Red Shoes Margaret Atwood Starting Out:

The Red Shoes Rosemary Sullivan, 1998 International award winning and best selling author Canadian cultural icon feminist role model man hater wife mother private citizen and household name who is Margaret Atwood Rosemary Sullivan award winning literary biographer has penned The Red Shoes Margaret Atwood Starting Out the first portrait of Canada's most famous novelist focusing on her childhood and formative years as a writer and the generation she grew up in When Margaret Atwood was a little girl in 1949 she saw a movie called The Red Shoes It is the story of a beautiful young woman who becomes a famous ballerina but commits suicide when she cannot satisfy one man who wants her to devote her entire life to her art and another who loves her but subjugates her to become his muse and inspiration She struggles to choose art but the choice eventually destroys her Margaret Atwood remembers being devastated by this movie but unlike many young girls of her time she escaped its underlying message Always sustained by a strong sense of self Atwood would achieve a meteoric literary career Yet a nurturing sense of self confidence is just one fascinating side of our most famous literary figure as examined in Rosemary Sullivan's latest biography The Red Shoes is not a simple biography but a portrait of a complex intriguing woman and her generation The seventies in Canada was the decade of fierce nationalist debate a period during which Canada's social imagination was creating a new tradition Suddenly everyone from Robertson Davies to Margaret Laurence was talking and writing about a Canadian cultural identity Margaret Atwood was no exception For despite her tremendous success that transcends the literary community catapulting into the realm of a household name Margaret Atwood has remained very much a private person with a public persona Rosemary Sullivan reveals the discrepancy between Atwood's cool acerbic public image and the down to earth straight dealing and generous woman who actually writes the books Throughout she weaves the issues of female creativity authority and autonomy set against the backdrop of a generation of women coming of age during one of the most radically shifting times in contemporary history The Red Shoes Rosemary Sullivan, 1998 Margaret Atwood Reingard M. Nischik, 2000 Novelist poet cultural critic Margaret Atwood is one of the most fascinating versatile and productive authors of our time a superb writer in any genre she chooses to tackle This book was prepared on the occasion of Atwood's sixtieth birthday in November 1999 Its first aim is therefore to take stock of Atwood's multifarious works and international impact at the height of her creative powers Secondly the book serves as a wide ranging introduction to the writer and her works Fifteen informative articles written specifically for this volume by Atwood specialists from Canada the USA the UK Germany and France treat her life and status her works up to date survey articles on Atwood's novels short fiction poetry and literary and cultural criticism and important approaches to her works from the standpoints of gender politics mythology ecology popular culture constructivism and Canadian nationalism A final section on creativity transmission and reception includes an interview with Atwood on creativity statements by some of Atwood's important transmitters including publishers editors literary agents and translators and some 15 statements by Atwood's fellow writers in which they explore her importance for them. A number of photographs of Atwood, several cartoons drawn by her, an up-to-date bibliography of works by and about Atwood, and an index round out the volume. Reingard M Nischik is Professor of American literature at the University of Konstanz, Germany. The Cambridge Introduction to Margaret Atwood Heidi Slettedahl Macpherson, 2010-09-02 Margaret Atwood offers an immensely influential voice in contemporary literature. Her novels have been translated into over 22 languages and are widely studied, taught, and enjoyed. Her style is defined by her comic wit and willingness to experiment. Her work has ranged across several genres from poetry to literary and cultural criticism, novels, short stories, and art. This Introduction summarizes Atwood's canon from her earliest poetry and her first novel The Edible Woman through The Handmaid's Tale to The Year of the Flood. Covering the full range of her work, it guides students through multiple readings of her oeuvre. It features chapters on her life and career, her literary, Canadian, and feminist contexts, and how her work has been received and debated over the course of her career. With a guide to further reading and a clear, well-organised structure, this book presents an engaging overview for students and readers.

The Red Shoes Rosemary Sullivan, 2012-07-03 International award-winning and best-selling author, Canadian cultural icon, feminist role model, man-hater, wife, mother, private citizen, and household name who is Margaret Atwood. Rosemary Sullivan, award-winning literary biographer, has penned The Red Shoes: Margaret Atwood Starting Out, the first portrait of Canada's most famous novelist focusing on her childhood and formative years as a writer and the generation she grew up in. When Margaret Atwood was a little girl in 1949, she saw a movie called The Red Shoes. It is the story of a beautiful young woman who becomes a famous ballerina but commits suicide when she cannot satisfy one man who wants her to devote her entire life to her art, and another who loves her but subjugates her to become his muse and inspiration. She struggles to choose art, but the choice eventually destroys her. Margaret Atwood remembers being devastated by this movie, but unlike many young girls of her time, she escaped its underlying message. Always sustained by a strong sense of self, Atwood would achieve a meteoric literary career. Yet a nurturing sense of self-confidence is just one fascinating side of our most famous literary figure, as examined in Rosemary Sullivan's latest biography. The Red Shoes is not a simple biography but a portrait of a complex, intriguing woman and her generation. The seventies in Canada was the decade of fierce nationalist debate, a period during which Canada's social imagination was creating a new tradition. Suddenly, everyone from Robertson Davies to Margaret Laurence was talking and writing about a Canadian cultural identity. Margaret Atwood was no exception. For despite her tremendous success that transcends the literary community, catapulting into the realm of a household name, Margaret Atwood has remained very much a private person with a public persona. Rosemary Sullivan reveals the discrepancy between Atwood's cool, acerbic public image and the down-to-earth, straight-dealing and generous woman who actually writes the books. Throughout, she weaves the issues of female creativity, authority, and autonomy set against the backdrop of a generation of women coming of age during one of the most radically shifting times in contemporary history. The Promise

Designing Fictions Michael L. Ross, 2015-05-01 Advertising long a controlling force in industrial society has provoked an important body of imaginative work by English language writers Michael Ross's Designing Fictions is the first study to investigate this symbiotic relationship on a broad scale In view of the appreciable overlap between literary and promotional writing Ross asks whether imaginative fiction has the latitude to critique advertising as an industry and as a literary form and finds that intended critiques time and again turn out to be shot through with ambivalence The texts considered include a wide range of books by British American and Canadian authors from H G Wells's pioneering fictional treatment of mass marketing in Tono Bungay 1909 to Joshua Ferris's depiction of a faltering Chicago agency in Then We Came to the End 2007 Along the way among other examples Ross discusses George Orwell's seriocomic study of the stand off between poetry and advertising in his 1936 novel Keep the Aspidistra Flying and Margaret Atwood's probing of the impact of promotion on perception in The Edible Woman 1969 The final chapter of the book considers the popular television series Mad Men where the tension between artistic and commercial pressures is especially acute. Written in a straightforward style for a wide audience of readers, Designing Fictions argues that the impact of advertising is universal and discussions of its significance should not be restricted to a narrow group of specialists.

Reproductive Acts Heather Latimer, 2013-06-01 Forty years after Roe v. Wade it is evident that the ideologies of choices and rights which have publicly framed reproductive politics in North America since the landmark legal decision have been inadequate in making sense of the topic's complexities. In Reproductive Acts Heather Latimer investigates what contemporary fiction and film can tell us about the divisive nature of these politics and demonstrates how fictional representations of reproduction allow for readings of reproductive politics that are critical of the terms of the debate itself. In an innovative argument about the power of fiction to engage and shape politics, Latimer analyzes works by authors such as Margaret Atwood, Kathy Acker, Toni Morrison, Larissa Lai, and director Alfonso Cuarón among others to claim that the unease surrounding reproduction, particularly the abortion debate, has increased both inside and outside the US over the last forty years. Fictional representation, Latimer argues, reveals reproductive politics to be deeply connected to cultural anxieties about gender, race, citizenship, and sexuality, anxieties that cannot be contained under the rules of individual rights or choices. Striking a balance between fictional, historical, and political analysis, Reproductive Acts makes a compelling argument for the vital role narrative plays in how we make sense of North American reproductive politics.

The Daughter's Way Tanis MacDonald, 2012-09-01 The Daughter's Way investigates negotiations of female subjectivity in twentieth-century Canadian women's elegies with a special emphasis on the father's death as a literary and political watershed. The book examines the work of Dorothy Livesay, P. K. Page, Jay Macpherson, Margaret Atwood, Kristjana Gunnars, Lola Lemire Tostevin, Anne Carson, and Erin Mour as elegiac daughteronomies, literary artifacts of mourning that grow from the poet's investigation into the function and limitations of elegiac convention. Some poets treat the father as a metaphor for socio-political power, while others explore more personal iterations of loss, but all the poets in The Daughter's Way seek to redefine daughterly duty in a contemporary context by challenging elegiac tradition through questions of genre and gender. Beginning with psychoanalytical theories of filiation, inheritance, and mourning as they are complicated by feminist challenges to theories of kinship and citizenship, The Daughter's Way debates the efficacy of the literary work of mourning in twentieth-century Canadian poetry. By investigating the way a daughter's filial piety performs and sometimes reconfigures such work and situating melancholia as a creative force in women's elegies, the book considers how elegies inquire into the rhetoric of mourning as it is complicated by father-daughter kinship.

Sharing the Past J.A. Weingarten, 2019-09-05 Sharing the Past is an unprecedentedly detailed account of the intertwining discourses of Canadian history and creative literature. When social history emerged as its own field of study in the 1960s, it promised new stories that would bring readers away from the elite writing of academics and closer to the everyday experiences of people. Yet the academy's continued emphasis on professional distance and objectivity made it difficult for historians to connect with the experiences of those about whom they wrote and those same emphases made it all but impossible for non academic experts to be institutionally recognized as historians Drawing on interviews and new archival materials to construct a history of Canadian poetry written since 1960 Sharing the Past argues that the project of social history has achieved its fullest expression in lyric poetry a genre in which personal experiences anchor history Developing this genre since 1960 Canadian poets have provided an inclusive model for a truly social history that indiscriminately shares the right to speak authoritatively of the past Life Stories Maureen
