The Off-shore Petroleum Resources of South-east Asia Corazón M. Siddayao,1978 The Off-Shore Petroleum Resources of South-East Asia Corazón Morales Siddayao,2013-03-13

INTEREST in the off shore petroleum resources of South East Asia was manifested in the 1960s when development in off shore technology allowed oil companies to search beyond prospective land areas. The dramatic increases in oil prices in the early 1970s but more particularly the events of 1973 and 1974 when world oil prices were quadrupled by the oil exporting nations and major supply cutbacks were experienced by certain developed nations further heightened this interest. Cost price relationships had not only improved and made off shore oil in hitherto less attractive areas commercially prospective, nations that were net importers and whose international exchange reserves were strained by the high import costs of foreign oil also found it prudent to begin looking for indigenous resources and to encourage such search. The search for and discovery of petroleum in South East Asia on the scale in which it has been conducted in the last ten years was new to the region. It was natural therefore for students of South East Asia to raise questions about its progress, questions concerning international relations, social impacts and economic policy implications. The purpose of this study is to try and answer the question: What are the potentials for conflicts or cooperation among nations arising from the search for petroleum resources in the seabeds of South East Asia? The problem of conflicts or cooperation among nations is a topic that has many facets and may involve a multitude of issues, for example legal, economic, technical, security, social, etc.

The Petroleum Resources of Indonesia Ooi Jin Bee,2013-03-13

THE quadrupling of oil prices within a few months in late 1973 and early 1974 brought to an abrupt end the era of inexpensive oil. Since then the continuing increases in the price of oil traded in the international market and the higher prices of imports of manufactured goods have seriously disrupted the foreign exchange balances of many developing countries and forced them to replan their development programmes. The impact of high oil prices is felt in every country, whether developed or developing, and has brought to world attention the fact that not only are petroleum resources in limited supply and exhaustible but also that substitutes cannot be found easily or quickly. In a world faced with the certainty of declining supplies of petroleum, there is widespread interest and concern among all the oil producing countries to evaluate the extent of their petroleum resources and to examine more closely the problems of their development, rates of depletion and methods of conservation. The present work reviews some of the above issues and problems in relation to Indonesia, an OPEC member and the major oil producing country in South East Asia. More specifically, it seeks to provide the reader with an overview of the petroleum resources of the country, their nature, extent, distribution as well as the problems of their development.

which may be termed political risks may be important determinants of investment. After taking such risks into consideration in the exploration and development stage a firm computing the present value of its probable income stream must consider several other factors In addition to the current rate of production it must consider these 1 engineering limits to the rate of extraction in any given period 2 physical limits to the total amount of the resource that can be produced within a given location and 3 limits to the availability of new petroleum sources at the same costs as at the present location It might be useful at this point to note that the firm as an exploration agent in South East Asia operates largely as a contractor to the host government who has ownership and final control over the petroleum resources The group of suppliers of petroleum reserves in the region is characterized by the presence of the major companies directly or through subsidiaries as well as by many smaller and even independent companies Three major companies currently dominate exploration and producing operations in two countries Exxon and Shell in Malaysia Shell in Brunei In Indonesia Caltex and Stanvac dominate production Outside Malaysia and Brunei the bulk of new exploration is conducted by relatively smaller companies side by side with the major companies like Exxon Gulf Mobil Shell and Texaco

Criteria for Energy Pricing Policy Corazon Siddayao, 2012-12-06 The main part of this volume is composed of papers commissioned for the Energy Pricing Policy Workshop held at Bangkok from 8 to 11 May 1984 co-ordinated by the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific ESCAP and the Resource Systems Institute of the East West Center The Workshop which involved high level policy planners was financially sponsored by several from several Asian developing countries organizations the ESCAP Regional Energy Development Programme funded by the United Nations Development Programme the European Economic Community the International Labour Organisation and the International Development Research Centre Publication of these papers has been supported by funds from the European Economic Community and the United States Agency for International Development Preparation of the manuscripts for publication was undertaken at the East West Center through contribution in kind at the professional editorial and support staff levels out of discussions at the Eighth Session of the The Workshop developed ESCAP Committee on Natural Resources 27 October to 2 November 1981 where questions on resource pricing in general as related to energy resources and sectoral pricing policies for end users were discussed in the context of demand management It was recognized that although much work had been done in the area policy makers could seldom obtain analytically supported yet realistic guidance concerning energy pricing questions The emphasis of the Workshop was therefore on policy decision making and the application of theory to policy formulation in the energy pricing area

Law of the Sea Zones in the Pacific Ocean Hanns Jürgen Buchholz, 1987 The United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea produced a Convention in 1982 through which maritime regionalization is to be peacefully organized However jurisdictional application of the Law of the Sea has not been easy In this book the basic problems of regionalization are concisely described in relation to each area regime and the regulations of the new Law of the Sea The development of maritime law in the Pacific region is summarized and the economic significance of these sea areas is also clearly stated
