Human Cognitive Neuropsychology (Classic Edition) Andrew W. Ellis, Andrew W. Young, 2017-07-14 Cognitive neuropsychology seeks to understand impairments of specific cognitive functions in relation to a model of normal cognitive processing The conclusions drawn from the study of abnormal processes are in turn used in the development and testing of theories of normal cognition First published in 1988 this seminal book represented an attempt to synthesize and systematize progress in the study of cognitive neuropsychology and therefore provides an important snapshot of the field at the time In addition to reviewing different forms of impairment and discussing their implications for theories of normal function this book also examines the empirical and theoretical foundations of the subject including the use of single case studies and the assumptions that must be made about the mind and brain This classic edition marks 25 years in print and includes a brand new introduction written by the authors Ellis and Young The Augmented Edition of Human Cognitive Neuropsychology published in 1997 is also still available This classic edition will be important reading for students of cognitive psychology cognitive neuroscience and neuropsychology Human Cognitive Neuropsychology Andrew W. Ellis, Andrew W. Young, 1996 An extended version of the first edition this book includes a set of research review papers which supplement the contents of each chapter by providing a discussion of current research issues and detailed investigations of individual cases

Cahokia and the Hinterlands Thomas E. Emerson, R. Barry Lewis, 1991 Covering topics as diverse as economic modeling craft specialization settlement patterns agricultural and subsistence systems and the development of social ranking Cahokia and the Hinterlands explores cultural interactions among Cahokians and the inhabitants of other population centers including Orendorf and the Dickson Mounds in Illinois and Aztalan in Wisconsin as well as sites in Minnesota Iowa and at the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers Proposing sophisticated and innovative models for the growth development and decline of Mississippian culture at Cahokia and elsewhere this volume also provides insight into the rise of chiefdoms and stratified societies and the development of trade throughout the world Grand Mesa National Forest (N.F.)/Uncompahgre National Forest (N.F.)/Gunnison National Forest (N.F.), Stevens Gulch Road and Related Timber Sales, 1986 What's New? Sander E. van der Leeuw, Robin Torrence, 2025-10-01 First published in 1989 What's New puts innovation firmly back on the agenda of archaeological interpretation This book revives interest in the process of innovation and reinterprets it by drawing on original work done in a variety of disciplines It demonstrates that the study of the components of innovation invention acceptance and the context in which they occur is essential if social change is to be better understood The book contains detailed case studies that cover a broad geographical range in the prehistoric historic and modern world It simulates and analyses the conditions of innovation and provides the necessary theoretical framework The technologies involved are diverse herding fishing pottery making metalworking and land management Several important issues emerge from this diversity it is the context of innovation that determines whether change will take place within hierarchical societies ideology can both stimulate and deny innovation and the potential for innovation experimentation and change in traditional societies is systematically underrated by the Western world which is dominated by a narrow technological perspective The contributors also study innovation in social and applied anthropology industrial planning and the natural sciences What s New will provoke renewed discussion throughout the archaeological community about the process of innovation Anthropologists human geographers and other social scientists will find it fascinating because it provides a time dimension for the study of the conditions of human and social change Kellogg Institute, the First Five Years, 1982-1987 Helen Kellogg Institute for International Studies,1987 Multinational Corporations In Political Environments: Ethics, Values And Strategies Usha C V Haley,2001-11-12 Multinational Corporations in Political Environments advances and tests a theory of why foreign corporations leave host states Theories of international business have often ignored the complexity of corporate decisions about leaving foreign countries generally assuming that the economic and competitive reasons that prompt multinational corporations to enter host states also explain their subsequent reasons for leaving Alternatively this book proposes a theory of how different stakeholders values and ethics shape multinationals strategic leaving behaviors Tested in South Africa when US multinationals were facing diverse pressures from stockholders governments and consumers to leave the research provides a prism to isolate how different stakeholders actions influenced multinationals behaviors Detailed analyses of subsidiary level archival data over a period of four crucial years revealed that the multinationals engaged in diverse forms of leaving reflecting their involvements strategies and stakeholders influences The research the first to test which stakeholders strategies including boycotts and sanctions influenced multinationals and which did not and to identify their effects on multinationals behaviors has enormous implications for policy makers managers and social activists The book also applies the findings and explores implications for recent stakeholders attempts at influencing multinationals and governments such as Nike in Asia and the Burmese government through sanctions resolutions and boycotts Annual Report of the Chief of Engineers on Civil Works Activities United States. Army. Corps of Engineers. Civil Works Directorate,1982 Health Research Act of 1982 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Health and the Environment,1982 Regional Five-year (1982-1987) Water Resources Research Goals and Objectives Leonard Douglas James,1980 Use of Services for Family Planning and Infertility, United States, 1982 Gerry E. Hendershot, Marjorie C. Horn, William D. Mosher, 1988

The 1982 statistics on the use of family planning and infertility services presented in this report are preliminary results from Cycle III of the National Survey of Family Growth NSFG conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics. Data were collected through personal interviews with a multistage area probability sample of 7969 women aged 15-44. A detailed series of questions was asked to obtain relatively complete estimates of the extent and type of family planning services received. Statistics on family planning services are limited to women who were able to conceive 3 years before the interview date. Overall, 79% of currently married nonsterile women reported using some type of family planning service during the previous 3 years. There were no statistically significant differences between white (79%), black (75%), or Hispanic (77%) women or between the 2 income groups. The 1982 survey questions were more comprehensive than those of earlier cycles of the survey. The annual rate of visits for family planning services in 1982 was 1077 visits/1000 women. Teenagers had the highest annual visit rate (1581/1000) of any age group for all sources of family planning services combined. Visit rates declined sharply with age from 1447 at ages 15-24 to 479 at ages 35-44. Similar declines with age also were found in the visit rates for white and black women separately. Nevertheless, the annual visit rate for black women (1334/1000) was significantly higher than that for white women (1033). The highest overall visit rate was for black women 15-19 years of age (1867/1000). Nearly 2/3 of all family planning visits were to private medical sources. Teenagers of all races had higher family planning service visit rates to clinics than to private medical sources as did black women age 15-24. White women age 20 and older had higher visit rates to private medical services than to clinics. Never married women had higher visit rates to clinics than currently or formerly married women. Data were also collected in 1982 on use of medical services for infertility by women who had difficulty in conceiving or carrying a pregnancy to term. About 1 million ever married women had 1 or more infertility visits in the 12 months before the interview. During the 3 years before interview, about 1.9 million women had infertility visits. For all ever married women as well as for white and black women separately, infertility services were more likely to be secured from private medical sources than from clinics. The survey design, reliability of the estimates, and the terms used are explained in the technical notes.
