Maxwell, Stewart Beach, 1916 Do the Movies Have a Future? David Denby, 2012-10-02 In the second decade of the twenty first century the movies once America's primary popular art form have become an endangered species Do the Movies Have a Future is a rousing and witty call to arms In these sharp and engaging essays and reviews New Yorker movie critic David Denby weighs in on conglomerate aesthetics as embodied in the frenzied weightless action spectacles that dominate the world's attention and platform agnosticism the notion that movies can be watched on smaller and smaller screens laptops tablets even phones At the same time Denby reaffirms that movies are our national theater and in this exhilarating book he celebrates such central big movies as Avatar and The Social Network as well as small but resonant triumphs like There Will Be Blood and The Tree of Life Denby joyously celebrates what remains of the shared culture in romantic comedy high school movies and chick flicks he assesses the expressive triumphs and failures of auteurs Quentin Tarantino the Coen brothers Pedro Almodóvar and David Fincher Refusing nostalgia he mines the past for strength examining the changing nature of stardom and the careers of Joan Crawford Otto Preminger and Victor Fleming and the continuing self invention of Clint Eastwood And he recreates the excitement of reading two critics who embodied the film culture of their times James Agee and Pauline Kael Wry passionate and incisive Do the Movies Have a Future is both a feast of good writing and a challenge to fight back It is an essential guide for movie lovers looking for ammunition and hope

J. Edgar Hoover Goes to the Movies John Sbardellati, 2012-05-01 Between 1942 and 1958 J Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation conducted a sweeping and sustained investigation of the motion picture industry to expose Hollywood's alleged subversion of the American Way through its depiction of social problems class differences and alternative political ideologies FBI informants their names still redacted today reported to Hoover s G men on screenplays and screenings of such films as Frank Capra s It s a Wonderful Life 1946 noting that this picture deliberately maligned the upper class attempting to show that people who had money were mean and despicable characters The FBI s anxiety over this film was not unique it extended to a wide range of popular and critical successes including The Grapes of Wrath 1940 The Best Years of Our Lives 1946 Crossfire 1947 and On the Waterfront 1954 In J Edgar Hoover Goes to the Movies John Sbardellati provides a new consideration of Hollywood s history and the post World War II Red Scare In addition to governmental intrusion into the creative process he details the efforts of left wing filmmakers to use the medium to bring social problems to light and the campaigns of their colleagues on the political right through such organizations as the Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals to prevent dissemination of un American ideas and beliefs Sbardellati argues that the attack on Hollywood drew its motivation from a sincerely held fear that film content endangered national security by fostering a culture that would be at best apathetic to the Cold War struggle at best or at its worst conducive to communism at home Those who took part in Hollywood s Cold War struggle whether on the left or right shared one common trait a belief that the movies could serve as engines for social change This strongly held assumption explains why the stakes were so high and ultimately why Hollywood became one of the most important ideological battlegrounds of the Cold War
