Regional Price Formation in Eastern Europe J.M. van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This monograph presents a detailed examination of a variety of issues pertaining to pricing in the context of the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance CMEA a designation that I much prefer over Comecon. It situates itself within the contours of the pricing problematique that I have recently analyzed as one component of the broader aspects of monetary cooperation essentially among the Eastern European countries see Chapters 4 and 5 of Brabant 1987. The suggestion that I elaborate in detail on the circumstances under which prices for regional trade within the framework of the CMEA are determined was strongly urged by an anonymous referee of Brabant 1986b and Josef Brada the editor of Journal of Comparative Economics. Both evidently felt that the comparatively commodity specific pricing issues that I have presented piecemeal in half a dozen articles or so since 1984 had remained too narrow largely configured as they inevitably were by the empirical findings of exercises applied to a small number of commodities as discussed here in Chapter 7. Under the circumstances I saw little point in attempting to set forth these intricate issues in a comprehensive framework. Perhaps the central motivation was that many of the regional pricing issues in the CMEA have by and large remained quite obscure and intractable. They might be crucial determinants in some isolated cases as I was trying to verify.

Remaking Eastern Europe — On the Political Economy of Transition J.M. Van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This compact volume is meant as a modest contribution to the ongoing debate on how to transform in particular the radically reforming Eastern European economies into more productive sociopolitical organizations. Although my main focus here is on the economics of reform and east west assistance I have tried to embed the multiple technical aspects of restructuring such a resource allocation into the context of remaking Eastern Europe That the volume coincides with the seminal transformations of the communist countries of Eastern Europe is of course not fortuitous But I shall have much less to say about the political transitions from communism to parliamentary democracy except the ways in which the latter may bolster or hinder the hoped for economic mutations In taking stock of where I stand on the issue of radical reform of planned economics in general and the CMEA in particular both still moving targets I have benefited greatly from participation in formal and informal conferences on economic reform The product has also profited from many informal discussions and exchanges of views among friends and colleagues including those entrusted with and purely interested in efforts on the overall topic of the study launched from within the broad context of the United Nations my at times reluctant employer

Industrial Policy in Eastern Europe J.M. Van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This volume in essence continues my recent contributions towards building up a better understanding of the wide range of obstacles besetting the transitions away from administrative planning in the former communist regimes in the eastern part of Europe It is self contained however As such it specifically addresses issues revolving around how best to govern economies and indeed societies more generally that are undergoing fundamental structural transformation and whether industrial policy can facilitate progressing with the vexing transformations that will have to be enacted over a protracted period of time Because of the bewildering variety of hindrances that the managers of the transition have been confronted with many of which were not even contemplated when the programs were first designed regaining a measure of good governance including notably good economic governance is critical in formulating a positive political economy of transition Arguably most critical is steering the processes of destruction and creation not creative destruction in the Schumpeterian sense In some cases this requires reallocating decommissioned resources both capital and labor to new activities Changing rules on the utilization of existing assets is evidently at the core of what the transition towards market based economic systems should be all about Very often however this requires establishing new economic activities from domestic and foreign savings

The Transition from Socialism in Eastern Europe Arye L. Hillman, Branko Milanović, 1992-01-01

Integrating Eastern Europe into the Global Economy: J.M. Van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This book is designed as a modest contribution to the ongoing deliberations about how to ease the fairly tight constraints on the external payments of many countries of the eastern part of Europe In the first instance this inquiry is addressed to those that have embarked on wide ranging systemwide reforms External constraints have been markedly hampering the introduction of market oriented economic mutations thereby raising the cost of transition far above levels expected at the outset of the present wave of uniquely restructuring the countries involved I explore here several angles of this discussion But three stand out One is the disintegration of the postwar framework for economic cooperation in that part of the world Another is the disarray brought about by incisive economic transformations in the area Finally various national regional and international interest groups are at work there hoping to mold somehow the drift of the reform or at least key components thereof in their own image In the process it is often forgotten as Ralf Dahrendorf 1990 p 41 so pointedly remarked that all systems mean serfdom including the natural system of a total market order in which no one tries to do anything other than guard certain rules of the game discovered by a mysterious sect of economic advisers The Status of Civil Science in Eastern Europe Craig Sinclair, 2012-12-06 The NATO Science Programme under the direction of the Science Committee mounted in September 1986 a successful meeting which examined the structure and outputs of civil science in the Soviet Union As a topical sectoral examination of the evolutionary state of the Soviet Union under those inseparable and elusive twins perestroika and glasnost it was successful in providing the basis for assessments of the likely future role of Soviet scientists in the world scene Such meetings are infrequent events in the Programme calendar the Science Programme has concentrated for thirty years almost exclusively on supporting scientific mobility in the Alliance countries This it does essentially through the funding under competitive conditions of fellowships exchanges and meetings of researchers Such activities are a response to unsolicited scientific demand from the Alliance R D community which sees mobility as an essential part of scientific dissemination rather lacking it would appear from the following accounts in the Eastern European countries The Committee however does like to act upon its own behalf in supporting wider perceptions of the place of R D in the world by examining from time to time topics of strong current interest These have taken the form of the consideration of particularly pressing issues as arose for example in the series of energy and material supply crises of the seventies The Privatization Process in East-Central Europe Michal Mejstřík, 2012-12-06 It is beyond any doubt that East Central European countries such as Czech Republic Hungary Poland and Slovakia have dramatically changed their shape through their radical transition from centrally planned to the market economies in last 7 years Many economists divide the process of economic transformation into areas of Stabilization Liberalization and Privatization Restructuring The traditional view is that stabilization and liberalization can be achieved rather quickly by balancing budgets balance of payments tightening money supply freeing prices and liberalizing trade but that the area of privatization is one that could be moved to the future and will require much more time Until 1991 none of the post communist nations except former East Germany which had a large degree of support from West Germany had succeeded in privatizing large numbers of enterprises even though more than two years had passed since the changes in government in these nations The privatization has been however seen as an extremely important part of reform package together with stabilization and liberalization especially in the Czech Republic from the very beginning The Czechs originally as a part of the Czechoslovak Federal Republic embarked on an unprecedented path that should have led not only to stabilization and liberalization but also to very rapid mass privatization of its sector of large enterprises that have dominated its economy to an extreme extent Privatizing Eastern Europe J.M. Van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This volume is meant to be a modest contribution to the ongoing debate about the transitions away from the administrative planning environment typical of the former communist regimes The central subject matter is a fairly special one namely the privatization of these economies together with the restoration and effective monitoring of property rights These are paramount tasks of the ongoing transformations once progress toward political democracy is secured Though I would not allot divestment of existing state owned assets the kind of pivotal importance that some observers reserve for it changing rules on the utilization of these assets is evidently at the core of what the transition toward market based economic systems should be all about Rather than examining the entire range of issues that surround the controversy on privatization this volume is primarily concerned with the economics of taking the state out of the decision making about existing assets Among the several aspects of this discussion three stand out One is the establishment of clear property rights This is fundamental to minimize transaction costs in an environment where decisions will increasingly be taken by independent economic agents acting on their own account Second I look only incidentally at the various angles of creating capital markets particularly for existing assets in these economies

Eastern Europe Mary E. Lassanyi, 1991      Comecon J. J. Brine, 1992 Comecon or the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance was founded by Joseph Stalin in 1949 to counteract the Marshall Plan and reinforce the bonds between the Soviet Union and the people's democracies of Eastern Europe Other Soviet Bloc nations later joined Comecon and for forty years it dominated the trade policies of the Soviet Bloc and profoundly influenced their domestic economic development and relations with the West Comecon collapsed in 1991 after the countries of Eastern Europe rejected communism It was often compared with the West European Common Market but differed vastly in its aims structure powers and activities Its influence is a critical factor in assessing both the economic failures of the Soviet Bloc and the problems facing former member states as they make the transition to free market economies This detailed annotated bibliography is an essential guide to the extensive English language literature about Comecon from its founding until its demise Chapters cover Comecon's history structure and law socialist economic integration the organization's arrangements for international trade and finance environment natural resources and energy labor industry and agriculture science and technology Comecon like the rest of the Soviet Bloc collapsed suddenly but its legacy will color international relations and worldwide economic issues for years to come An understanding of its institutions mechanisms and policies remains vital in appreciating the economic organization of the former Soviet empire This bibliography will therefore be indispensable to policymakers economists historians and political scientists

The Planned Economies and International Economic Organizations Jozef M. Brabant, 1991-04-26 This is the first comprehensive study of the role of socialist countries within the international economic order The author presents an overview of the emergence of the postwar economic order and examines the key features of three kinds of centrally planned economies He then analyzes the role of financial frameworks and the international trade system in ensuring smooth economic relations among market type economies and he details the problems of associating typical CPEs within them Finally Jozef van Brabant explores the possibility of reconstituting a multilateral economic order that can provide greater security predictability stability and reliability in international economic relations The Planned Economies and International Economic Organizations is written at a time when the Soviet Union and other centrally planned economies are seeking closer links with the mainstream world economy It will therefore be of interest to governments and institutional economists as well as to students and specialists of Soviet and East European studies international relations and comparative economics      The Population-Sample Decomposition Method A.M. Wesselman,2012-12-06

Integrating Europe J.M. Van Brabant,2012-12-06 Bringing the eastern European economies in transition defined more precisely in the Introduction under the economic political and security umbrella of the European Union ED has been an ambition of many of these countries from the very start of the so called annus mirabilis in 1989 The road to gratification of this aspiration since then has been rather bumpy however one wants to look at recent events Indeed since 1989 the relationship between the EU and the economies in transition has been ebbing and flowing with the evolution of two main strands of policy stances in the EU One has been deep skepticism about bringing these countries into the Union at all in any foreseeable future This in spite of the fact that after long hesitation in mid 1993 the EU Member States committed themselves eventually to explore accession with selected transition economies as well as Cyprus and Malta The other has been their evolving attitude toward their own integration endeavors Hence the dilemmas in the EU's parlance of the deepening versus widening conundrum That indeed constitutes the paramount issue addressed in the present investigation

Political Economy of Transition Jozef M. van Brabant,2012-11-12 This book addresses the policy questions surrounding the challenge of transforming eastern European economies from their planned administrative past to vibrant market based entities Jozef van Brabant considers in turn the wider set of challenges facing these economies stabilization privatization liberalization institution building and developing and maintaining the sociopolitical consensus before examining the evolving role of the state Using concrete examples from the eastern European countries throughout including the Czech Republic and Bulgaria this work systematically examines in a society wide context the initial conditions of transformation the policy tasks ahead and the manner in which policies have been pursued      Development Appraisal of Land in Hong Kong Ling-hin Li,2006 This book provides the market and the profession an overall view of the land management system in Hong Kong by presenting a combination of both factual account of the system and practice as well as some academic and theoretical discussion of the application of development appraisal models The author discusses various basic appraisal models and gives his views on the future development of cash flow model to be applied in land This is not only a useful guide to investors investing in Hong Kong but also an important reference for development appraisal taking place in a similar land market Mainland China      Privatization of Urban Land in Shanghai Ling Hin Li,1996-10-01 This book provides researchers and practitioners with an informed study of the land and real estate market in Shanghai While there are a number of well researched books devoted to studying the economic consequences of China's transition to the capitalist market system few are written about the country's privatization of land control This book fills the gap by examining the land market mechanism arising from the land use rights reform in Shanghai which has important implications for real estate development in China as a whole

Protectionism and World Welfare Dominick Salvatore, 1993-09-23 This volume addresses highly topical issues at a crucial time in international economic relations The world has never been closer to dismantling the liberal multilateral trading system which has been painstakingly established and successfully operated since the Second World War In this volume many of the world's most distinguished economists examine the movement toward protectionism bilateralism and regionalism and its causes effects and possible solutions The contributors are theorists researchers and advisors to governments and international organizations who are at the forefront of trade theory policy and practice and whose analyses have a real impact on international trade By collecting together these analyses in a single volume this book provides a unique survey for students and scholars of economics and all those concerned with trade theory and policy in business and government
