American History and Contemporary Hollywood Film Trevor

McCrisken, Andrew Pepper, 2005 Hollywood has a growing fascination with America's past This book offers an analysis of how and why contemporary Hollywood films have sought to mediate American history It considers whether or how far contemporary films have begun to unravel the unifying myths of earlier films and periods

New York in Cinematic Imagination Vojislava Filipcevic Cordes, 2020-06-11 New York in Cinematic Imagination is an interdisciplinary study into urbanism and cinematic representations of the American metropolis in the twentieth century It contextualizes spatial transformations and discourse about New York during the Great Depression and the Second World War examining both imaginary narratives and documentary images of the city in film The book argues that alternating endorsements and critiques of the 1920s machine age city are replaced in films of the 1930s and 1940s by a new critical theory of agitated urban modernity articulated against the backdrop of turbulent economic and social settings and the initial practices of urban renewal in the post war period Written for postgraduates and researchers in the fields of film history and urban studies with 40 black and white illustrations to work alongside the text this book is an engaging study into cinematic representations of New York City Austria Made in Hollywood Jacqueline Vansant, 2019 Considers over sixty Hollywood films set in Austria examining the film industry the influence of domestic factors on images of a foreign country and the persistence of cliché Maria von Trapp watching the final scene of The Sound of Music for the first time as her family escaped into Switzerland exclaimed Don't they know geography in Hollywood Salzburg does not border on Switzerland Had she thought about the beginning of the film which transports viewers to Salzburg Austria in the last Golden Days of the Thirties when the country was in fact suffering from extreme political and social unrest she might have asked Don't they know history either In The Sound of Music as well as in Hollywood's many other Austria films the projections on the screen resemble reflections in a funhouse mirror Elements of a real place with areal history inhabited by real people can be found in the fractured distortions which have both drawn from and contributed to the general public's perceptions of the country and its citizens Austria Made in Hollywood focuses on films set in an identifiable Austria examining them through the lenses of the historical contexts on both sides of the Atlantic and the prism of the ever changing domestic film industry The study chronicles the protean screen images of Austria and Austrians that set them apart both from European projections of Austria and from Hollywood incarnations of other European nations and nationals It explores explicit and implicit cultural commentaries on domestic and foreign issues inserted in the Austrian stories while considering the many sometimes conflicting forces that shaped the films

Medicine's Moving Pictures Leslie J. Reagan, Nancy Tomes, Paula A. Treichler, 2007 This groundbreaking book argues that health and medical media with their unique goals and production values constitute a rich cultural and historical archive and deserve greater scholarly attention Original essays by leading media scholars and historians of medicine demonstrate that Americans throughout the twentieth century have learned about health disease medicine and the human body from movies Heroic doctors and patients fighting dread diseases have thrilled and moved audiences everywhere amid changing media formats medicine's moving pictures continue to educate entertain and help us understand the body's journey through life Perennially popular health and medical media are also complex texts reflecting many interests and constituencies including notably the U.S. medical profession which has often sought if not always successfully to influence content circulation and meaning Medicine's Moving Pictures makes clear that health and medical media representations are more than illustrations shows their power to shape health perceptions practices and policies and identifies their social cultural and historical contexts Contributors Lisa Cartwright Vanessa Northington Gamble Rachel Gans Boriskin Valerie Hartouni Susan E. Considering Class Kevin M. Cahill (Professor of Philosophy), Lene Johannessen, 2007 In the 21st century hardly any aspects of human existence are left unexplored by postmodern theories and discourses of subjectivity and individuality of hybridity and identity of race gender and ethnicity Conspicuous however among these critical inquiries is the relatively little attention devoted to the category of class This absence is particularly alarming at a time when neo liberalism and post capitalism feed on cultural fragmentation and ideological relativism The contributions in Considering Class Essays on the Discourse of the American Dream address the dysfunctional position of class in American socio political and cultural reality from a variety of disciplinary perspectives While it is open to debate whether class is more resistant to being relativized than other categories there is increasing recognition that class remains a critical category with the potential to transcend the rifts and divisions that run along lines of race ethnicity and gender and with the potential to reconfigure the current American political landscape

World War II, Film, and History John Whiteclay Chambers II, David Culbert, 1996-10-10 The immediacy and perceived truth of the visual image as well as film and television's ability to propel viewers back into the past place the genre of the historical film in a special category War films including antiwar films have established the prevailing public image of war in the twentieth century For American audiences the dominant image of trench warfare in World War I has been provided by feature films such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Paths of Glory The image of combat in the Second World War has been shaped by films like Sands of Iwo Jima and The Longest Day And despite claims for the alleged impact of widespread television coverage of the Vietnam War it is actually films such as Apocalypse Now and Platoon which have provided the most powerful images of what is seen as the reality of that much disputed conflict But to what degree does history written with lightning as Woodrow Wilson allegedly said represent the reality of the past To what extent is visual history an oversimplification or even a distortion of the past Exploring the relationship between moving images and the society and culture in which they were produced and received World War II Film and History addresses the power these images have had in determining our perception and memories of war Examining how the public memory of war in the twentieth century has often been created more by a manufactured past than a remembered one a leading group of historians discusses films dating from the early 1930s through the early 1990s created by filmmakers the world over from the United States and Germany to Japan and the former Soviet Union For example Freda Freiberg explains how the inter racial melodramatic Japanese feature film China Nights in which a manly and protective Japanese naval officer falls in love with a beautiful young Chinese street waif and molds her into a cultured submissive wife proved enormously popular with wartime Japanese and helped justify the invasion of China in the minds of many Japanese viewers Peter Paret assesses the historical accuracy of Kolberg as a depiction of an unsuccessful siege of that German city by a French Army in 1807 and explores how the film released by Hitler's regime in January 1945 explicitly called for civilian sacrifice and last ditch resistance Stephen Ambrose contrasts what we know about the historical reality of the Allied D Day landings in Normandy on June 6 1944 with the 1962 release of The Longest Day in which the major climactic moment in the film never happened at Normandy Alice Kessler Harris examines The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter a 1982 film documentary about women defense workers on the American home front in World War II emphasizing the degree to which the documentary's engaging main characters and its message of the need for fair and equal treatment for women resonates with many contemporary viewers And Clement Alexander Price contrasts Men of Bronze William Miles's fine documentary about black American soldiers who fought in France in World War I with Liberators the controversial documentary by Miles and Nina Rosenblum which incorrectly claimed that African American troops liberated Holocaust survivors at Dachau in World War II In today's visually oriented world powerful images even images of images are circulated in an eternal cycle gaining increased acceptance through repetition History becomes an endless loop in which repeated images validate and reconfirm each other Based on archival materials many of which have become only recently available World War II Film and History offers an informative and a disturbing look at the complex relationship between national myths and filmic memory as well as the dangers of visual images being transformed into reality

Working-Class Hollywood Steven J. Ross, 2020-06-30 This path breaking book reveals how Hollywood became Hollywood and what that meant for the politics of America and American film Working Class Hollywood tells the story of filmmaking in the first three decades of the twentieth century a time when going to the movies could transform lives and when the cinema was a battleground for control of American consciousness Steven Ross documents the rise of a working class film movement that challenged the dominant political ideas of the day Between 1907 and 1930 worker filmmakers repeatedly clashed with censors movie industry leaders and federal agencies over the kinds of images and subjects audiences would be allowed to see The outcome of these battles was critical to our own times for the victors got to shape the meaning of class in twentieth century America Surveying several hundred movies made by or about working men and women Ross shows how filmmakers were far more concerned with class conflict during the silent era than at any subsequent time Directors like Charlie Chaplin D W Griffith and William de Mille made movies that defended working people and chastised their enemies Worker filmmakers went a step further and produced movies from A Martyr to His Cause 1911 to The Gastonia Textile Strike 1929 that depicted a unified working class using strikes unions and socialism to transform a nation J Edgar Hoover considered these class conscious productions so dangerous that he assigned secret agents to spy on worker filmmakers Liberal and radical films declined in the 1920s as an emerging Hollywood studio system pressured by censors and Wall Street investors pushed American film in increasingly conservative directions Appealing to people's dreams of luxury and upward mobility studios produced lavish fantasy films that shifted popular attention away from the problems of the workplace and toward the pleasures of the new consumer society While worker filmmakers were trying to heighten class consciousness Hollywood producers were suggesting that class no longer mattered Working Class Hollywood shows how silent films helped shape the modern belief that we are a classless nation Tony Soprano's America M.
