Russell, 2009-01-01 It is one of the least commonly known facts about the Civil War there were many many free negroes living in slaveholding states before the Emancipation Proclamation This monograph on that surprising reality originally published in 1913 draws on such firsthand documents as court records contemporary literature and newspaper accounts and other sources to create the first such portrait of this nearly forgotten chapter of African American history From the various origins of the free negro classes to their legal and social statuses regarding everything from their right of travel to their relationship with their enslaved fellows this should supply some of the facts upon which the history of the negro race in the United States must be based wrote author JOHN HENDERSON RUSSELL b 1884 in his preface Pittsylvania County, Virginia, Register of Free Negroes and Related Documentation, 2001 This register completely unknown until its accidental discovery in the County Courthouse in Chatham Virginia in 1994 consists of a hand written ledger which names numbers and describes free African Americans and possibly other non whites who regis Register of Free Persons of Colour, 1996 Surry County, Virginia Register of Free Negroes Dennis Hudgins, Virginia Genealogical Society, 1995 "Registrations of Free Negroes Commencing September Court 1822, Book No. 2", and "Register of Free Blacks 1835, Book 3" Virginia. County Court (Fairfax), 1977 Richmond, Virginia Uncovered Nancy C. Frantel, 2010-01-01 Richmond is located in the heartland of Virginia on the free flowing water of the James River The James brought much pain for it was by this river that the slave boats arrived and unloaded their imprisoned passengers in the 1700s and early 1800s Many slaves purchased in Richmond were transported to other Southern states as demand for labor increased in those regions History has not left a complete story of those who lived and died in the area Many records were lost as a result of fires over the years including during the Civil War Fortunately information has survived to ensure that some of those who passed through this land are permanently documented The Richmond City Sergeant Register is one of those precious records The transcribed entries preserved on these pages portray the hardships experienced by the enslaved and free blacks in the area Entries typically contain name of the person committed name of the person who apprehended the slave or free black court information if applicable date committed date discharged number of days maintained in the jail and the charge for that maintenance charges for turning the key apprehending fee total charge to the prisoner or slave owner and arrangements for the payment of jail charges If a free black who was discharged after proving his freedom was unable to pay his jail charges he or she was sold at public auction to pay off this debt The length of service required to repay this debt ranged from months to years Lucy Briggs an unfortunate free black woman who attained her release from jail after providing her freedom papers was hired out for fifty nine years A sentencing chart follows the register entries a full name index completes this work Alexandria County, Virginia Dorothy S. Provine,1990 The following publication consists of abstracts of entries in the registers for free blacks for Alexandria County now Arlington County Virginia for the period 1797 to 1861 These records were created and maintained by the county or circuit court and were usually signed by the clerk of the court Introd Accomack County, Virginia Free Negro Records Richard H.
