The Sample Survey: Theory and Practice Donald P. Warwick, Charles Andrew Lininger, 1975 The Sample Survey: Theory and Practice Donald P. Warwick, Charles Andrew Lininger, 1975 An intermediate level text on the theoretical and practical aspects and applications of survey research explaining the principles and techniques of designing and executing a sample survey and discussing its uses abuses and limitations Sample Survey Theory Paul Knottnerus, 2012-11-12 This volume deals primarily with the classical question of how to draw conclusions about the population mean of a variable given a sample with observations on that variable Another classical question is how to use prior knowledge of an economic or definitional relationship between the population means of several variables provided that the variables are observed in a sample The present volume is a compilation of two discussion papers and some additional notes on these two basic questions The discussion papers and notes were prepared for a 15 hour course at Statistics Netherlands in Voorburg in February 2000 The first discussion paper is entitled A Memoir on Sampling and Rho the Generalized Intrasample Correlation Coefficient 1999 It describes a new approach to the problem of unequal probability sampling The second discussion paper The General Restriction Estimator 2000 deals with the problem of how to find constrained estimators that obey a given set of restrictions imposed on the parameters to be estimated Parts I and II of the volume provide a novel and systematic treatment of sampling theory considered from the angle of the sampling autocorrelation coefficient p rho The same concept plays an important role in the analysis of time series Although this concept is also well known in sampling theory for instance in cluster sampling and systematic sampling generalizations of p for an arbitrary sampling design are to my knowledge not readily found in the literature Sample Surveys: Inference and Analysis, 2009-09-02 Handbook of Statistics_29B contains the most comprehensive account of sample surveys theory and practice to date It is a second volume on sample surveys with the goal of updating and extending the sampling volume published as volume 6 of the Handbook of Statistics in 1988 The present handbook is divided into two volumes 29A and 29B with a total of 41 chapters covering current developments in almost every aspect of sample surveys with references to important contributions and available software It can serve as a self contained guide to researchers and practitioners with appropriate balance between theory and real life applications Each of the two volumes is divided into three parts with each part preceded by an introduction summarizing the main developments in the areas covered in that part Volume 1 deals with methods of sample selection and data processing with the later including editing and imputation handling of outliers and measurement errors and methods of disclosure control The volume contains also a large variety of applications in specialized areas such as household and business surveys marketing research opinion polls and censuses Volume 2 is concerned with inference distinguishing between design based and model based methods and focusing on specific problems such as small area estimation analysis of longitudinal data categorical data analysis and inference on distribution functions The volume contains also chapters dealing with case control studies asymptotic properties

Kalton,2017-03-02 This book provides a comprehensive account of the methods used in social surveys All the stages of a survey are covered from the original planning to the drafting of the final report Throughout the emphasis is on the underlying principles with particular attention being given to sampling a subject which often troubles students and research workers The book will be of great value to students in social sciences as well as research workers and people concerned with social surveys in government and the business world Modern Statistics: Methods and Applications Robert V. Maximum Likelihood Estimation for Sample Surveys Raymond L. Chambers, David G. Steel, Suojin Wang, Alan Welsh, 2012-05-02 Sample surveys provide data used by researchers in a large range of disciplines to analyze important relationships using well established and widely used likelihood methods The methods used to select samples often result in the sample differing in important ways from the target population and standard application of likelihood methods can lead to biased and inefficient estimates Maximum Likelihood Estimation for Sample Surveys presents an overview of likelihood methods for the analysis of sample survey data that account for the selection methods used and includes all necessary background material on likelihood inference It covers a range of data types including multilevel data and is illustrated by many worked examples using tractable and widely used models It also discusses more advanced topics such as combining data non response and informative sampling The book presents and develops a likelihood approach for fitting models to sample survey data It explores and explains how the approach works in tractable though widely used models for which we can make considerable analytic progress For less tractable models numerical methods are ultimately needed to compute the score and information functions and to compute the maximum likelihood estimates of the model parameters For these models the book shows what has to be done conceptually to develop analyses to the point that numerical methods can be applied Designed for statisticians who are interested in the general theory of statistics Maximum Likelihood Estimation for Sample Surveys is also aimed at statisticians focused on fitting models to sample survey data as well as researchers who study relationships among variables and whose sources of data include surveys

Surveys In Social Research David De Vaus, David de Vaus, 2013-12-17 David de Vaus classic text Surveys in Social Research provides clear advice on how to plan conduct and analyse social surveys It emphasises the links between theory and research the logic and interpretation of statistics and the practices of social research This sixth edition has been completely revised and updated and contains new examples data and extensive lists of web resources As well as explaining how to conduct good surveys de Vaus shows how to become a critical consumer of research He argues that the logic of surveys and statistics is simply an extension of the logic we use in everyday life analysis however requires creativity and imagination rather than the application of sterile mechanical procedures The prime goal of research should be to gain accurate understanding and as a researcher use methods and techniques which enhance understanding De Vaus advocates researchers use the method rather than letting the method use you Surveys in Social Research is essential reading for students and researchers working with surveys It assumes no background in statistical analysis and gives you the tools you need to come to grips with this often challenging field of work

The theory and practice of surveying, designed for the use of John Butler Johnson, 1910 Agricultural Markets from Theory to Practice Barbara Harriss-White, 1999-04-12 In an era of globalization private markets are expected to dominate the distribution of goods worldwide Yet surprisingly little empirical work is conducted on them The sensitive and secret nature of trading information the complexity of real markets and the lack of official data other than that on price can all cause problems This book seeks to overcome these in examining arguably the most difficult markets of all agricultural markets under conditions of underdevelopment Case studies from nine countries covering all three underdeveloped continents offer a comprehensive overview of the lessons to be learnt from field experience Replication, an Approach to the Analysis of Data from Complex Surveys Philip J. McCarthy, 1966 Home Economics Research Report, 1989 Includes semitechnical and technical publications formerly issued as its Agricultural handbooks Agriculture information bulletins Miscellaneous publications and Circulars
