Zeichner, Daniel P. Liston, 2013-05-13 This volume outlines the assumptions and beliefs that distinguish the concept of the reflective teacher from the view of the teacher as passive and a mere technician a view that teacher education programs and schools have historically promoted The authors demonstrate how various conceptions of reflective teaching differ from one another They believe that it is only through teachers reflections on their own teaching that they become more skilled more capable and in general better teachers This is the first volume in the Reflective Teaching and the Social Conditions of

Schooling series The major goal of both this book and of all of the volumes to follow in this series is to help teachers explore and define their own positions with regard to the topics and issues at hand within the context of the aims of education in a democratic society

Reflective Teacher Education Linda Valli,1992-09-01 An increasing number of educators are arguing for conceptually sound reflective or inquiry oriented teacher education programs The argument is based on the fact that reflective teaching is possible and the belief that teachers should develop habits of consciously informed action Those who promote reflective teaching argue for teacher empowerment within a self renewing profession Reflective Teacher Education offers case studies from seven universities that have organized teacher education programs around the concept of reflection The cases represent public and private institutions and alternative and traditional models of teacher preparation The studies represent efforts to transform the entire professional education component rather than individual courses or isolated strategies The volume also considers reflection as a conceptual orientation commenting on its power to inform and improve teacher education and assessing the implementation of reflection in these specific programs The six critiques raise intriguing questions about the possibility and desirability of reflective reform efforts by viewing the cases from varying perspectives development cognitive feminist social reconstructionist and post modern

Teachers who Teach Teachers Tom Russell, F. A. J. Korthagen, Fred A. J. Korthagen, 1995 Teachers Who Teach Teachers is a major contribution to an emerging literature in which teacher educators are beginning to explore the new challenges facing those who care about the quality of teaching in schools and in teacher education programmes In this volume the contributors consider the personal development of both new and experienced teacher educators illustrating just how strongly teacher educators are influenced by their visions and by the challenge to prove themselves in the university setting They look at ways in which teacher educators have acted to promote their own professional development and study their own practices including writing as a tool for reflection Finally the contributors take a broader look at the professional development of teacher educators and the challenge to all teacher educators to consider the tension between rigour and relevance Video Reflection in Literacy Teacher Education and Development Evan Ortlieb, Mary B. McVee, Lynn E. Loughran, 2002-11-01 This text presents a research study into the development of reflective practitioners in a pre service teacher education programme The teacher educator in the study modelled his own reflections on practice in the hope that it would help students to apply reflection to their own teaching The results of the author's research demonstrate that reflection on practice occurs in three distinct periods before anticipatory during contemporaneous and after retrospective a pedagogical experience The book concludes that when student teachers own learning situations both within their university coursework and their school experiences become the focus for their learning about teaching and learning their understanding of and practice in teaching is enhanced Teaching as a Reflective Practice Ian Westbury, Stefan

Hopmann, Kurt Riquarts, 2000 This volume presents a mix of translations of classical and modern papers from the German Didaktik tradition newly prepared essays by German scholars and practitioners writing from within the tradition and interpretive essays by U S scholars It brings this tradition which virtually dominated German curricular thought and teacher education until the 1960s when American curriculum theory entered Germany and which is now experiencing a renaissance to the English speaking world where it has been essentially unknown The intent is to capture in one volume the core at least of the tradition of Didaktik and to communicate its potential relevance to English language curricularists and teacher educators It introduces a theoretical tradition which although very different in almost every respect from those we know offers a set of approaches that suggest ways of thinking about problems of reflection on curricular and teaching praxis the core focus of the tradition which the editors believe are accessible to North American readers with appropriate translation These ways of thinking and related praxis are very relevant to notions such as reflective teaching and the discourse on teachers as professionals By raising the possibility that the new tradition of Didaktik can be highly suggestive for thinking through issues related to a number of central ideas within contemporary discourse and for exploring the implications of these ideas for both teacher education and for a curriculum theory appropriate to these new contexts for theorizing this book opens up a gold mine of theoretical and practical possibilities Reflective Practice for Teachers Maura Sellars, 2013-12-16 The text provides powerful opportunities to challenge thinking and to encourage trainee teachers to articulate and justify their beliefs about the purposes of education the nature of learning and the impact this has on their own developing practice in the classroom Marnie Seymour Senior Lecturer in Primary Education University of Winchester Through a variety of stimulus questions and a focus on what does this mean for you this book encourages pre service teachers to develop habits of reflection that will guide their achievement of an authentic teacher identity Linley Cornish Associate Professor School of Education University of New England Australia An essential aspect of teaching is being able to reflect on your own practice and analyse your professional actions and use this process to develop as a successful teacher Reflective Practice for Teachers

Throughout the world teacher education is once more in the spotlight This book focuses on recent trends and experiences in England and Wales where external pressures have caused tension between the technician model of teacher education in which teachers learn primarily on the job alongside colleagues and traditional forms of teacher education based in higher education institutions This tension superficially replicates an old dichotomy between practice and theory The contributors to this volume reflect on ideas and attempts to integrate theory and practice Key questions and themes recur the balance and relationship between work done in school on the job and work away from the workplace such as in universities teacher education as a partnership activity and the need to critically examine the institutional cultural and
