The Destruction of Cultural Heritage in Iraq Peter G. Stone, Joanne Farchakh Bajjaly, 2008 Discussion of the issues surrounding the destruction of cultural property in times of conflict has become a key issue for debate around the world This book provides an historical statement as of 1st March 2006 concerning the destruction of the cultural heritage in Iraq In a series of chapters it outlines the personal stories of a number of individuals who were and in most cases continue to be involved These individuals are involved at all levels and come from various points along the political spectrum giving a rounded and balanced perspective so easily lost in single authored reports It also provides the first views written by Iraqis on the situation of archaeology in Iraq under Saddam and an overview and contextualisation of the issues surrounding the looting theft and destruction of the archaeological sites the Iraqi National museum and the libraries in Baghdad since the war was launched in 2003 Beyond this it examines our attitudes towards the preservation of cultural and heritage resources and in particular the growing political awareness of their importance Although related to a single conflict taking place at a specific time in history the relevance of this work goes far beyond these self imposed boundaries PETER STONE is Professor of Heritage Studies and Head of School of Arts and Cultures at Newcastle University JOANNE FARCHAKH BAJJALY is a Lebanese archaeologist and Middle East correspondent for the French magazine Arch ologia

The History of Operation Iraqi Freedom Edward Emering, 2012-10-31 This work provides a complete review of Operation Iraqi Freedom from 2003 to its official conclusion on September 1 2010 It covers all combatant nation detailing their contributions assignments in Iraq and their awards Many of the images have been contributed by the participants themselves and detail numerous many never before seen awards

Antiquities Under Siege Lawrence Rothfield, 2008 As Saddam Hussein's government fell in April 2003 news accounts detailed the pillage of Iraq's National Museum The museum's looting grabbed headlines worldwide and public attention briefly focused on Iraq's threatened cultural heritage Less dramatic though far more devastating was the subsequent epidemic of looting at thousands of archaeological sites around the country Illegal digging on a massive scale continues to this day virtually unchecked with

Iraq's ten thousand officially recognized sites being destroyed at a rate of roughly 10 percent per year. This book contains the first full published account of the disasters that have befallen Iraq's cultural heritage and it analyzes why the array of laws and international conventions, the advocacy efforts of cultural heritage organizations and the military planning and implementation of cultural protection operations all failed and continue to fail to prevent massive and irreversible loss. Looking forward, the book identifies new planning procedures, policy mechanisms and implementation strategies capable of succeeding so the mistakes of Iraq will not be replicated in other regions in crisis whose cultural heritage are at risk. Both archaeologists and policy makers will benefit from this detailed study. Assembly West Point Association of Graduates (Organization), 2005. Papers Relating to the Foreign Relations of the United States United States. Department of State, 1996. Index to Poetry and Recitations Edith Granger, 1904. Taiwan's Defense Reform Martin Edmonds, Michael M. Tsai, 2012-07-11. The stand off across the Straits of Taiwan continues to be one of the most dangerous confrontations in Asia. The technical superiority of the Taiwanese forces has been a major factor in maintaining balance but as mainland China's armed forces modernize Taiwan's advantages are being eroded. In response Taiwan has recently undertaken a major reform of its armed forces. Bringing together a wide range of experts including people who are involved in defence policy making in Taiwan, this book presents a comprehensive analysis of these reforms and assesses their likely effectiveness. Chapters are devoted to issues including the Chinese threat, the domestic context of reform, the role of the United States and specific defence issues, making the book an invaluable guide to the changes undertaken and underway within Taiwan's strategic environment. With a foreword by Taiwanese President Chen Shui-bian, Taiwan's Defense Reform will be of interest to policy makers and academics working in this vital strategic area. An Index to Poetry and Recitations Edith Granger, 1904. Military Review, 2009.
