Sheppard, 1967 Natural Selection and Genetic Drift Joshua Richardson, 2016 Natural selection is the process which being the most important factor of evolution promotes rising of adaptability and prevents destructive consequences of all other processes The concept of natural selection is a discordant problem of evolutionary human genetics Despite popularity of a hypothesis of neutral evolution the majority of scientists consider that selection has played main role in evolution of species and has generated all biological diversity of human populations This book presents research on natural selection and genetic drift The author of the first chapter provides an all embracing macroevolutionary perspective on the processes of the evolution of life and culture on earth The author investigates a complementary form of natural selection that diverges from the traditional form in that it is acting independently of the external environment The next chapter discusses natural selection and diabetes mellitus The last chapter examines how the genetic drift among native people from South American the Gran Chaco region affects interleukin 1 receptor antagonist variation Natural Selection and Heredity P. M. Sheppard, 1959 The Journal of Heredity, 1917 The journal discusses articles on gene action regulation and transmission in both plant and animal species including the genetic aspects of botany cytogenetics and evolution zoology and molecular and developmental biology Mechanisms of Evolution Christopher J. Paradise, A. Malcolm Campbell, 2016-04-27 Three of the four major mechanisms of evolution natural selection genetic drift and gene flow are examined There are 5 tenets of natural selection that influence individual organisms Individuals within populations are variable that variation is heritable organisms differ in their ability to survive and reproduce more individuals are produced in a generation than can survive and survival reproduction of those variable individuals are non random Organisms respond evolutionarily to changes in their environment and other selection pressures including global climate change The importance of spatial structure of a population in relation to how it affects the strength of gene flow and or genetic drift as well as the genetic variation and evolution of populations is shown Gene flow tends to reduce variation between populations and increase it within populations whereas genetic drift tends to reduce genetic variation especially in small isolated populations The mechanisms of evolution can lead to speciation which requires both time and genetic isolation of populations in addition
