Planning Responsibly for Adult Education Ronald M. Cervero,Arthur L. Wilson,1994-03-11 People politics and variable funding all contribute to the complexity of the program planning process for continuing education In this book Cervero and Wilson articulate a theory of program planning as a social rather than scientific process In so doing they open up dialogue in an area where debate is badly needed Must reading for practitioners and professors of adult and continuing education Von Pittman associate dean Division of Continuing Education University of Iowa Handbook of Adult and Continuing Education, 7-by-10-inch Format Sharan B. Merriam,1989-08-21 Abstract Identifies and analyzes major issues and problems facing today s adult and continuing education professionals covering such topics as how adults learn ways to provide continuing education for older adults minorities and other special clientele how adult and continuing education is effectively manage in different settings public and private funding of adult education how to effectively evaluate programs options for meeting the needs of adult learners in the future and how to improve professional training of adult education practitioners

Effective Continuing Education for Professionals Ronald M. Cervero, 1988-10-21 Effective Continuing Education for Professionals tells how to improve the quality of continuing education programs in a variety of professional fields. Winners of the NUCEA's 1990 Frandson Award for Literature in Continuing Education and the AAACE's 1989 Cyril O. Houle World Award for Literature in Adult Education.

Physician-scientists' Learning in Communities of Practice Min-fen Wang, 2005 Contemporary Issues in American Distance Education Michael G. Moore, 1990 Distance Learning in America is characterised by an enormous variety of institutions, programs, media, and pedagogical methods. This book attempts to draw together an overall picture of the rapid growth and achievements in the field of American distance education and the problems and issues that confront it. The book is aimed primarily at the university and college teacher and student and particularly at graduate students in adult and distance education and other related fields. It aims to provide a cross-sectional view of the administrative and policy issues, the questions about learners and instruction, the problems of curriculum and course design, and the new conceptual and theoretical concerns of some of the country's foremost practitioners and thinkers.

Working the Planning Table Ronald M. Cervero, Arthur L. Wilson, 2006 In Working the Planning Table Ronald M. Cervero and Arthur L. Wilson offer a theory that accounts for planners' lived experience and provides a guide for developing effective educational programs for adults. The book presents three planning case studies that illustrate how power, interests, ethical commitment, and negotiation are central to planners' everyday work. These stories offer guidance on how to respond to the realities of practice and clearly point out that the technical work of planning is always political. Working the Planning Table reveals how people work to negotiate educational and political outcomes for multiple stakeholders. Cervero and Wilson introduced their groundbreaking framework in their 1994 book Planning Responsibly for Adult Education. Their theory provided a new understanding of the everyday realities faced in planning educational programs for adults. Since that time they have further developed this effective approach to educational planning. Working the Planning Table reflects their most recent research and offers a practical, user-friendly guide for planners of adult education programs. Working the Planning Table is an essential resource for all educational planners. In addressing the perennial topics of planning, Cervero and Wilson show how assessing needs, developing objectives, designing instruction, and administering and evaluating programs always require planners' ethical commitment and astute political negotiation of interests in social and organizational contexts.

The Literature of Adult Education Cyril O. Houle, 1992-10-30 In every chapter Houle includes valuable background information and essay-style commentary to highlight authors' purposes, clarify each work's place in the field, and give meaning and sequence to the literature as a whole. The comprehensive 200-page bibliography that concludes the book reflects all the works discussed within the chapters and provides access to virtually all published literature on adult and continuing education.
