Refiti, 2022-10-14 Delving into Pacific spaces from a variety of disciplinary perspectives and interpretations this book looks at how the anthropological and architectural can be connected The contributors to this book architectural practitioners architectural and spatial design theorists anthropologists and historians show not only how new theoretical perspectives can arise out of comparing aspects specific to one discipline with their equivalents of another but also demonstrate how a space of emergence is created for something that goes beyond both enhancing both fields of potentialities The Archaeology of Food and Warfare Amber M. VanDerwarker, Gregory D. Wilson, 2015-08-03 The archaeologies of food and warfare have independently developed over the past several decades This volume aims to provide concrete linkages between these research topics through the examination of case studies worldwide Topics considered within the book include the impacts of warfare on the daily food quest warfare and nutritional health ritual foodways and violence the provisioning of warriors and armies status based changes in diet during times of war logistical constraints on military campaigns and violent competition over subsistence resources The diversity of perspectives included in this volume may be a product of new ways of conceptualizing violence not simply as an isolated component of a society nor as an attribute of a particular societal type but instead as a transformative process that is lived and irrevocably alters social economic and political organization and relationships This book highlights this transformative process by presenting a cross cultural perspective on the connection between war and food through the inclusion of case studies from several continents

On the Maori Art of Weaving Cloaks, Capes and Kilts Peter Henry Buck,1911 Carved Histories Roger

Neich,2001 This comprehensive guide examines the personal histories roles and personalities that played into the traditional cultural art of carving It also traces the influence of European patronage and the ensuing tourist trade upon this art form as many Maori carvers began styling and catering their product to meet their clients aesthetic desires Included is a discussion of the establishment of the government sponsored Rotorua School of Maori Art in 1928 which appointed as the main tutor Eramiha Kapua a Ngati Tarawhai carver thus helping his own traditional tribal art to make the transition into a modern national art

A Whakapapa of Tradition Ngarino Ellis,Natalie Robertson,2016-03-21 From the emergence of the chapel and the wharehau in the nineteenth century to the rejuvenation of carving by Apirana Ngata in the 1920s Maori carving went through a rapid evolution from 1830 to 1930 Focusing on thirty meeting houses Ngarino Ellis tells the story of Ngati Porou carving and a profound transformation in Maori art Beginning around 1830 three previously dominant art traditions waka taua war canoes pataka decorated storehouses and whare rangatira chief s houses declined and were replaced by whare karakia churches whare whakairo decorated meeting houses and wharekai dining halls Ellis examines how and why that fundamental transformation took place by exploring the Iwirakau School of carving based in the Waiapu Valley on the East Coast of the North Island An ancestor who lived around the year 1700 Iwirakau is credited for reinvigorating the art of carving in the Waiapu region. The six major carvers of his school went on to create more than thirty important meeting houses and other structures. During this transformational period, carvers and patrons re-negotiated key concepts such as tikanga, tradition, tapu, sacredness, and mana, power, authority, embedding them within the new architectural forms whilst preserving rituals surrounding the creation and use of buildings. A Whakapapa of Tradition tells us much about the art forms themselves but also analyzes the environment that made carving and building possible: the patrons who were the enablers and transmitters of culture; the carvers who engaged with modern tools and ideas; and the communities as a whole who created the new forms of art and architecture. This book is both a major study of Ngati Porou carving and an attempt to make sense of Maori art history. What makes a tradition in Maori art, Ellis asks. How do traditions begin? Who decides this? Conversely, how and why do traditions cease? And what forces are at play which make some buildings acceptable and others not? Beautifully illustrated with new photography by Natalie Robertson and drawing on the work of key scholars to make a new synthetic whole, this book will be a landmark volume in the history of writing about Maori art.

Māori Archaeology and History of Heretaunga, New Zealand Mark W. Allen, Ngahiwi Tomoana, Stella August, Wikitoria Moore, 2024-11-12. This book uses Māori Kaupapa, a Māori approach/practice to provide unique insights toward the anthropological understanding of power and place in Heretaunga, New Zealand. It examines the power of Māori leaders and ancient and modern archaeological and historical landscapes over the past six centuries. It highlights Māori warfare characterized by impressive fortifications known as pā. Severe impacts of the colonial period are also discussed, including demographic calamity, changes in settlement pattern, and the innovative ways that Māori leaders sought to navigate the last half of the nineteenth century. Recent history and modern issues are examined as well, particularly the rise of tribal self-government. Importantly, the roles of female leaders are examined for each period. This book will be of interest across many disciplines for those interested in conflict and warfare, complex pre-state level societies, colonialism, power, and women and indigenous adaptations to globalization.

The Studio, 1901 Tikanga Maori (Revised Edition) Hirini Moko Mead, 2016-11-29. Tikanga Maori is the authoritative and accessible introduction to understanding the correct Maori ways of doing things as they were done in the past, as they are done in the present, and as they may yet be. In this revised edition, Hirini Mead has added an extensive new chapter on mana whenua, mana moana, Maori authority over land and ocean, and the different interpretations and applications of mana whenua and mana moana historically and today. Hirini Mead has also updated the section on tangihanga to include contemporary issues about cremation choices and what happens to the deceased in Maori/non-Maori partnerships where there are disputes about following tangi tikanga or Pakeha traditions. The remainder of the book explores how tikanga Maori may influence contemporary life and society, and Hirini Mead proposes guidelines to help us test appropriate responses to challenges that may yet be laid down.
