Osborn-Harrison, 2016-12-15 Moves beyond traditional definitions of patient centered care to improve the experience of a real person as patient How might the entire system for producing delivering and paying for health care be changed so that real people fare better than they currently do This text applies person focused principles to health management decision making aimed at improving the personal experience of care within health care institutions to improve outcomes and cost savings Written and edited by distinguished educators and researchers with decades of health care policy experience the text examines how health care managers can initiate and direct the process of system transformation by understanding and using a greater person focus in their decision making It encompasses the key domains of management competencies defined by the AUPHA CAHME and NCHL The text brings together experts across a variety of health care management disciplines to examine how managerial decisions affect the personal experience of patient care It is based on observations that many of the current problems facing health care managers are caused by lack of attention to what happens when real people are transformed into patients and treated routinely by the US health care system Moving beyond traditional definitions of patient centered care the book explores how our entire system for producing delivering and paying for care can be changed so that the internal experience of people receiving care is a positive one The book helps to develop specific rules for improving the experience of care through better managerial decision making Case studies with discussion questions facilitate creative problem solving based on sound decision making Also included are extensive links to online content along with an Instructor s Manual PowerPoint slides and more Key Features Describes how the person focused model leads to better outcomes Discusses the impact of management decisions on the personal experience of clinical care Addresses the personal and clinical problems created through our current system s standard health care delivery and financing Applies basic principles of management decision making to key operational issues to improve the personal experience of care Fulfills key learning competencies defined by AUPHA CAHME and NCHL

The Philosophy of Person-Centred Healthcare Derek Mitchell, Michael Loughlin, 2022-11-22 This book sets out a philosophical basis for person centred healthcare primarily using work by Heidegger and Gadamer but drawing on ideas derived from Aristotle and process philosophy in order to show how practice can be improved and how examples of person centred practice can be transferred between individuals and institutions involved in the commissioning and provision of healthcare By providing an underlying architectonic this work will help to enable practitioners to understand the benefits of person centred healthcare practice in promoting autonomy in those who are suffering from chronic and other illnesses The text takes a phenomenological approach to healthcare because it offers a rich and subtle way of thinking about how we know what we know and this applies to our knowledge and understanding of how healthcare works just as much as it does to all other kinds of knowledge For those in clinical practice this book provides a guide to the thinking behind person centred healthcare
