Biogeochemical Dynamics at Major River-Coastal Interfaces Thomas Bianchi, Mead Allison, Wei-Jun Cai, 2014 A comprehensive state of the art synthesis of biogeochemical dynamics and the impact of human alterations at major river coastal interfaces for advanced students and researchers

Dealing with biases Hendrik Feiken, 2014-09-18 This book explores the bias that is introduced by erosion and sedimentation on the distribution of archaeological materials in Mediterranean landscapes. It describes innovative and interdisciplinary work that led to the formulation of a broad range of geo archaeological approaches that are applied to two Italian areas studied intensively by the Groningen Institute of Archaeology: the Pontine Region in South Lazio and the Raganello Basin in North Calabria. The approaches deal with geological biases affecting the study of protohistoric remains in the sedimentary part of the Pontine plain, the development of a detailed landscape classification approach to predict and test site location preferences and survey biases in the uplands of both study areas and the development and evaluation of an innovative computerised landscape evolution model for a test area in the Raganello Basin uplands. In addition to the presented case study, this book also shows how the three geo archaeological approaches can be applied in a wider context to quantitatively understand how erosion and sedimentation bias our understanding of archaeological records

Long Term Hillslope and Fluvial System Modelling Andreas Lang, Kirsten P. Hennrich, Richard Dikau, 2008-01-26 This volume presents a collection of papers given at a Rhine LUCIFS Land use and climate impact on fluvial systems, the aim being to bring together researchers with longstanding experience in developing concepts and modelling approaches for long term landscape evolution and scientists involved in more classical studies on the evolution of the Rhine river system. It is divided into two parts: part one reviews the Rhine river system and gives case studies to demonstrate the types of data that can be extracted from sedimentary archives. Part two provides a state of the art review on concepts for fluvial system research as well as modelling the components of large river basins written by leading European scientists in this field

Rivers and Floodplains John S. Bridge, 2009-04-01 Rivers and Floodplains is concerned with the origin, geometry, water flow, sediment transport, erosion and deposition associated with modern alluvial rivers and floodplains, how they vary in time and space and how this information is used to interpret deposits of ancient rivers and floodplains. There is specific reference to the types and lifestyles of organisms associated with fluvial environments, human interactions with rivers and floodplains, associated environmental and engineering concerns as well as the economic aspects of fluvial deposits, particularly the modeling of fluvial hydrocarbon reservoirs and aquifers. Methods of studying rivers and floodplains and their deposits are also discussed. Although basic principles are emphasized, many examples are detailed. Particular emphasis is placed on how an understanding of the nature of modern rivers and floodplains is required before any problems concerning rivers and floodplains, past or present, can be addressed rationally. Rivers and Floodplains is designed as a core text for senior undergraduate and graduate students studying modern or ancient fluvial environments, particularly in earth sciences environmental sciences and physical geography but also in civil and agricultural engineering College teachers researchers and practising professionals will also find the book an invaluable reference Presents a process based approach which is relevant to modern curricula Discusses methods of studying rivers and floodplains and their deposits Provides many detailed examples throughout the text Emphasises the basic principles of this subject As the first synthesis of this entire field it will be a must have for all students studying modern or ancient fluvial environments Teachers researchers and practising professionals will find this an invaluable reference tool Rivers and Floodplains will also be of interest to geologists geographers and engineers Alluvial Archaeology in Europe Andrew J. Howard, M.G. Macklin, D.G. Passmore, 2003-01-01

This book documents and assesses over ten years of research in the field bringing together expertise and knowledge from the disciplines of archaeology and geomorphology and highlighting important recent advances discoveries and new directions Reflecting the wide scope of current research in this area the book contains over twenty papers focusing on various aspects of alluvial archaeology from the methodology of dating prospecting excavating etc to previously under analysed geographical areas such as intertidal wetlands

Water in the Roman World Martin Henig, Jason Lundock, 2022-08-11 Offering a wide and expansive new treatment of the role water played in the lives of people across the Roman world papers consider ports and their lighthouses water engineering whether for canals in the north west provinces or for the digging of wells for drinking water baths for swimming and spas

Flooding and Management of Large Fluvial Lowlands Paul F. Hudson, 2021-11-25 Pressure on large fluvial lowlands has increased tremendously during the past twenty years because of flood control urbanization and increased dependence upon floodplains and deltas for food production This book examines human impacts on lowland rivers and discusses how these changes affect different types of riverine environments and flood processes Surveying a global range of large rivers it provides a primary focus on the lower Rhine River in the Netherlands and the Lower Mississippi River in Louisiana A particular focus of the book is on geo engineering which is described in a straight forward writing style that is accessible to a broad audience of advanced students researchers and practitioners in global environmental change fluvial geomorphology and sedimentology and flood and water management

Origin of the Dutch coastal landscape Peter Vos, 2015-06-30 The topic of this book is the Origin of the Dutch coastal landscape during the Holocene The landscape evolution is visualized in series of palaeogeographical maps and the driving mechanisms behind the environmental changes are discussed The practice to make palaeogeographical map reconstructions in the Netherlands developed after the Second World War when a lot of regional geological and soil scientific mapping programs were carried out by government institutions and universities These maps show when and how the surveyed sediments were formed The palaeogeographical map reconstructions are subsequently used for the understanding and modeling of the long term coastal evolution coastal management issues landscape archaeological purposes and for education and public information reasons Geoarchaeological investigations play an important role in this study Geological and palaeo environmental data from archaeological excavations key sites provided essential information for the palaeolandscape reconstructions In the presented regional and local case studies of this book examples of these sites are shown The Nile: Natural and Cultural Landscape in Egypt Harco Willems, Jan-Michael Dahms, 2017-03-15 Although Herodotus dictum that Egypt is a gift of the Nile is proverbial there has been only scant attention to the way the river impacted on ancient Egyptian society Egyptologists frequently focus on the textual and iconographic record whereas archaeologists and earth scientists approach the issue from the perspective of natural sciences The contributions in this volume bridge this gap by analyzing the river both as a natural and as a cultural phenomenon Adopting an approach of cultural ecology it addresses issues like ancient land use administration and taxation irrigation and religious concepts The Dover Bronze Age Boat in Context B  at Arnold, 2004 The remains of a Bronze Age boat discovered in Dover in 1992 was one of the most important British archaeological finds of the later twentieth century The complex perfectly preserved sewn plank boat dating from the second millennium BC was not only a remarkable find in its own right but it also alluded to a highly sophisticated society that made and used the boat more than three and a half millennia ago The authors build a picture of what life was like at the time that the Dover boat set sail from its marine environment and seaworthiness boat building techniques and materials to the possible social and religious perceptions of boats and sea voyages more generally They explore the implications of the discovery for Bronze Age society water transport and cultural contact in a European context from the shores of Britain through northern and central Europe to the eastern Mediterranean and beyond BOOK JACKET Symposium Landschaftsarch  ologie und Geographische Informationssysteme, 2003 Under the Sea: Archaeology and Palaeolandscapes of the Continental Shelf Geoffrey N. Bailey, Jan Harff, Dimitris Sakellariou, 2017-05-16 This book focuses on issues of method and interpretation in studies of submerged landscapes concentrating on illustrations and case studies from around Europe with additional examples from other parts of the world Such landscapes were once exposed as dry land during the low sea levels that prevailed during the glacial periods that occupied most of the past million years and provided extensive new territories for human exploitation Their study today involves underwater investigation using techniques and strategies which are clearly set out in these chapters The underwater landscape provides a rich source of information about the archaeology of human settlement and long term changes in environment climate and sea level This book highlights how such information can be revealed and interpreted The examples presented here and the focus on techniques make this book of worldwide relevance Chapters describe examples of underwater archaeological investigation as well as collaboration with offshore industries and legal management and training issues relating to underwater cultural heritage Such studies point to the significance of this drowned landscape and readers are invited to consider its human impact in terms of past settlement and population dispersal through palaeolandscape reconstruction and interpretation in relation to broader themes in human prehistory This volume is based on work from COST Action SPLASHCOS a four year multi disciplinary and multi national research program supported by COST European Cooperation in Science and Technology and has something to benefit all those with an interest in the sea floor of the continental shelf and the archaeological and social impact of sea level change including archaeologists marine scientists geographers cultural heritage managers commercial and governmental organisations policy makers and interested members of the public

A Living Landscape Stijn Arnoldussen, 2008 Today half the Netherlands is below sea level Because of this water management is of key importance when it comes to maintaining present day habitation of the Dutch low lands In prehistory however large parts of the Dutch landscape were highly dynamic due to ongoing fluvial sedimentation Vast deltaic areas with ceaseless river activity formed the backdrop against which prehistoric occupation took place Although such landscapes may seem inhospitable the often excellently preserved archaeological evidence indicates that people lived in these lowlands throughout prehistory This book describes why Bronze Age farmers were keen to settle here and how these prehistoric communities structured the landscape around their house sites at various scales Using a vast body of evidence from several large scale excavations in the Dutch river area the author reconstructs the changes in the cultural landscape over time Starting from the Middle Neolithic changing preferences for settlement site locations and changes in domestic architecture are traced in detail to the Iron Age However for proper understanding of the cultural landscape not only settlements but also graves and patterns of object deposition and their landscape characteristics are discussed By using evidence from over 50 major excavations yielding over 300 house plans this book contains by far the richest data set on Dutch Bronze Age settlements Most of these results have not previously been published in English making this book of over 500 pages a true academic treasure for an international audience The in depth presentation of Bronze Age settlement sites as well as the critical discussion of models and premises current in later prehistoric settlement archaeology have an important relevance stretching beyond the Dutch lowland areas on which it is based The wealth of high quality Dutch data is presented as a synthesized yet well annotated narrative that rises above mere site interpretation even more so due to its landscape scale focus Therefore this book is a must have for those interested in later prehistoric cultural landscapes and settlement archaeology

Complex Confining Layers Henk J. T. Weerts, 1996 Finding the Limits of the Limes Philip Verhagen, Jamie Joyce, Mark R. Groenhuijzen, 2019-02-08 This open access book demonstrates the application of simulation modelling and network analysis techniques in the field of Roman studies It summarizes and discusses the results of a 5 year research project carried out by the editors that aimed to apply spatial dynamical modelling to reconstruct and understand the socio economic development of the Dutch part of the Roman frontier limes zone in particular the agrarian economy and the related development of settlement patterns and transport networks in the area The project papers are accompanied by invited chapters presenting case studies and reflections from other parts of the Roman Empire focusing on the themes of subsistence economy demography transport and mobility and socio economic networks in the Roman period The book shows the added value of state of the art computer modelling techniques and bridges computational and conventional approaches Topics that will be of particular interest to archaeologists are the question of forced surplus production the demographic and economic effects of the Roman occupation on the local population and the structuring of transport networks and settlement patterns For modellers issues of sensitivity analysis and validation of modelling results are specifically addressed This book will appeal to students and researchers working in the computational humanities and social sciences in particular archaeology and ancient history

Dungeness and Romney Marsh Antony Long,Martyn Waller,Andrew J. Plater,2007-09-20 The Romney Marsh Dungeness Foreland depositional complex comprises an extensive tract of marshland and associated sand and gravel barrier deposits located in the eastern English Channel This monograph presents the results of a programme of palaeoenvironmental investigation aimed at improving our understanding of this internationally significant coastal landform The focus is on the evidence for landscape change during the late Holocene from c 3000 BC onwards and on identifying the local regional and global driving mechanisms responsible for the changes observed The research details the results from two related projects each funded as part of English Heritage s Aggregate Levy Sustainability Fund scheme The first project concerns the late Holocene evolution of the port of Rye located in the southeast part of the complex and the second the depositional history of the gravel foreland Topics explored include the vegetation and land use history of the study area methodological issues relating to the collection and interpretation of radiocarbon dates from coastal lowlands the role of compaction in influencing landscape and sea level change and the effects of medieval storms on coastal flooding and landscape change This monograph is intended for students and researchers interested in Holocene coastal evolution and sea level change coastal vegetation history and land use history and the development of new techniques for reconstructing past environmental change in coastal lowlands

Late Quaternary Environmental Change Martin Bell,M.J.C. Walker,2014-07-10 Late Quaternary Environmental Change addresses the interaction between human agency and other environmental factors in the landscapes particularly of the temperate zone Taking an ecological approach the authors cover the last 20 000 years during which the climate has shifted from arctic severity to the conditions of the present interglacial environment
