Realizing The University:

Realizing the University Ronald Barnett, 1999-12-16 The university has lost its way The world needs the university more than ever but for new reasons If we are to clarify its new role in the world we need to find a new vocabulary and a new sense of purpose The university is faced with supercomplexity in which our very frames of understanding action and self identity are all continually challenged In such a world the university has explicitly to take on a dual role firstly of compounding supercomplexity so making the world ever more challenging and secondly of enabling us to live effectively in this chaotic world Internally too the university has to become a new kind of organization adept at fulfilling this dual role The university has to live by the uncertainty principle it has to generate uncertainty to help us live with uncertainty and even to revel in our uncertainty Ronald Barnett offers nothing less than a fundamental reworking of the way in which we understand the modern university Realizing the University is essential reading for all those concerned about the future of higher education

Realizing the Distinctive University Mark William Roche, 2017-02-28 In Realizing the Distinctive University Vision and Values Strategy and Culture Mark William Roche changes the terms of the debate about American higher education A former dean of the College of Arts and Letters at the University of Notre Dame Roche argues for the importance of an institutional vision not simply a brand and while he extols the value of entrepreneurship he defines it in contrast to the corporate drive toward commercialization and demands for business management models Using the history of the German university to assess the need for and implementation of distinctive visions at American colleges and universities Roche's own vision benefits from his deep connection to both systems as well as his experience in the trenches working to realize the special mission of an American Catholic university Roche makes a significant contribution by delineating means for moving such an institution from vision to implementation Roche provides a road map to creating a superb arts and sciences college within a major research university and offers a rich analysis of five principles that have shaped the modern American university flexibility competition incentives accountability and community He notes the challenges and problems that surface with these categories and includes ample illustration of both best practices and personal missteps The book makes clear that even a compelling intellectual vision must always be linked to its embodiment in rhetoric support structures and community Throughout this unique and appealing contribution to the literature on higher education Roche avoids polemic and remains optimistic about the ways in which a faculty member serving in administration can make a positive difference Realizing the Distinctive University is a must read for academic administrators faculty members interested in the inner workings of the university and graduate students and scholars of higher education

Realizing the Ecological University Ronald Barnett, 2024-08-22 The ecological university takes its interconnectedness with the world seriously This is challenging for the world is in difficulty and is shot through with antagonism The university is partly culpable for those difficulties and so has responsibilities towards the world Realizing the Ecological University spells out this thesis by charting the university's entanglements with eight ecosystems knowledge learning persons social institutions culture the economy the polity and nature The book identifies ways in which each of the eight ecosystems is impaired and points to possibilities through which universities can help in repairing those ecosystems This book also sets out broad principles in helping to realize the ecological university in each of the eight ecosystems Wearing his scholarship lightly Ronald Barnett draws widely from philosophy social theory comparative higher education and ethics and advances a particular form of the philosophy of higher education at once realist societal critical worldly and Earthly Written with wit and lots of examples actual and fictional the text has a compelling vibrancy made manifest in its concluding Manifesto

Imagining the University Ronald Barnett, 2013 Around the world what it is to be a university is a matter of much debate The range of ideas of the university in public circulation is however exceedingly narrow and is dominated by the idea of the entrepreneurial university As a consequence the debate is hopelessly impoverished Lurking in the literature there is a broad and even imaginative array of ideas of the university but those ideas are seldom heard We need consequently not just more ideas of the university but better ideas Imagining the University forensically examines this situation critically interrogating many of the current ideas of the university Imagining the University argues for imaginative ideas that are critical sensitive to the deep structures underlying universities and are yet optimistic in short feasible utopias of the university The case is pressed for one such idea that of the ecological university The book concludes by offering a vision of the imagining university a university that has the capacity continually to re imagine itself

Macdonald, Jr.,2017-02-24 If the secular university by definition is non sectarian or non denominational then how can it accommodate a discipline like Christian theology Doesn t the traditional goal of theological study which is to attain knowledge of the divine fundamentally conflict with the main goal of secular academic study which is to attain knowledge about ourselves and the world in which we live So why should theology be admitted or even care about being admitted into secular academic life And even if theology were admitted what contribution to secular academic life could it make Working from a Christian philosophical and theological perspective but also engaging a wide range of theologians philosophers and religious studies scholars Christian Theology and the Secular University takes on these questions arguing that Christian theology does belong in the secular university because it provides distinct resources that the secular university needs if it is going to fulfill what should be its main epistemic and educative ends This book offers a fresh and unique perspective to scholars working in the disciplines of theology philosophy and religious studies and to those in other academic disciplines who are interested in thinking critically and creatively about the place and nature of theological study within the secular university

ECIC 2013 Proceedings of the 5th European Conference on Intellectual Capital Lidia Garcia, Arturo Rodriguez-Castellanos, Jon Barrutia-Guenaga, 2013

Realizing the University Ronald Barnett, 1997 Professor Barnett argues that if we are to gain a distinctive role for the university in the modern age we need a new vocabulary and a new sense of purpose what is called for is a reconstruction of the university if it is to be adequate to the challenges of the modern age There are four terms around which we should rebuild the university unpredictability uncertainty contestability and challengeability These concepts constitute a constellation of fragility they mark out a fragile world to which the university as a source of critical thought has contributed The university is faced not just with complexity but with supercomplexity in which our very frames of understanding action valuing and self identity are all continually challenged In such a world the university has explicitly to take on a dual role firstly of compounding supercomplexity especially through its research role and secondly principally through its teaching role of enabling us to live effectively with all the discomforts of supercomplexity Internally too the university has to become a new kind of organization adept at fulfilling this dual role The university has to live by the uncertainty principle it has to generate uncertainty to help us live uncertainty and even to revel in our uncertainty In an age where everything is uncertain there is no other task University Governance and Academic Leadership in the EU and China Zhu, Chang,Zayim-Kurtay, Merve,2019-02-22 Institutions of higher education across the world are expected to contribute to the resolution of economic social and environmental problems and to respond to them However in order to meet these expectations universities need to have a strong sense of university governance to provide academics and researchers with a high degree of independence University Governance and Academic Leadership in the EU and China provides innovative insights into the evolving higher education system of university governance in Europe and China The content within this publication analyzes university governance education technology academic integrity higher education clear role positioning and more It is a vital reference source for education administrators educators academicians policymakers government officials professionals researchers and consultants seeking coverage on topics centered on successful and effective leadership in modern universities Understanding Experiences of First Generation University Students Amani Bell,Lorri J.
