Suburbia Donald N. Rothblatt, Daniel J. Garr, 2021-06-29 Originally published in 1986 and drawing on material from the USA The Netherlands and Israel this book addresses the question of whether suburban environments enhance the quality of life and which factors influence this quality It examines whether suburbs really provide improved housing and community services compared to the central city and whether they foster rewarding social patterns and psychological well being It also analyses precisely what characteristics suburban areas offer and how congruent these characteristics are with the preferences of suburban residents Spatial inequalities and regional development H. Folmer, Jan Janssen, 2013-03-09 In September 1977 a Regional Science Symposium was held at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Groningen in the Netherlands Organized because of the recent establishment at the Faculty of Economics of a group that is engaged in teaching and research in the field of regional science the aim of the symposium was to make university members more familiar with regional science and to introduce the newly created group to the national and international scene Two separate topics were selected of potential interest to both researchers and policy makers The first spatial inequalities and regional development was chosen because of its central place in regional science Authors from several disciplines were asked to approach this theme from a general policy orientated point of view This ensured the enlightenment of the various dimensions of spatial inequality and its implications for regional policy The results have been collected in the volume Spatial Inequalities and Regional Development The second theme focused on spatial statistical analysis This branch of statistics is a relatively new one which receives growing attention among researchers in the field of applied regional science The meeting on this topic concentrated on new results of research on the use of appropriate statistical and econometric methods for analyzing spatial data The papers concerned have been collected into another volume Exploratory and Explanatory Statistical Analysis of Spatial Data Agricultural Economics Research, 1981 Encounters in Planning Thought Beatrix

Haselsberger, 2017-01-06 Encounters in Planning Thought builds on the intellectual legacy of spatial planning through essays by leading scholars from around the world including John Friedmann Peter Marcuse Patsy Healey Andreas Faludi Judith Innes Rachele Alterman and many more Each author provides a fascinating and inspiring unravelling of his or her own intellectual journey in the context of events political and economic forces and prevailing ideas and practices as well as their own personal lives This is crucial reading for those interested in spatial planning including those studying the theory and history of spatial planning Encounters in Planning Thought sets out a comprehensive intellectual institutional and practical agenda for the discipline of spatial planning as it heads towards its next half century Together the essays form a solid base on which to understand the most salient elements to be taken forward by current and future generations of spatial planners

Territory and Function John Friedmann, Clyde Weaver, 1979

The Imperatives of Urban And Regional Planning Anis Ur Rahmaan, 2011. This book is comprised of articles and papers that have come about after years of academic and applied research endeavors of the practitioners and academicians in the field of urban and regional development planning. Most of these articles have already been presented and deliberated in national and international conferences held in different parts of the world, namely Indianapolis, Newcastle upon Tyne, Rome, Istanbul, Cairo, Alexandria, Vienna, Stockholm, Jeddah, Riyadh, Jubail, Islamabad, Penang, and Bandung. The concepts and case studies described in this book bring home the fact that the world is undergoing a gyrational transition. Not only are developed and developing countries getting influenced by each other and transforming due to a process of circular causation, but each of the two sets of countries are also undergoing a simultaneous internal transformation due to the differential infusion of technology and indigenous entrepreneurship. As a consequence, highly diversified urban systems are getting integrated interactively, leading to the formation of a global village and achievement of a unity in diversity.

New Models In Geography Richard Peet, Nigel Thrift, 2013-10-11. First published in 1989, it seems such a long time ago, another age yet it is a mere twenty odd years since the original Models in Geography was published. It is an even shorter time since the first tentative steps were taken towards an alternative formulation of what might constitute a geographical perspective within the social sciences. What came to be called the political economy perspective has progressed with remarkable speed and energy to generate its own framework of conceptualization and analysis, its own questions and debates. The papers in these two volumes are witness to the richness and range of the work which has developed over this relatively short period within the political economy approach. Moreover, from being a debate within an institutionally defined discipline of geography to introducing into that discipline ideas and discussions from the wider fields of philosophy and social science, and the humanities more generally, it has now flowered into a consistent part of enquiries that span the entire realm of social studies.

Economic Development and Inequality in China Hong Yu, 2017-09-29. The conventional belief that all regions have equally benefited from China's remarkable development over the last three decades is subjected to criticism in this book, as Hong Yu systematically analyses the issue of regional inequality during the post 1978 period using the case of Guangdong Guangdong is one of the key industrial centres and economic powerhouses in China and as a pioneer province instigating economic reform as China opened up to the world it offers an ideal focus upon which to question and enrich the Western theories of economic geography and regional disparity Based on field research analysis of geographic characteristics and regression models this book illustrates how Guangdong's impressive development record has been marred by its rising regional disparity investigates the main causes of this disparity and draws conclusions regarding the lessons China can learn from it Economic Development and Inequality in China will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese economics Chinese regional studies economic geography and China Studies Hong Yu is a Visiting Research Fellow at the National University of Singapore His research interests lie in the field of regional economy He is the author of a chapter on China's two delta regions in the book China and The Global Economic Crisis Megapolitan America Arthur Nelson, Robert Lang, 2018-02-06 With an expected population of 400 million by 2040 America is morphing into an economic system composed of twenty three megapolitan areas that will dominate the nation's economy by midcentury These megapolitan areas are networks of metropolitan areas sharing common economic landscape social and cultural characteristics The rise of megapolitan areas will change how America plans For instance in an area comparable in size to France and the low countries of the Netherlands and Belgium considered among the world's most densely settled America's megapolitan areas are already home to more than two and a half times as many people Indeed with only eighteen percent of the contiguous forty eight states land base America's megapolitan areas are more densely settled than Europe as a whole or the United Kingdom Megapolitan America goes into spectacular demographic economic and social detail in mapping the dramatic and surprisingly optimistic shifts ahead It will be required reading for those interested in America's future
