John Rothenstein in the Interwar Years David McCann, 2023-07-12 Appointed in 1938 Sir John Rothenstein was the first director of the Tate to embrace modern art mounting a series of daring exhibitions and procuring a procession of audacious masterworks that in the words of one contemporary completely knocked the stuffiness out of that veritable institution So why since he died in 1991 has his name become a byword for reactionary conservatism The answer is that from the outset of his career Rothenstein refused to bow to the patriarchs of the avant garde In the 1920s while they were busy decrying the figurative tradition Rothenstein was championing a brilliant generation of artists whose work remained firmly rooted within it In the 1930s while they advocated a geometrical art of the utmost austerity Rothenstein used his first curatorial positions to promote a new wave of exciting young British realists Pitted against the progressives of Hampstead and Bloomsbury and inspired by the anti vanguardism of his father and Wyndham Lewis this book charts Rothenstein s earliest efforts to champion modern realistic painting in an age of abstraction Along the way it uncovers his selfless and pioneering patronage of artists as diverse as Stanley Spencer Edward Bawden Evelyn Dunbar Paul Nash Charles Mahoney and Eric Ravilious In so doing it also establishes his importance in the reassessment of twentieth century figuration going on today

Matthew Smith Malcolm Yorke, 1997 Although he died more than forty years ago this is the first full scale biography of Matthew Smith one of the most original English figurative painters of the century He was in his lifetime frequently but mistakenly seen as an English Fauve or as a disciple of Matisse but in fact he evolved his own distinctive style independently from anything he had seen in English art schools or the French galleries Smith was the son of a rich and cultured Yorkshire manufacturer but soon felt impelled to rebel against the Victorian taste of his father and his class He failed to impress tutors at the Slade went to France to see what the modern movements there had to offer and then returned to mingle in the circles round Sickert and Fry His grim experiences in World War 1 forced him to sort out his priorities both as a man and an artist Eventually a passionate love affair in middle age enabled him to establish his own uniquely turbulent style and subject matter of still lifes landscapes and uninhibited nudes Augustus John and Epstein were close friends as were many other literary and artistic figures in Paris Provence and London He was shaken by personal tragedies but well into old age he seemed able to attract the love of cultivated and attractive younger women There have been several retrospective exhibitions since his death in 1959 notably at the Royal Academy and twice at the Barbican Dr Yorke's detailed biography traces the life and reputation of this unassuming man who spoke like an intelligent moth but who produced pictures of such rich colour and extrovert handling that they have no parallels in the history of English painting
