Protection and Solidarity Eleonora Milazzo, 2023 Refugee Protection and Solidarity looks to define the duties that EU member states have towards each other in the field of refugee protection employing analytical tools of normative political theory to bring moral clarity to a highly divisive debate on both principles and political feasibility There is a discrepancy between the commitment to solidarity enshrined in EU law and the reality of asylum provision in the EU The events related to the EU migration crisis of 2015-16 have exposed this discrepancy and questioned the nascent notion of EU solidarity at its core The book argues that the debate on distributive justice in the EU fails to consider refugee protection as a field in which distributive duties apply in ways similar to other domains such as social policy as well as exploring what justifications states invoke to justify non-compliance with their duties Eleonora Milazzo contends that as currently framed the debate on the ethics of refugee protection fails to account for the nature and effect of associational ties among states in relation to asylum provision which is important for the assessment of responsibility shirking

Refugee Protection and Civil Society in Europe

Margit Feischmidt, Ludger Pries, Celine Cantat, 2018-09-29 This volume analyses civil society as an important factor in the European refugee regime. Based on empirical research the chapters explore different aspects, structures and forms of civil society engagement during and after 2015. Various institutional, collective and individual activities are examined in order to better understand the related processes of refugees' movements, reception and integration. Several chapters also explore the historical development of the relationship between a range of actors involved in solidarity movements and care relationships with refugees across different member states. Through the combined analysis of macro level state and European policies, meso level organization's activities and micro level individual behaviour, Refugee Protection and Civil Society in Europe presents a comprehensive exploration of the refugee regime in motion and will be of interest to scholars and students researching migration, social movements, European institutions and social work.

International Refugee Law

H?ne Lambert, 2017-07-05 The essays selected and reproduced in this volume explore how international refugee law is dynamic and constantly evolving. From an instrument designed to protect mostly those civilians fleeing the worse excesses of World War II, the 1951 Refugee Convention has developed into a set of principles, customary rules and values that are now firmly embedded in the human rights framework and are applicable to a far broader range of refugees. In addition, international refugee law has been affected by international humanitarian law and international criminal law and vice versa. Thus, there is a reinforcing dynamic in the development of these complementary areas of law. At the same time, in recent decades, states have shown a renewed interest in managing migration, thereby raising issues of how to reconcile such interests with refugee protection principles. In addition, the emergence of concepts of participation and responsibility to protect promise to have an impact on international refugee law.

The Refugee Definition in International Law

Hugo Storey, 2023 In international law the definition of refugee is widely seen as unclear. The volume seeks to clarify propositions and demonstrate there is progress toward a working definition.

International Migration and Refugee Law. Does Germany's Migration Policy Toward Syrian Refugees Comply? Jasmin Lilian Diab, 2017-07 Germany will spend around 6.6 billion to cope with an estimated 800 000 refugees expected to have entered the country in the year 2016 this reality indeed extending further into 2017 Despite this overwhelming number of people entering the country Chancellor Angela Merkel stated that there is no legal limit to the number of asylum seekers Germany will take in in the coming years The announcement by Merkel's coalition government followed Germany and Austria opening their borders to the large numbers of refugees making their way north and west from the Middle East Africa and elsewhere In particular this statement came after the Syrian refugee crisis created the biggest refugee crisis the world has seen since the Second World War Germany is seen as the immigration hub of Europe It also happens to be the second most popular destination for immigrants after the United States of America Germany is also the country in Europe with the highest numbers of foreign nationals to date Germany established a new immigration law in 2005 which was born out of a realization that it was coming to terms with a demographic crisis stemming from an ageing population and further complimented by a sharp decline of national birth rates In foresight and within this unfortunate context migration was seen by much of the German political class as an economic necessity and the answer to the German economic and demographic time bomb Between the years 2009 and 2014 annual net migration in Germany rose from 100 000 to 580 000 individuals Moreover the inflow of foreign nationals increased from 266 000 to 790 000 individuals As of January 2015 approximately 10% of residents in Germany were foreign nationals with around 12% born outside the country Naturally these figures have all risen significantly following Merkel s decision to allow what has reached one million refugees and migrants into Germany across 2016 and moving into 2017 Moving from this reality the research will focus on the importance of the compliance of Germany s migration policy with International Refugee and Migration Law as it is crucial for the country s survivability and move forward throughout this phase of its history The importance of the research lies in whether or not Germany s migration policy towards the Syrian Refugees in particular complies with its duties toward international law embodied in the treaties and conventions it has committed to The 1951 Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees and its 1967 Protocol ,2024-01-10 The Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees adopted on 28 July 1951 in Geneva continues to provide the most comprehensive codification of the rights of refugees yet attempted Consolidating previous international instruments relating to refugees the 1951 Convention with its 1967 Protocol marks a cornerstone in the development of international refugee law At present there are 149 States Parties to one or both of these instruments expressing a worldwide consensus on the definition of the term refugee and the fundamental rights to be granted to refugees These facts demonstrate and underline the extraordinary significance of these instruments as the indispensable legal basis of international refugee law This Commentary provides for a systematic and comprehensive analysis of the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol on an article by article basis exposing the interrelationship between the different articles and discussing the latest developments in international refugee law In addition several thematic contributions analyse questions of international refugee law which are of general significance such as regional developments the interrelationship between refugee law and general human rights law as well as the relationship between refugee law and the law of the sea
