Australia and the Global Trade System Ann Capling, 2001-04-02 Australia and the Global Trade System provides a comprehensive account of Australia's role in developing and maintaining the multilateral trade system from its origins in 1947 to the present day Australia was one of the 23 original signatories to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade GATT and its participation was vital to the success of international efforts to reconstruct a multilateral trade system after the disastrous experiences of the 1930s Since then Australia has wielded far more influence in the GATT and its successor the World Trade Organization WTO This 2001 book based on archival sources and oral interviews makes a significant contribution to our understanding of Australia's trade policies its commercial diplomacy and its role and position in the global political economy It provides a perspective on debates about the capacity of small nations to be agents as well as subjects of history

The New Regionalism in Trade Policy Jaime Melo de, Arvind Panagariya, 1992-01-01 Regionalism is once again being viewed as a solution to the major international economic problems of our times Slow progress of the negotiations at the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade GATT has led some economists to conclude that a division of the world into three trading blocs Europe the Americas and East Asia is the fastest road to multilateral free trade They argue that negotiations for free trade are far more likely to succeed when conducted among three parties rather than among 154 For many countries the proliferation of nontariff barriers in the industrial world has made regional integration an attractive policy option However the experience with South South integration has been discouraging and some economists claim that any temptation to promote such schemes in the future should be resisted As for North North integration it has been widely successful in Europe Intraregional trade expanded greatly but not at the expense of trade with non partners which also grew rapidly And European integration has greatly diminished if not eliminated the possibility of future internal conflicts Looking to the future North South integration holds much promise for developing countries Regional arrangements of this type can solidify past reforms guarantee future access to a large market and stimulate growth via increased direct foreign investment more intense competition and faster technological diffusion Regional and Global Regulation of International Trade Francis Snyder, 2002-07-05 These essays written by leading scholars in international trade law argue the pros and cons of greater regional and global regulation

The WTO as an International Organization Anne O. Krueger, Chonira Aturupane, 1998 A major achievement of the 1990s was the establishment of the World Trade Organization which superseded the GATT and provides a stronger institutional foundation for international trading arrangements among countries As an international organization it faces a number of challenges including achieving agreement over trade in services bringing in new members from the economies in transition and developing countries making the strengthened dispute settlement mechanism effective and bringing about an increasingly open multilateral trading system In this volume some of the world's foremost authorities analyze the challenges and opportunities confronting the WTO Regionalism, Multilateralism, and the Politics of Global Trade Donald Barry, Ronald C. Keith, 1999 The essays in this volume reflect the current debate about whether the new regionalism and interregional politics of the last decade support or undermine the global trading system Political scientists and international relations scholars from North America examine the changing relationship between regionalism and multilateralism and discuss the implications for national policy in the globalized economy The essays are arranged into four categories covering regionalism globalism and the state the dynamics of regional integration interregional relations and the policy implications particularly for Canada Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Political Economy of the World Trading System Bernard M.
