Foreword by Josep Dalmau

A detailed microscopic illustration of neurons. Two large, blue, translucent neurons are shown, one in the upper right and one in the lower left. They are filled with numerous small, purple, spherical synaptic vesicles. Some vesicles are clustered within the neurons, while others are shown in the process of moving or releasing their contents into the space between the two neurons. The background is a solid black, which makes the blue neurons and purple vesicles stand out prominently.
