Regulation Of Network Utilities The European Experience:

Regulation of Network Utilities Claude Henry, Michel Matheu, Alain Jeunemaître, 2001 Propelled by deep technical economic and cultural changes network utilities have in the last twenty years entered a new era Since competition has been widely introduced and promoted we have experienced a radical change in the structure of the industries and the role of the state authorities Their role in managing monopolies has evolved into regulating new forms of markets which has resulted in the creation of independent regulatory authorities These new public bodies work with governments to try and reconcile the needs of competition and public service missions This suggests the use of recent developments in economic theory to handle complex problems This volume offers an exploration by scholars and regulators of the new regulatory regimes across Europe The first part presents the pioneering experiences of the United Kingdom and Sweden The United Kingdom has quickly chosen to establish powerful and independent individual regulators Reforms in Sweden have been more gradual and regulators have in the first instance acted mainly as mediators Part two is devoted to second wave developments that took place in various European countries i e France Germany Italy and Spain countries where the legal tradition is less conducive to the concept of independent regulators There the regulators are often but not always less powerful and meet more obstacles in their efforts to prevent either the formation of oligopolies or the resistance of incumbent monopolies In Germany another problem has emerged as the federal tradition prevents the creation of independent regulators in certain key sectors The contributions in the third part of the volume throw some light on the problems of coordinating national regulations One can observe the continuous emergence of modes of cooperation between national regulators as well as European authorities Faced with certain categories of problem the European authorities are themselves led to act as common regulators The countries of central and eastern Europe which are progressively converging towards the general economic model of the West are more and more concerned with the accompanying regulation problems Last but not least the Internet raises worldwide problems of regulation that are beginning to be seriously considered Renegotiating Authority in EU Energy and Climate Policy Anna Herranz-Surrallés, Israel Solorio, Jenny Fairbrass, 2021-09-30 In the context of multiple crises EU Energy and Climate policy is often identified as one of the few areas still exhibiting strong integration dynamics However this domain is not exempt from contestation and re nationalization pressures This collection seeks to understand those contradictory integration and disintegration tendencies by problematizing the notion of authority When why and by whom is EU authority in Energy and Climate policy conferred and contested What strategies are used to manage authority conflicts and to what effect These questions are examined in some of the knottiest aspects of EU energy and climate policy for example the adoption of the landmark Governance of the Energy Union Regulation the long drawn out attempts to complete the EU's internal energy market the struggle to achieve ambitious EU targets in renewable energy and energy efficiency beyond 2020 the blurring of economic and security instruments in external energy policy or the heated discussions over the Nord Stream 2

gas pipeline The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of European Integration

International Handbook on Industrial Policy P. Bianchi, 2008-01-01 This timely and much needed Handbook reconsiders an old topic from a fresh perspective raising a number of new interesting and worthwhile issues in the wake of ten years of globalization This comprehensive analysis illustrates that old style industrial policies whereby the government directly intervened in markets and was often the producer itself are no longer relevant Structural changes occurring in economies summarized in the term globalization are triggering the definition and implementation of new industrial policies The contributors leading experts in their field unite to evaluate this shift of over a decade ago Employing various empirical and methodological approaches with a strong theoretical underpinning this world wide study of the state of the art of industrial policy issues is an invaluable reference tool It has been enthusiastically received by a wide ranging audience including scholars researchers and policy makers with an interest in industrial economics and policy business studies and policies for growth competitiveness and development
