interdisciplinary study group on New Technologies and Work NeTWork NeTWork is sponsored by the Werner Reimers Foundation Bad Homburg Germany and the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme Paris The NeTWork study group has set itself the task of intellectually penetrating various problem domains posed by the introduction and spread of new technologies in work settings This problem focus requires interdisciplinary co operation The usual mode of operating is to identify an important problem within the NeTWork scope to attempt to prestructure it and then to invite original contributions from European researchers or research teams actively involved in relevant analytic or developmental work A specific workshop serves to cross fertilize the different approaches and to help to integrate more fully the individual contributions The concept of telematics refers to the integration of computer telecommunication and information technologies It alludes to the opportunities presented by the technical means to communicate and transfer data over large distances by intelligent equipment Teleshopping teleconferencing teleworking and telebanking are but a few examples of a development which influences both public and private environments Both households and workplaces are likely to be thoroughly changed by telematics This publication emphasises the application of telematics in working environments The central questions of the book are How will the present and future development of telematics effect the nature and organization of work and under which conditions will this development be optimal From the various contributions it is clear that telematics is not a single direct cause or determinant of particular changes in work and organization The development and application of telematics depend on decision making of actors at a political scene both outside and inside the work organizations The effects of the use of these applications appear to be co determined by many other factors In fact the technology interacts with political economic and social factors in a complex process that shapes new organizational forms and work relationships

The Management of Projects Peter W. G. Morris, 1994 This book will undoubtedly become one of the classics of the project management literature There will be a growing need for project managers who can look beyond the internal processes of their projects to the organisational technological and socio economic contexts in which projects must be managed A good starting point would be for all project managers to read this book Construction Management and Economics

Managing Technology-Based Projects Hans J. Thamhain, 2014-03-12. A GUIDE TO EFFECTIVE PROJECT MANAGEMENT IN TECHNOLOGY BASED FIRMS. Used effectively, project management can increase a firm's market share, product quality and customer satisfaction. Though technology-based companies place themselves at a competitive disadvantage if they neglect this strategic tool, many overlook project management's benefits because they see themselves as continuously adapting organizations. In reality, this role makes project management even more vital. Managing Technology-Based Projects imparts the latest approaches and tools essential to lead a successful technology-based project. It outlines the practical integration of project management with four key areas: strategic alignment of projects within the enterprise, the project management process and its organizational support system, invaluable tools and techniques, and the individual and group leadership within a project's organization. Complete with examples of industrial applications, the book includes methods for defining key performance indicators and assessing project management process effectiveness, suggestions for fine-tuning and continuous improvement, practical case scenarios, discussion topics, end-of-chapter reviews and exercises. Attention to project management as it applies to a globalized business. No one in a managerial role should be without Thamhain's expert advice. This guidebook is your road map to successfully incorporating enterprise project management into technology-based work.
