Regional Industrial Analysis And Development:

Regional Industrial Analysis and Development Geoffrey J. D. Hewings, 2017-09-05 Originally published in 1977 This book provides an introduction to some of the more important techniques of regional analysis techniques derived from geographical regional economic and regional science theory and describes the way some of these techniques have been applied in the identification of problems development of strategy and evaluation of regional programmes The theory and applications of methods of regional analysis are integrated with the use of examples taken from the USA the UK and Canada The author introduces the problems which are encountered in the field of regional analysis describes some of the analytical tools beginning with the fundamental model of the economic base approach and then examines regional flows and the applicability of international trade theory to interregional trade Considering the shortcomings of the aggregated base approach input output analysis is also examined

Regional Industrial Analysis and Development Geoffrey Hewings, 1977 Urban And Regional Analysis For Development Planning Richard Rhoda, 2019-03-20 Dr Rhoda concisely presents the wide range of analytical methods available to urban and regional development planners Focusing on the needs of the practitioner in each chapter he concentrates on a particular analytical issue describing several types of relevant analyses and offering guidelines for selecting appropriate techniques to solve specific Problems & Prospects of Industrial Development in a Metropolitan City, 1994-01-01 Contributed articles Industrial Development, Tennessee Valley Region, 1983

Regional Economics Roberta Capello, 2015-11-10 The second edition of Regional Economics provides a comprehensive and up to date treatment of regional economics This fully revised edition includes key theoretical developments of the last ten years Topics included span from the earliest location theories to the most recent regional growth theories It is also enriched by the recent debate on smart specialization strategies recently developed by the EU for the design of new cohesion policies Key elements covered in the new edition include proximity and innovation theories the concept of territorial capital the debate on the role of agglomeration economies in urban growth This textbook is for undergraduate students in regional and urban economics as well as spatial planning courses Regional Economic Development Robert J. Stimson, Roger R. Stough, Brian H. Roberts, 2013-03-09 Regional economic development has attracted the interest of economists geographers planners and regional scientists for a long time And of course it is a field that has developed a large practitioner cohort in government and business agencies from the national down to the state and local levels In planning for cities and regions both large and small economic development issues now tend to be integrated into strategic planning processes For at least the last 50 years scholars from various disciplines have theorised about the nature of regional economic development developing a range of models seeking to explain the process of regional economic development and why it is that regions vary so much in their economic structure and performance and how these aspects of a region can change dramatically over time Regional scientists in particular have developed a comprehensive tool kit of methodologies to measure and monitor regional economic characteristics such as industry sectors employment income value of production investment and the like using both quantitative and qualitative methods of analysis and focusing on both static and dynamic analysis The father of regional science Walter Isard was the first to put together a comprehensive volume on techniques of regional analysis Isard 1960 and since then a huge literature has emerged including the many titles in the series published by Springer in which this book is published techniques for developing the emerging fields of Industrial Economics and Industrial Security Management and Regional Science for Economic Development Manas Chatterji, 2012-12-06 The greatest challenge facing mankind today is the immense disparity in the levels of income among people in different parts of the globe The growth rate of income of the poor countries is consistently far below the rate of the advanced industrialized nations Due to low income and a high propensity to consume there is very little left in these countries for investment A major portion of the resources available is devoted to military expenditures This continual decline in the standard of living coupled with poverty and unemployment will lead to social and political upheaval in these countries which affects developed countries Because of high capacity and low population growth the market of the developed countries is already saturated To maintain the high standard of living in the developed countries it is necessary to have a strong and stable developing world It is gratifying to see that both groups of countries see the need for peaceful economic growth however the amount of cooperation between countries and the material help from the developed countries are far from satisfactory The economic and social scientists have investigated the best way to achieve the transformation from a poverty ridden condition to a decent existence Their studies have proceeded in two different directions One is a more descriptive historical analysis and the other is theoretical model building Although these studies have achieved a relatively high level of perfection one significant factor is sometimes missing Handbook of Industrial Development Patrizio Bianchi, Sandrine Labory, Philip R. Tomlinson, 2023-01-13 Providing an overview of industrial development using a variety of different approaches and perspectives the Handbook of Industrial Development brings together expert contributors and highlights the current multiple and interdependent challenges that can only be addressed by an interdisciplinary approach Chapters discuss the existing issues faced by industry following both the digital and environmental transitions highlighting their regional roots and the interplay with the wider institutional framework
