies as an academic discipline Lisa Ede offers a provocative inquiry into the politics of composition s place in the academy The result is a timely and engaging reflection on the rhetoric ideology and ethics of scholarship and instruction in composition studies today
