The American Father Wade C. Mackey, 2013-06-29 In The American Father Wade C Mackey documents a wealth of information demonstrating the vast benefits to society when its children are raised in families with fathers The biopsychosocial approach Mackey in human employs is consistent with the current treatment of topics development This approach which is grounded in a variety of diverse sources assumes that we understand little about people when we study them a bit at a time rather the fullness of the individual requires a fullness of examination For example in the cases of fathers we note that humans do not reproduce alone after all we are not an asexual species No human reproduction and its sequelae are social just as clearly as they are biological and involve the whole panoply of psychic function motivation sociability intelligence and the like The evidence marshaled by Mackey indicates strongly that individuals and societies have an essential requirement for something more than mothering they also need fathering Much of the discourse and publication on fathers during the past several decades has been posited on a more is better model of male parenting in which it is seldom stated who it is better for the father the child the mother the couple or the family Further much of this discussion infers that fathers are merely Mr Moms yet this is not so
