Poachers Politics And Other Peoples:

The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1863 The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance ,1863 Other People's Money Nomi Prins,2006-08-01 Critical independent voices are seldom found within the citadels of international finance That s what makes Nomi Prins unique During fifteen years as an executive at skyscraping banks like Goldman Sachs Bear Stearns and Lehman Brothers Prins never lost her ability to see the broader picture She walked away from the game in 2002 out of disgust with the burgeoning corporate corruption just as its magnitude was becoming clear to the public In this acclaimed expos named one of the best books of 2004 by The Economist Barron s Library Journal and The Progressive Prins provides fascinating firsthand details of day to day life in the financial leviathans with all its rich absurdities She demonstrates how the much publicized fraud of recent years resulted from deregulation that trashed the rules of responsible corporate behavior and not simply the unbridled greed of a select few While the stock market roared on the back of phony balance sheets executives made out like bandits and Congress looked the other way Worse yet as the new foreword to the paperback edition makes clear everything remains in place for a repeat performance Cobbett's Political Register William Cobbett,1804 Cobbett's Political Register ,1804 Cobbett's Weekly Political Register ,1804 The Irish Law Times and Solicitors' Journal ,1887 Saturday Review ,1863

Politicians and Poachers Clark C. Gibson,1999-08-13 Although wildlife fascinates citizens of industrialized countries little is known about the politics of wildlife policy in Africa In this innovative book Clark Gibson challenges the rhetoric of television documentaries and conservation organizations to explore the politics behind the creation and change of wildlife policy in Africa This book examines what Clark views as a central puzzle in the debate Why do African governments create policies that apparently fail to protect wildlife Moving beyond explanations of bureaucratic inefficiency and corrupt dictatorships Gibson argues that biologically disastrous policies are retained because they meet the distributive goals of politicians and bureaucrats Using evidence from Zambia Kenya and Zimbabwe Gibson shows how institutions encourage politicians and bureaucrats to construct wildlife policies that further their own interests Different configurations of electoral laws legislatures party structures interest groups and traditional authorities in each country shape the choices of policymakers many of which are not consonant with conservation This book will appeal to students of institutions comparative politics natural resource policymaking African politics and wildlife conservationists Green Criminology Michael J. Lynch,Michael A. Long,Paul B. Stretesky,Kimberly L. Barrett,2017-08-22 This groundbreaking text provides students with an overview and assessment of green criminology as well as a call to action Green Criminology draws attention to the ways in which the political economic organization of capitalism causes ecological destruction and disorganization Focusing on real world issues of green crime and environmental justice chapters examine ecological withdrawals ecological additions toxic towns wildlife poaching and trafficking environmental laws and nongovernmental environmental organizations The book also presents an unthreatening introduction to research from the physical sciences on issues such as climate change pollution levels and the ecological footprint of humans providing a truly interdisciplinary foundation for green criminological analysis To help students succeed in the course and to encourage them to see themselves as future green criminology researchers the end of chapter study guides include Questions and Activities for Students that review topics students should be able to conceptualize and address Lessons for Researchers that suggest additional areas of research in the study of green crime

Women and Wildlife Trafficking Helen U. Agu, Meredith L. Gore, 2022-03-30 This volume examines women and wildlife trafficking via a collection of narratives case studies and theoretical syntheses from diverse voices and disciplines Wildlife trafficking has been documented in over 120 countries around the world While species extinction and animal abuse are major problems wildlife trafficking is also associated with corruption national insecurity spread of zoonotic disease undercutting sustainable development investments and erosion of cultural resources among others The role of women in wildlife trafficking has remained woefully under addressed with scientists and policymakers failing to consider the important causes and consequences of the gendered dimensions of wildlife trafficking Although the roles of women in wildlife trafficking are mostly unknown they are not unknowable This volume helps fill a lacuna by examining the roles and experiences of women with case studies drawn from across the world including Mexico Cameroon the Central African Republic South Africa and Norway Women can be wildlife trafficking preventors perpetrators and pawns their roles in facilitating wildlife trafficking are considered from both a supply and a demand viewpoint The first half of the book assesses the range of science offering four different perspectives on how women and wildlife trafficking can be studied or evaluated The second half of the book profiles diverse case studies from around the world offering context specific insight about on the ground activities associated with women and wildlife trafficking This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of wildlife crime environmental law human geography conservation gender studies and green criminology It will also be of interest to NGOs and policymakers working to improve efficacy of efforts targeting wildlife crime the illegal wildlife trade and conservation more broadly

Speaking for the People Mark Rifkin, 2021-08-03 In Speaking for the People Mark Rifkin examines nineteenth century Native writings to reframe contemporary debates around Indigenous recognition refusal and resurgence Rifkin shows how works by Native authors William Apess Elias Boudinot Sarah Winnemucca and Zitkala a illustrate the intellectual labor involved in representing modes of Indigenous political identity and placemaking These writers highlight the complex processes involved in negotiating the character contours and scope of Indigenous sovereignties under ongoing colonial occupation Rifkin argues that attending to these writers engagements with non native publics helps provide further analytical tools for addressing the complexities of Indigenous governance on the ground both then and now Thinking about Native peoplehood and politics as a matter of form opens possibilities for addressing the difficult work involved in navigating among varied possibilities for conceptualizing and enacting peoplehood in the context of continuing settler intervention As Rifkin demonstrates attending to writings by these Indigenous intellectuals provides ways of understanding Native governance as a matter of deliberation discussion and debate emphasizing the open ended unfinishedness of self determination Collected Works of Charles
