

A Mother's Story

EndoSure, Inc. forwarded an enquiry from a lady in the Midlands, wanting to know if the EndoSure Test was available in the U.K. We made contact with the lady, who was a mother trying to find a diagnostic test for her young daughter, who she strongly suspected had endometriosis. We sent details of the EndoSure Test for the mother to discuss with their G.P. But she received a negative response. So, we arranged for the daughter to have the test and for David Griffiths, a respected gynaecologist in Swindon, to interpret the result. Mr. Griffiths confirmed and communicated a positive test for endometriosis, and consequently, the G.P. has initiated a treatment plan.

The EndoSure Test has facilitated a treatment pathway for this young lady, who, statistically, may have had to wait eight years for a diagnosis.

These are the words of the patient's mother:

My daughter started her periods at age 11 and progressively over the years her menstrual pain has been getting worse and worse, like she is confined to her bed for at least a couple of days. We had repeatedly been to the GP about this, but you always get dismissed and put on pills. They did send her for an ultrasound scan but that came back negative, but my daughter was still suffering so mum had to do some Dr Googling and research and that's how I came across EndoSure. When i contacted them through the site they were very quick with their response and told me that there was a trial happening but when we saw the GP about trying to get on the trial we got shot down and told there is no need to find out till my daughter wants to have children but you want to know what is causing this pain etc when I told EndoSure this they went above and beyond and let us have the test anyway. Beth was lovely and very professional, and the test only took around half an hour in total silence so it could read her body (which totally killed her no phone for 30 mins). As soon as we got the results which was a couple of days later, we booked a GP appointment and the GP did her research on EndoSure and said that the private sector is all over this and she was very thorough and explained everything and all of the options and we have been put on the waiting list for gynaecology. So now it's a waiting game but without EndoSure I am sure we would still be banging our heads up against a wall with the GP's."

... it's about time

Memory, War, and Dictatorship in Recent Spanish Fiction by Women Sarah Leggott, 2015-06-10 Memory War and Dictatorship in Recent Spanish Fiction by Women analyzes five novels by women writers that present women s experiences during and after the Spanish Civil War and Franco dictatorship highlighting the struggles of female protagonists of different ages to confront an unresolved individual and collective past It discusses the different narrative models and strategies used in these works and the ways in which they engage with their political and historical context particularly in the light of campaigns for the so called recovery of historical memory in Spain the memory boom and in the broader context of memory and trauma studies The novels that are examined in this book are Dulce Chac n s La voz dormida 2002 Rosa Reg s s Luna lunera 1999 Josefina Aldecoa s La fuerza del destino 1997 Carme Riera s La mitad del alma 2005 and Almudena Grandes s El coraz n helado 2007 These works all highlight the multiple nature of memories and histories and demonstrate the complex ways in which the past impacts on the present This book also considers the extent to which the memories represented in these five novels are inflected by gender and informed by the gender politics of twentieth century and contemporary Spain

The Architecture of Memory Joëlle Bahloul, 1996-07-28 Recalling life in a single house occupied by several Jewish and Muslim families in the generation before Algerian independence this is a micro history of a period which came to an end in the early 1960s

Memory in Oral Traditions David C. Rubin, 1995 Long studied by anthropologists historians and linguists oral traditions have provided a wealth of fascinating insights into unique cultural customs that span the history of humankind In this groundbreaking work cognitive psychologist David C Rubin offers for the first time an accessible comprehensive examination of what such traditions can tell us about the complex inner workings of human memory Focusing in particular on their three major forms of organization theme imagery and sound pattern Rubin proposes a model of recall and uses it to uncover the mechanisms of memory that underlie genres such as counting out rhymes ballads and epics The book concludes with an engaging discussion of how conversions from oral to written communication modes can predict how cutting edge computer technologies will affect the conventions of future transmissions Throughout Rubin presents the results of important original research as well as new perspectives on classical subjects Splendidly written and farsighted Memory in Oral Traditions will be eagerly read by students and researchers in areas as diverse as cognitive psychology literary studies classics and cultural anthropology

Shaping Losses explores how traumatic loss affects identity and how those who are shaped by loss give shape in turn to the empty place where something relationships family culture was and is no longer Taking the example of the decimation of European Jewry during the Nazi era Shaping Losses confronts the problem of transforming trauma into cultural memory This eloquent volume examines how memoirs films photographs art and literature as well as family conversations and personal remembrances embody the impulse to preserve what is destroyed The contributors all distinguished women scholars most of them survivors or daughters of survivors examine classic memorializations such as Claude Lanzmann's film Shoah and Roman Vishniac's photographs of prewar Jews as well as several less well known works They also address ways in which children of survivors of the Holocaust and of other catastrophic traumas struggle with inherited or vicarious memory striving to come to terms with losses that centrally define them although they experience them only indirectly Shaping Losses considers the limitations of Holocaust representations and testimonies that capture shards of the experience but are necessarily selective and reductive Contributors discuss artistic efforts to preserve the rawness of memory to resist redemptive closure in Holocaust narratives and public memorials and to prevent the Holocaust from being sealed in the cold storage of history The authors probe the nature of memory and of trauma studying the use of language within and outside a traumatic context such as Auschwitz and pinpointing the qualities that make traumatic memory ineffable untransmittable and perhaps unreliable Within the haunted terrain of traumatized memory that all Holocaust testimonies inhabit the impulse to give form to emptiness to shape loss emerges as a necessary betrayal a vital effort to bridge the gap between history and memory

The Geography of Memory Jeanne Murray Walker, 2013-09-03 Award winning poet Jeanne Murray Walker tells an extraordinarily wise witty and quietly wrenching tale of her mother's long passage into dementia This powerful story explores parental love profound grief and the unexpected consolation of memory While Walker does not flinch from the horrors of the ugly twins aging and death her eye for the apt image provides a window into unexpected joy and humor even during the darkest days This is a multi layered narrative of generations faith and friendship As Walker leans in to the task of caring for her mother their relationship unexpectedly deepens and becomes life giving Her mother's memory which more and more dwells in the distant past illuminates Walker's own childhood She rediscovers and begins to understand her own past as well as to enter more fully into her mother's final years The Geography of Memory is not only a personal journey made public in the most engaging funny and revealing way possible here is a story of redemption for anyone who is caring for or expecting to care for ill and aging parents and for all the rest of us as well
